Rusk Convinced France Will Aid In Atom Defense

De Gaulle Gives No Firm Pledge

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported convinced Wednesday President Charles de Gaulle will put France's future nuclear striking force at the disposal of Western defense strategy.

Rusk came away from a meeting with De Gaulle Tuesday and talks with Premier Georges Pompidou and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville Wednesday with the feeling that once France has become a full-fledged nuclear power it will be a fully cooperative partner in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, informed sources said.

Future Decision, French Say

But French sources insisted that all this is something to be settled after France has its nuclear force in operation.

France has exploded five nuclear devices but does not pretend to possess an effective nuclear arsenal.

The United States has been seeking to talk the French out of building its own nuclear force on the grounds it would be dangerous and in effective as a deterrent against a Communist attack.

Rusk had another meeting scheduled with Couve de Murville for Thursday. The U.S. secretary is on a tour of Western Europe to shore up unity within the Western alliance.

The mechanics for coordinating France's future atomic force with the massive U.S. nuclear arsenal, and with the less important British atomic power, were left open since the French force does not yet exist.

The informed sources said Rusk felt this question could be handled at a more appropriate time—possibly when Britain has entered the European Common Market and the European Political Union. Then, the whole Western European situation will have greatly changed.

'K' Talk Delayed As Storm Sets Off Near Panic

ONESTI, Romania (AP) — A thunderstorm, a bolt of lightning and a workers' stampede to shelter nearly broke up a mass meeting addressed Wednesday by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Minutes before Khrushchev was to drive up to address the meeting at a big new oil-chemical plant under construction here, the violent thunderstorm broke.

Lightning struck a nearby building, and a mass of piping fell onto a large tank with a loud crash.

Shouting, the workers broke and ran for a machine shop 300 yards away, smashing down a door as they went in and carrying their flags and placards with them. The improvised hall was so jammed with 2,000 workers that one fainted from the heat.

The management, nearly overwhelmed by what one called a disaster, hurriedly laid out a carpet for their guest, brought in flower pots and pictures of Khrushchev and rearranged microphones and loudspeakers.

Khrushchev finally launched into his speech, 90 minutes late.

"The Soviet Union does not want war. It will fight for disarmament and a nuclear test ban," he said.

"Should the Socialist countries be attacked by capitalism they will be rebuffed by socialism."

Kennedy, Menzies See Trade Solutions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said Wednesday they believed satisfactory solutions could be found to trade problems of their two countries.

They issued a communique after three days of talks that covered among other things Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market.

They agreed that technical talks will be held to reconcile the trading interests of the United States and Australia.

Reds Ridicule High Altitude A-Shot Failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some U.S. officials conceded Wednesday that failure for the second time of this country's effort to fire a nuclear device at a high altitude is a propaganda embarrassment.

But the officials said they expected only a temporary setback in the nuclear test program itself—a setback in the time schedule of the Pacific tests, not in the atomic development aspects.

In both failures, it was the carrier rocket system—not the nuclear device—that malfunctioned. On June 4, the tracking system went awry. This time there was undisclosed trouble in the missile itself.

The Air Force was particularly chagrined, since the flops marred the otherwise good record of its Thor missiles. The Thor has been used 82 times in a variety of space and scientific experiments. It was rated a success in 72 of those shots.

In addition, the Thor has been test fired 71 times in its war missile form—49 of these called successful.

Nonetheless, intentional destruction of the Thor in the latest nuclear test try gave the Soviets an opening—and they stepped right in.

Radio Moscow spoke gleefully of "the imperfection of the American rockets."

The broadcast also tried to stir concern that a runaway rocket might carry a nuclear device over inhabited territory.

U.S. officials dismissed that possibility. They noted that the test area around Christmas and Johnston Islands is hundreds of miles from the nearest land and that safety officers lose no time in destroying a malfunctioning rocket before it can get very far.

In this case, the government said some debris from the Thor fell on Johnston and a nearby island, with the remainder plunging into the Pacific well within the safety area.

The nuclear device — estimated unofficially to have packed a punch equal to about 10 million tons of TNT—did not explode.

As it did after the June 4 shot, the government stressed there will be no danger to human life or hazardous levels of radioactivity in the ocean.

U.S. Mountain Team Missing

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Fears were expressed here Wednesday night for the safety of a four-man American Himalayan expedition headed by Woodrow Wilson Sayre, a grandson of President Woodrow Wilson.

The four set out in March to climb 25,910-foot Gya Chungkang peak.

They left their base camp in eastern Nepal May 2 for the final ascent. Since then nothing has been heard from them.

Before the expedition left, Sayre told newsmen in Katmandu his team of amateur climbers would make a leisurely ascent of the mountain.

"We want to enjoy our journey, see the country and have fun," Sayre added.

Gya Chungkang, which has never been climbed lies 12 miles east of Mt. Everest.

Sayre, 43, is a Tufts University professor. Other members of the team are Norman Hansen, 36, Boston lawyer; Roger Alan Hart, 21, a Tufts research student, and Hans Peter Duttle, a school teacher who has Swiss citizenship.

Stockpiling Probers Told Of Juggling

Arthur Flemming, Former Defense Mobilizer, Accused

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's defense mobilizer, acting on "someone's" orders, tinkered with the critical materials stockpile and wasted taxpayers' money to help the lead-zinc mining industry, a mobilization official testified Wednesday.

William N. Lawrence, a deputy director in the Office of Emergency Planning (OEP), said former Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming pushed stockpile target objectives higher and higher by disregarding presidential directives and even his own previous instructions.

The higher stockpile objectives were used to justify purchases of lead and zinc that were not needed for defense mobilization purposes, Lawrence told the Senate armed services subcommittee studying the stockpile problem.

Order Giver Not Revealed

"He (Flemming) had directions," Lawrence said. But he said Flemming never told him who gave the orders.

Lawrence said Flemming's staff was dismayed by the juggling of stockpile targets. "I don't think anybody enjoyed wasting money like we did," the career civil servant testified.

Statistics supplied by the subcommittee showed that the government purchased $204.4 million worth of lead and zinc in the 1954-1958 period. The purchases contributed markedly to current surpluses of 1.4 mililon tons of zinc and 1 million tons of lead.

At current market prices the lead-zinc inventories show paper losses of $284.7 million. The market would drop further if the government tried to unload any substantial quantity of surpluses.

Instructions Modified

Lawrence said the zinc-lead buying program started in 1954 with a presidential directive permitting long-range stockpile objectives for any material to be fixed at not less than one year's normal domestic consumption.

The July 6, 1954, White House directive, prepared by Flemming, modified previous instructions and affected only three critical materials — lead, zinc and antimony. It permitted additional purchases of 450,000 tons of lead and 310,000 tons of zinc.

Snag Threatens Laos Accord

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—With time running out, a deadlock persisted Wednesday night between rival Laotian factions on the phrasing of a royal decree for the inauguration of the new coalition government.

"You must be patient" and wait for a statement, neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, the premier-designate, told newsmen who questioned him in the garden of his villa.

The agreement on the coalition signed at Khang Khay June 12 stipulated the first Cabinet session must be held within 10 days. That would be by Friday.

If the Cabinet doesn't meet then, an informed source said, some people may say the agreement is no longer valid and everything will again be thrown into the pot.

Any prolonged delay in the inauguration, originally scheduled for last Monday, also could wreck plans for reconvening of the 14-national Laotian conference in Geneva, tentatively set for early July. The Cabinet is supposed to select a unified delegation to represent Laos in winding up that conference.

Roosa Predicts Big Drop In Gold Outflow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Undersecretary of the Treasury Robert V. Roosa said Wednesday he thinks the drain on U.S. gold reserves this year will be less than a billion dollars.

He told the Senate Banking Committee that he hopes it may drop as low as $750 million, compared to about $857 million in 1961 and slightly over $1.7 billion in 1960. To date this year, he said, it amounts to about $450 million.

Roosa's figures on the hoped-for reduction in the outflow of gold were coupled with testimony that the nation's balance of payments deficit is currently running at an annual rate of $1.5 billion, compared to $2.5 billion last year and $3.9 billion in 1960.

Bone City Hall Burned By OAS Incendiarists

ALGIERS (AP)—Flames of a renewed scorched earth campaign soared Wednesday in Bone, signaling the union of eastern Algeria's Secret Organization terrorists with those of the west in active opposition to the peace pact of Algiers.

European incendiarists burned down City Hall and two other buildings in Bone, a major Mediterranean seaport 260 miles east of Algiers. French troops ringed City Hall as it crumbled. Tension gripped the people.

Fire blazed too at Oran in western Algeria. A blast wrecked a large natural gas installation there. Tongues of flame leaped 300 feet into the air as the gas whistled aloft. Specialists rushed to shut off the pipeline carrying the gas from the Hassi R'mel field in the Sahara.

Fugitive ex-Col. Pierre Chauteau-Jobert, who commands the secret army's eastern Algerian zone, vowed to continue resistance to the independence the Moslem majority is expected to choose in the territorial referendum July 1.

The whole uneasy truce worked out last weekend in Algiers was menaced. This was an oral compact between a secret army officer, Jean-Jacques Susini, 28, and Dr. Chewki Mostefai of the Moslem Front of National Liberation.

European labor unions declared they will order a general exodus of Europeans from Algeria—dwarfing the current unorganized flight of about 9,000 persons a day—unless self-governing zones are set up for Europeans in western Algeria by June 30.

The unions in a statement called for collective guarantees based on international law for the European settlers.

The Algerian nationalist exile regime in Tunis repeatedly has rejected the idea of separate zones for Europeans.

Contractor Clipped For $1,400 In Two Miami Beach Clubs

$2.35 Champagne Sold For $30 Or $40

WASHINGTON (AP) — For $30 or $40 you can buy a bottle of champagne in some Miami night clubs that sells for $2.35 in the liquor stores.

If you are unlucky you may wind up like the Bronx, N.Y., contractor whose misadventures were related before the Senate Investigations subcommittee Wednesday by Daniel P. Sullivan, director of the Greater Miami Crime Commission.

Sullivan said the contractor, who wasn't named, arrived in Miami Beach a couple of years ago with $600 cash and $800 in travelers checks in his pockets. Within a few hours, after visits to two clubs, he found himself sitting in a taxicab stone broke and not knowing how he got there.

"You can sit down and in 30 minutes spend $100 and wonder what happened," said Floyd Golden, beverage board supervisor in Tampa. Golden said the use of knockout drops is not unknown at strip clubs in the Fort Lauderdale area. He said one man was robbed of $550 after a B-girl slipped him a "Mickey Finn."

Golden and Shelton Kemp, Miami area supervisor for the Florida Beverage Board, were among other witnesses at the subcommittee's hearing into allegations of collusion between the American Guild of Variety Artists—AGVA—and shady night club operators.

AGVA is the AFL-CIO union to which entertainers belong.

Sullivan testified that since World War II Miami has seen a big increase in the number of strip tease clubs that use B-girls to peddle drinks and sex.

Asserting conditions are so blatant that only a blind man could fail to see them, Sullivan said the police and AGVA officials must be aware of what is going on.

In Miami, Police Chief Walter Headley said he knew nothing about Sullivan's accusations. "The B-girl situation has been whipped," Headley said. "Those places are all out of business."

Sullivan said he has seen no evidence that AGVA ever tried to enforce contract clauses against requiring girl entertainers to double as bar girls and solicit drinks.

Reds Thwart Wall Breakout

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Interior Ministry reported Wednesday night the frustration of a breakout attempt by a dozen men through Berlin's Red wall.

The ministry said the men planned to crash through the wall in a stolen truck Sunday night and that the attempt was engineered from West Berlin with the intention of having the refugees put on a show at a big rally attended by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

It said West Berlin police reinforcements were at the wall ready to give protective fire and the U.S. radio in West Berlin, RIAS, was primed to broadcast interviews with the men.

Adenauer and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt addressed a huge rally in West Berlin last Monday, the anniversary of the abortive 1953 East German revolt against communism.

The escape plan was broken up, the Interior Ministry said, when border guards stopped the truck. It named a dozen men, seven of them with alleged criminal records. But it indicated some on the truck escaped capture.

Union Pulls Back Pan Am, EAL Offer

TWA Talks Pushed; Kennedy Heads Off American Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The complicated airline labor controversy took a turn for the worse Wednesday night with cancellation by flight engineers of their previous offer to arbitrate economic issues with Pan American and Eastern Air Lines.

Government mediators, led by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, have been working steadily on the tangled airline labor troubles for a week and have been concentrating on settling a similar contract dispute with Trans World Airlines.

The mediators submitted a settlement proposal to the engineers' two negotiators Tuesday that still hasn't been either accepted or rejected.

Goldberg reported progress late Wednesday in the TWA talks but said he still had no settlement to report. The talks were continuing.

The engineers' announcement that they were backing away from economic issue arbitration on Pan Am and Eastern appeared to mean that the situation on those two airlines has been deteriorating. It indicated possibly also Goldberg's "package" settlement to TWA was unacceptable to the union's branches on the other two carriers.

American Strike Headed Off

President Kennedy, meanwhile, stepped in Wednesday to delay for at least 60 days a strike threatened for midnight Friday on American Airlines.

The labor difficulties on TWA, Pan Am and Eastern involved different questions and different unions than those involved in the dispute with American. But a shutdown on any would disrupt the nation's air service.

Kennedy applied the brakes to the strike against American—set for midnight Friday—by appointing an emergency board to investigate the contract deadlock between the airline and the Transport Workers Union. This AFL-CIO union represents 9,000 maintenance, stores and communications workers and 1,500 stewardesses.

Fact-Finders Have 30 Days

The board, to be named later under the Railway Labor Act, has 30 days to give Kennedy its findings and recommendations for a settlement. Another 30 days are allowed for efforts to reach agreement.

A strike was averted a couple of months ago when a federal mediator was appointed. Kennedy accepted the judgment Wednesday of the National Mediation Board that the situation threatened to disrupt interstate commerce by depriving a section of the country of essential air service.

All of these procedures have been exhausted in TWA's dispute with the AFL-CIO Flight Engineers International Association over reducing the crews from four to three men. The big question is whether the third man shall be an engineer trained as a pilot or a pilot trained as an engineer.

Farm Bill Rights Rider Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats of all political shades beat back a Republican attempt Wednesday to scuttle the administration's farm bill by tacking on a civil rights rider.

A big push for a final vote on the far-reaching bill will come Thursday.

The civil rights amendment, offered by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., would have required that any recreation facilities built with federal help under the bill's land use section be non-segregated. It was defeated on a straight party-line teller vote, with even Negro Democratic members voting against it.

France Negotiating For 12 Tanker Planes

WASHINGTON (AP)—France is negotiating for 12 American-built tanker planes for its air force and is expected to complete the deal this week, Defense Department officials reported Wednesday.

The proposed contract with Boeing Aircraft Co. tentatively calls for purchase of six KC135 jet tankers this year and another six next year. They may be used both for cargo and for airborne refueling, the French indicated.

Model A Ford Caravan Starts Trip Across U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Hitting on all four cylinders, 25 model A Fords with old-car sentimentalists at their steering wheels set forth westward across the nation Wednesday.

If the drivers and a truckload of spare parts hold out, the motoring group hopes to make it to San Francisco and back in a month. This will include 10 days for a meeting of the Model A Ford Club of America in San Francisco.

As if they didn't have enough worries, the doughty automobilists had trouble even getting out of New York. Their venerable vehicles caused a traffic jam in Times Square as modern motorists and sidewalk spectators paused to stare.

New York Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes, who has been blowing gaskets trying to speed up city traffic, got snagged in the mess and was nearly 20 minutes late to a speaking engagement.

At any rate, the Ford fans finally rolled out of town with suitcases strapped to running boards (remember?), rumble seats (ah, bet some of you romantics remember those), and in the "turtle backs."

The men at the wheels wore blazers and straw hats reminiscent of the late 1920s, when the nation awaited the much-advertised appearance of Henry Ford's successor to the model T.

The caravan was organized by the club's New Jersey chapter and was expected to grow to about 250 cars en route.

Stopping places will include Somerset, Pa.; South Bend, Ind.; Des Moines, Iowa; North Platte, Neb.; Rawlins, Wyo.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Reno, Nev.

Shirley MacLaine Has Woes In USSR; Threatens To Do Can-Can At Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP) — Shirley MacLaine is so frustrated by 10 days in the Soviet Union that she said she would like to come back and "dance the can-can naked in Red Square every May Day."

The frustrations of the Hollywood actress included robbery of her baggage in Leningrad, a balky draw bridge and being tossed out of her hotel room at midnight. Besides that she had to pay for her trip twice.

Weary after a night out on the town at Leningrad and only a few winks in a chair in the hotel lobby, she returned to Moscow late Wednesday and refused to allow Soviet officials to hush up her misadventures.

Such petty crimes as the theft of a valuable bag are not supposed to exist in Soviet society, or at least are not often reported in the press. Soviet film officials met the Virginia-born actress at the airport and spent an hour with her at her hotel.

Her secretary, Loretta Lee, told newsmen: "They don't want us to say anything about what happened in Leningrad."

But Miss MacLaine said: "Facts are facts and are difficult to deny when they are seen."

In making her threat to dance the can-can in front of the Kremlin, the vivacious 28-year-old star doubtless had in mind the comment of Premier Khrushchev when he saw her filming "Can-Can" during his visit to the United States in 1959. He said it was immoral and that he was shocked.

Miss MacLaine said at first she enjoyed her 10-day tour here because none of her movies has been shown in the Soviet Union and she could move about freely without attracting crowds.

She was having such a good time in a talkfest Tuesday night with some of the students at Leningrad University—Americans as well as Russians—that she did not want to break if off to catch the midnight train to Moscow.

But officials of Intourist, the government agency that handles travel, assumed she was taking the train and set all her baggage in the hotel lobby.

When she got back to the plush Astoria Hotel, the bag had been stolen, and officials refused to give her another room. The bag contained her plane tickets back to the United States, films and notes made in the Soviet Union.

"About eight policemen showed up but all they did was stand around and look at us," said the actress.

Miss Lee got a place to sleep

Bone City Hall Burned By OAS Incendiarists

ALGIERS (AP)—Flames of a renewed scorched earth campaign soared Wednesday in Bone, signaling the union of eastern Algeria's Secret Organization terrorists with those of the west in active opposition to the peace pact of Algiers.

European incendiarists burned down City Hall and two other buildings in Bone, a major Mediterranean seaport 260 miles east of Algiers. French troops ringed City Hall as it crumbled. Tension gripped the people.

Fire blazed too at Oran in western Algeria. A blast wrecked a large natural gas installation there. Tongues of flame leaped 300 feet into the air as the gas whistled aloft. Specialists rushed to shut off the pipeline carrying the gas from the Hassi R'mel field in the Sahara.

Fugitive ex-Col. Pierre Chauteau-Jobert, who commands the secret army's eastern Algerian zone, vowed to continue resistance to the independence the Moslem majority is expected to choose in the territorial referendum July 1.

The whole uneasy truce worked out last weekend in Algiers was menaced. This was an oral compact between a secret army officer, Jean-Jacques Susini, 28, and Dr. Chewki Mostefai of the Moslem Front of National Liberation.

European labor unions declared they will order a general exodus of Europeans from Algeria—dwarfing the current unorganized flight of about 9,000 persons a day—unless self-governing zones are set up for Europeans in western Algeria by June 30.

The unions in a statement called for collective guarantees based on international law for the European settlers.

The Algerian nationalist exile regime in Tunis repeatedly has rejected the idea of separate zones for Europeans.

Contractor Clipped For $1,400 In Two Miami Beach Clubs

$2.35 Champagne Sold For $30 Or $40

WASHINGTON (AP) — For $30 or $40 you can buy a bottle of champagne in some Miami night clubs that sells for $2.35 in the liquor stores.

If you are unlucky you may wind up like the Bronx, N.Y., contractor whose misadventures were related before the Senate Investigations subcommittee Wednesday by Daniel P. Sullivan, director of the Greater Miami Crime Commission.

Sullivan said the contractor, who wasn't named, arrived in Miami Beach a couple of years ago with $600 cash and $800 in travelers checks in his pockets. Within a few hours, after visits to two clubs, he found himself sitting in a taxicab stone broke and not knowing how he got there.

"You can sit down and in 30 minutes spend $100 and wonder what happened," said Floyd Golden, beverage board supervisor in Tampa. Golden said the use of knockout drops is not unknown at strip clubs in the Fort Lauderdale area. He said one man was robbed of $550 after a B-girl slipped him a "Mickey Finn."

Golden and Shelton Kemp, Miami area supervisor for the Florida Beverage Board, were among other witnesses at the subcommittee's hearing into allegations of collusion between the American Guild of Variety Artists—AGVA—and shady night club operators.

AGVA is the AFL-CIO union to which entertainers belong.

Sullivan testified that since World War II Miami has seen a big increase in the number of strip tease clubs that use B-girls to peddle drinks and sex.

Asserting conditions are so blatant that only a blind man could fail to see them, Sullivan said the police and AGVA officials must be aware of what is going on.

In Miami, Police Chief Walter Headley said he knew nothing about Sullivan's accusations. "The B-girl situation has been whipped," Headley said. "Those places are all out of business."

Sullivan said he has seen no evidence that AGVA ever tried to enforce contract clauses against requiring girl entertainers to double as bar girls and solicit drinks.

Reds Thwart Wall Breakout

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Interior Ministry reported Wednesday night the frustration of a breakout attempt by a dozen men through Berlin's Red wall.

The ministry said the men planned to crash through the wall in a stolen truck Sunday night and that the attempt was engineered from West Berlin with the intention of having the refugees put on a show at a big rally attended by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

It said West Berlin police reinforcements were at the wall ready to give protective fire and the U.S. radio in West Berlin, RIAS, was primed to broadcast interviews with the men.

Adenauer and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt addressed a huge rally in West Berlin last Monday, the anniversary of the abortive 1953 East German revolt against communism.

The escape plan was broken up, the Interior Ministry said, when border guards stopped the truck. It named a dozen men, seven of them with alleged criminal records. But it indicated some on the truck escaped capture.

Union Pulls Back Pan Am, EAL Offer

TWA Talks Pushed; Kennedy Heads Off American Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The complicated airline labor controversy took a turn for the worse Wednesday night with cancellation by flight engineers of their previous offer to arbitrate economic issues with Pan American and Eastern Air Lines.

Government mediators, led by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, have been working steadily on the tangled airline labor troubles for a week and have been concentrating on settling a similar contract dispute with Trans World Airlines.

The mediators submitted a settlement proposal to the engineers' two negotiators Tuesday that still hasn't been either accepted or rejected.

Goldberg reported progress late Wednesday in the TWA talks but said he still had no settlement to report. The talks were continuing.

The engineers' announcement that they were backing away from economic issue arbitration on Pan Am and Eastern appeared to mean that the situation on those two airlines has been deteriorating. It indicated possibly also Goldberg's "package" settlement to TWA was unacceptable to the union's branches on the other two carriers.

American Strike Headed Off

President Kennedy, meanwhile, stepped in Wednesday to delay for at least 60 days a strike threatened for midnight Friday on American Airlines.

The labor difficulties on TWA, Pan Am and Eastern involved different questions and different unions than those involved in the dispute with American. But a shutdown on any would disrupt the nation's air service.

Kennedy applied the brakes to the strike against American—set for midnight Friday—by appointing an emergency board to investigate the contract deadlock between the airline and the Transport Workers Union. This AFL-CIO union represents 9,000 maintenance, stores and communications workers and 1,500 stewardesses.

Fact-Finders Have 30 Days

The board, to be named later under the Railway Labor Act, has 30 days to give Kennedy its findings and recommendations for a settlement. Another 30 days are allowed for efforts to reach agreement.

A strike was averted a couple of months ago when a federal mediator was appointed. Kennedy accepted the judgment Wednesday of the National Mediation Board that the situation threatened to disrupt interstate commerce by depriving a section of the country of essential air service.

All of these procedures have been exhausted in TWA's dispute with the AFL-CIO Flight Engineers International Association over reducing the crews from four to three men. The big question is whether the third man shall be an engineer trained as a pilot or a pilot trained as an engineer.

Farm Bill Rights Rider Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats of all political shades beat back a Republican attempt Wednesday to scuttle the administration's farm bill by tacking on a civil rights rider.

A big push for a final vote on the far-reaching bill will come Thursday.

The civil rights amendment, offered by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., would have required that any recreation facilities built with federal help under the bill's land use section be non-segregated. It was defeated on a straight party-line teller vote, with even Negro Democratic members voting against it.

France Negotiating For 12 Tanker Planes

WASHINGTON (AP)—France is negotiating for 12 American-built tanker planes for its air force and is expected to complete the deal this week, Defense Department officials reported Wednesday.

The proposed contract with Boeing Aircraft Co. tentatively calls for purchase of six KC135 jet tankers this year and another six next year. They may be used both for cargo and for airborne refueling, the French indicated.

Model A Ford Caravan Starts Trip Across U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Hitting on all four cylinders, 25 model A Fords with old-car sentimentalists at their steering wheels set forth westward across the nation Wednesday.

If the drivers and a truckload of spare parts hold out, the motoring group hopes to make it to San Francisco and back in a month. This will include 10 days for a meeting of the Model A Ford Club of America in San Francisco.

As if they didn't have enough worries, the doughty automobilists had trouble even getting out of New York. Their venerable vehicles caused a traffic jam in Times Square as modern motorists and sidewalk spectators paused to stare.

New York Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes, who has been blowing gaskets trying to speed up city traffic, got snagged in the mess and was nearly 20 minutes late to a speaking engagement.

At any rate, the Ford fans finally rolled out of town with suitcases strapped to running boards (remember?), rumble seats (ah, bet some of you romantics remember those), and in the "turtle backs."

The men at the wheels wore blazers and straw hats reminiscent of the late 1920s, when the nation awaited the much-advertised appearance of Henry Ford's successor to the model T.

The caravan was organized by the club's New Jersey chapter and was expected to grow to about 250 cars en route.

Stopping places will include Somerset, Pa.; South Bend, Ind.; Des Moines, Iowa; North Platte, Neb.; Rawlins, Wyo.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Reno, Nev.

Shirley MacLaine Has Woes In USSR; Threatens To Do Can-Can At Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP) — Shirley MacLaine is so frustrated by 10 days in the Soviet Union that she said she would like to come back and "dance the can-can naked in Red Square every May Day."

The frustrations of the Hollywood actress included robbery of her baggage in Leningrad, a balky draw bridge and being tossed out of her hotel room at midnight. Besides that she had to pay for her trip twice.

Weary after a night out on the town at Leningrad and only a few winks in a chair in the hotel lobby, she returned to Moscow late Wednesday and refused to allow Soviet officials to hush up her misadventures.

Such petty crimes as the theft of a valuable bag are not supposed to exist in Soviet society, or at least are not often reported in the press. Soviet film officials met the Virginia-born actress at the airport and spent an hour with her at her hotel.

Her secretary, Loretta Lee, told newsmen: "They don't want us to say anything about what happened in Leningrad."

But Miss MacLaine said: "Facts are facts and are difficult to deny when they are seen."

In making her threat to dance the can-can in front of the Kremlin, the vivacious 28-year-old star doubtless had in mind the comment of Premier Khrushchev when he saw her filming "Can-Can" during his visit to the United States in 1959. He said it was immoral and that he was shocked.

Miss MacLaine said at first she enjoyed her 10-day tour here because none of her movies has been shown in the Soviet Union and she could move about freely without attracting crowds.

She was having such a good time in a talkfest Tuesday night with some of the students at Leningrad University—Americans as well as Russians—that she did not want to break if off to catch the midnight train to Moscow.

But officials of Intourist, the government agency that handles travel, assumed she was taking the train and set all her baggage in the hotel lobby.

When she got back to the plush Astoria Hotel, the bag had been stolen, and officials refused to give her another room. The bag contained her plane tickets back to the United States, films and notes made in the Soviet Union.

"About eight policemen showed up but all they did was stand around and look at us," said the actress.

Capital Gives Selfless Grads Big Reception

WASHINGTON (AP)—The big-hearted graduates of a small Michigan high school hit town Wednesday in a big burst of smiles and excitement on the trip they had been willing to give up to help a friend.

A rousing railroad station reception from a senator, two congressmen, reporters, cameramen and plain well-wishers opened their three-day visit to the capital.

Then the teen-agers took off in the rain in a blue bus furnished by Bolling Air Force Base here to check in at their motel and start sightseeing.

The visit was arranged and financed by Washingtonians, moved by the class' sacrifice of its class trip fund to help pay the medical bills of cancer-stricken classmate Duane Richardson.

Duane, 17, a husky, star athlete, was along for the doings. Clearly embarrassed by the attention heaped on him, he could only say, "It's wonderful."

The 21 boys, 12 girls and seven chaperones milled around the platform as they were greeted by Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va.

But the moment the Glen Lake class of '62 awaited most was Thursday's specially conducted tour of the White House, to be capped by a meeting with President Kennedy.

Magliano Runs Afoul Senate's Clock At Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Baltimore night club operator ran afoul the Senate's clock Wednesday in an effort to free himself of the threat of a contempt of Congress charge.

Contempt is punishable by up to a year in jail, and August Magliano, purported boss of the Club Troc in Baltimore, unhappily went before the Senate Investigations Subcommittee in an effort to head off its threat to prosecute him on that charge.

Magliano, also known as Nick Trotta, had invoked the Fifth Amendment Tuesday as a witness in the subcommittee's investigation of prostitution rackets in Baltimore. However, he refused then to say whether he honestly believed answers to the questions about his business or occupation might tend to incriminate him. The subcommittee called this contemptuous.

Wednesday, Myron G. Ehrlich, his Washington lawyer, told the subcommittee Magliano had decided to testify that he "does have an honest apprehension."

Looking at the clock, which by this time read 4:01 p.m., Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., ruled that "I can't take that after 4 p. m." He sustained an objection by Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., that "it would be illegal" to prolong the hearing beyond the deadline the Senate had fixed.

McClellan agreed to hear Magliano at a special subcommittee session at 10:30 a. m. Monday but warned the graying witness that this would subject him to further questioning. Magliano said nothing more.

State's Attorneys Oppose Revision Of Insanity Rule

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The Maryland State's Attorneys Association voted Wednesday to oppose any change in the McNaghten Rule for determining insanity in criminal cases.

The association voted to make its opposition known during the convention of the Maryland Bar Association, which is to take up the matter Friday.

Although the bar association has not tried to have the rule changed, it has approved a committee report calling for a new concept of insanity in criminal cases.

Under the McNaghten rule, named after an English case, a person is criminally responsible if he knows the difference between right and wrong and the consequences of his acts.

The rule has since been changed in Britain, and Maryland is the only state still using it.

Police Baffled By Mysterious Death Of Couple

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 55-year-old Northwest Baltimore man and his wife were found dead Wednesday afternoon under circumstances which had police baffled.

Dead were Joseph Mynar and his wife, Margaret.

Officers said a meter-reader for the gas company, John Smith, saw a man lying on the kitchen floor of the Mynar home. Smith returned later to find police officers on the scene and Mrs. Mynar lying beside her husband.

Police said there were no signs of a struggle. However, officers said they found bits of glass between the living room and the kitchen.

Mrs. Mynar was pronounced dead at Sinai Hospital. Crime investigators examined her husband's body on the scene.

Police said Smith was told to "wait a minute" when he first arrived at the Mynar home. Mrs. Mynar later admitted the meter-reader and asked him to summon a doctor for her husband.

Smith left to call the police, returned and found Mrs. Mynar with blood on her clothing. She told him she had been trying to lift her husband from the floor.

Police said the gas company employe left the home again to contact his employer and upon his return found officers in the house and the two bodies on the floor.

Tawes Watches S&L Situation

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes promised members of a savings and loan shareholders recovery committee Wednesday that he would continue to review the savings and loan situation in Maryland.

The governor, Atty. Gen. Thomas Finan and Albert Ward, administrator of the state's savings and loan law, met with members of the committee in the State Office Building.

Tawes said he would continue to scrutinize the effectiveness of Maryland's law governing the operations of savings and loan firms. Finan told members of the committee he thought the present law had been functioning well.

Finan and Tawes took positive stands on the operation of the law after committee members asked whether the enactment of additional regulatory legislation was foreseen.

Judge Keogh, Career Ruined By Fix Conviction, Retires From New York Bench

NEW YORK (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice J. Vincent Keogh quit the bench Wednesday, his career ruined by his conviction in a $35,000 federal court fix case.

The Brooklyn-born Keogh, 56, had been a rising figure in Democratic politics since the 1930s, and friends said he aspired to be mayor of New York.

Instead, he ended up as key figure in New York's worst judicial scandal since the late federal appeals Judge Martin T. Manton went to prison in 1940 for selling out his office.

George J. Beldock, presiding justice of the State Supreme Court, called in newsmen Wednesday to read them a statement, which said in part: "I have just received a writing from Judge Keogh, dated yesterday, stating that he has filed an application for retirement as a justice of the Supreme Court."

The retirement, effective July 19, preserves for Keogh a pension expected to be about $20,000 a year.

Upon his indictment last Dec. 7, Keogh voluntarily removed himself from the bench, pending outcome of his trial.

A U.S. District Court jury last Saturday convicted him of accepting $22,500 last year to try to gain leniency for a defendant in a federal court bankruptcy fraud case. Keogh is due for sentencing July 17, and can get up to five years in prison.

Convicted with Keogh were former Chief Asst. U.S. Atty. Elliott Kahaner, 36, and labor racketeer Antonio (Tony Ducks) Corallo, 47.

Kahaner accepted $12,500 in fix money, which Corallo helped to raise.

Last year, Keogh and Kahaner tried to gain leniency from federal Judge Leo Rayfiel of Brooklyn, for a juke box operator who had concealed the assets of his bankrupt Long Island firm.

Rayfiel got wind of the fix attempt and notified the Justice Department. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy ordered an investigation, with a mandate to let the chips fall where they may.

Mrs. Bob Kennedy Falls Into Family Pool During Party

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, wife of the attorney general, fell into the family pool during an outdoor dinner dance Saturday night, it was learned Wednesday.

So did a couple of guests, Special Presidential Assistant Arthur Schlesinger and Mrs. Spencer Davis, a close friend of Mrs. Kennedy.

A source close ot the family said Mrs. Kennedy, in full evening attire, plunged into the water after a leg of a chair slipped off a plank placed across the pool's edges. The same thing happened later to Schlesinger and Mrs. Davis. All three changed clothes and returned to the party.

Belgium's Queen Mother May Visit Boy In Yonkers

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) —Joey Alfidi, 12, figures there's nothing wrong with a fellow picking up the phone and calling a lady friend—even if the lady friend is Queen Mother Elisabeth of Belgium.

So he called her the other day, and now she may visit his home.

Joey has won renown in the music world as a pianist, composer and conductor. About 1½ years ago, he performed at the Palace of Fine Arts in Brussels. Later he was a guest of the royal family.

Since then Joey has composed works for the queen mother, and they have exchanged notes and greetings on occasion.

A few days ago Joey read that she was visiting in Puerto Rico. Since she was that close, he decided, it would be nice to see her again.

He got on the phone and before long the queen mother was answering from her hotel suite.

The conversation is said to have gone like this:

"I saw your picture in the papers, and I wanted to greet you and to hear your voice."

"Oh, it is so kind of you, Joey. Do you hear me?"

"Yes, yes, very well."

"And how are you, my dear Joey?"

"Very well. I am so frightened I can't seem to speak to you."

"Don't be that way."

"I have almost finished a dramatic fantasy which I have dedicated to Your Majesty. I would like so very much to see you. May I come to San Juan?"

"No, you don't have to, my dear. I am coming to New York on the 21st and I shall send you a telegram."

"Oh, that's great! Would you like to visit my home in Yonkers?"

"Yes, Joey, if I feel in condition and protocol allows."

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) —Joey Alfidi, 12, figures there's nothing wrong with a fellow picking up the phone and calling a lady friend—even if the lady friend is Queen Mother Elisabeth of Belgium.

So he called her the other day, and now she may visit his home.

Joey has won renown in the music world as a pianist, composer and conductor. About 1½ years ago, he performed at the Palace of Fine Arts in Brussels. Later he was a guest of the royal family.

Since then Joey has composed works for the queen mother, and they have exchanged notes and greetings on occasion.

A few days ago Joey read that she was visiting in Puerto Rico. Since she was that close, he decided, it would be nice to see her again.

He got on the phone and before long the queen mother was answering from her hotel suite.

The conversation is said to have gone like this:

"I saw your picture in the papers, and I wanted to greet you and to hear your voice."

"Oh, it is so kind of you, Joey. Do you hear me?"

"Yes, yes, very well."

"And how are you, my dear Joey?"

"Very well. I am so frightened I can't seem to speak to you."

"Don't be that way."

"I have almost finished a dramatic fantasy which I have dedicated to Your Majesty. I would like so very much to see you. May I come to San Juan?"

"No, you don't have to, my dear. I am coming to New York on the 21st and I shall send you a telegram."

"Oh, that's great! Would you like to visit my home in Yonkers?"

"Yes, Joey, if I feel in condition and protocol allows."

Elaborate Courses Test Drivers

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — The Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles, transplanted here from Baltimore, has three test courses, instead of city streets, on which to evaluate aspiring drivers.

Applicants for Maryland drivers' licenses must now thread one of three mazes equipped with grades, turnaround slots, parking areas, stop signs and traffic signals.

The test courses represent $125,000 of the department's new, $4.5 million installation here.

John R. Jewell, state motor vehicles commissioner, said Tuesday the new course provides a safe way to test drivers. They do not endanger pedestrians and authorize traffic, the commissioner explained.

NEW YORK (AP)—The extent to which business spends money on new plants and equipment will have much to do with the course of the economy this year.

The stock market's sharp and prolonged decline has aroused much conjecture about this outlook.

In an effort to find the answer, the brokerage firm, Shearson, Hammill & Co. has surveyed a representative group of companies.

Fifty-six firms said there had been no significant change in their capital expenditure plans recently.

Four reported that for the time being they intend to go ahead with their major projects but indicated that they might eliminate or postpone small projects.

Four said they had revised downward their capital budget.

Two were in the process of reviewing their budgets and indicated they might reduce expenditures after the studies were completed. Later they increased their capital programs because of better, than-expected operating results.

The companies surveyed included 6 railroads, 5 office equipment manufacturers, 3 mining companies, 3 steel companies, 5 paper makers, 11 food, beverage and tobacco producers, 8 machinery firms, 4 automotive companies, 6 firms in the non-automotive consumer durable goods field and a scattering of firms in the chemical, fiber, recreation and electronics industries.

Small Suggests New University For Maryland

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Frank Small Jr. said Wednesday that Maryland needs a second state university.

Small said the University of Maryland is overtaxed and works hardship on residents of areas distant from the school's College Park campus.

Small, in remarks prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Worcester County Republican Women's Club, declared that the university's enrollment of 55,456 is expected to reach 67,706 by 1971.

"Our expanding population alone demands that second university be established," the candidate declared.

He said the Eastern Shore suggests itself as a possible site for a new university. The Shore is within commuting distance of a significant portion of Maryland's population, Small said.

Small, Prince Georges County businessman, said he plans to appoint a committee charged with choosing a site for a new state institution of higher learning.

College Park is the present university's main campus. However, the university has professional schools in Baltimore.

Small also called for a greater effort to attract tourists to Maryland.

Home owners in the United States are spending six billion, 600 million dollars for home repairs and improvements.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) —Miss Joan Ann Davis of Linthicum Heights has been named the winner of the Maryland Library Association scholarship for 1962. She has attended Western Maryland College.

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP)—The Maryland Vetinerary Medical Association opens its annual summer convention Thursday and more than 100 veterinarians are expected.

Dr. Gilbert J. Plumer is chairman of the convention program. He said the program would include presentation of scientific papers, committee reports and social events.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Firemen used a lifeline and waded through chest-high water Tuesday night to rescue four boys stranded on a small island in a wake of a cloudburst.

The boys were identified as Linwood and Charles Cox, 11 and 13, brothers, David DeFalco, 10, and Ronald head, 14.

Head said the water surrounding the small island in a park was only about a foot deep when he and his companions waded across the stream to play there.

The thunderstorms which struck Baltimore late Tuesday converted the shallow stream into a roaring torrent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three men armed with knives entered the home of a laundry operator Wednesday, bound two women and a man, hammered open a safe and escaped with more than $2,000 in cash.

The robbery was in the home of Ah Wong, 78, operator of a laundry in southeast Washington.

Included in the cash were 32 $2.50 gold pieces. Taken also was a diamond ring valued at between $400 and $500.

The intruders were described as white men who went about opening the safe with hammers and chisels in a methodical manner.

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Virginia's approaching centennial as a state was observed in the House Wednesday with speeches and display of a 35-star flag.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., noted that West Virginia became the union's 35th state 99 years ago Wednesday. He obtained permission to display, with the help of two pages, a well-worn, 35-star flag.

Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey, D-W.Va., mentioned that West Virginia's Constitution provided for emancipation of slaves. He said the idea that the state was entirely a creature of the Civil War is wrong — that "the spirit of independent thought" had grown for years prior to the war.

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (AP)—An Aerobee rocket zoomed 97 miles into the atmosphere Wednesday in a test by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NASA said it was testing liquid rocket fuels. A camera mounted in the nose cone was separated from the rocket and was retrieved by a Marine helicopter.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore members of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy said Wednesday that a city civil defense exercise Monday was "virtually a perfect demonstration of the futility of civilian defense in the event of nuclear war."

A committee spokesman said that, judging by how fast 100 mock casualties were taken to hospitals, it would take 2½ years to get one million nuclear bomb casualties to hospitals.

"Disarmament to prevent it is the only medicine for nuclear war," the spokesman said.

NEW YORK (AP) — A public hearing will be held July 17 in New York on a proposal by three railroads to reduce rates on grain and four shipments from Pittsburgh to east coast ports, it was announced Wednesday.

The hearing was set by the Eastern Railroads Traffic Executives Association after discussion of the question which previously had been considered by its general freight traffic committee.

A spokesman said "considerable" opposition developed at an earlier hearing conducted by the committee.

Lower rates are being sought by the Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads to bring charges into line with those on shipments out of Buffalo, he said.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Because of a shortage of water, the Anne Arundel County Sanitary Commission has restricted watering of lawns from 9 p.m. to midnight.

The action was taken after parts of Linthicum were without any water for several hours Monday. The commission earlier had restricted watering of lawns to alternate days.

Sen. Goldwater Will Address NEA Session

HERSEY, Pa. (AP)—Hundreds of newspapermen will gather in Hershey this weekend for a joint meeting of the National Editorial Association and the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association.

The three-day session will combine the 77th annual convention of the NEA and the summer conference of the state publishers' group.

Featured speakers will include U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz; Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania; Gail Smith, director of advertising for the General Motors Corp.; and Joseph Abey, president of Rotary International.

The joint convention will run from Thursday through Saturday. Following the meeting, the state has arranged an eight-day tour of some of Pennsylvania's most historic sites, including Valley Forge, the Gettysburg battlefield and Philadelphia.

Sen. Goldwater will speak Friday night at the organizations' annual banquet at the Hershey Hotel. Smith and Abey — who is circulation director for the Reading, Pa., Eagle-Times — will address the conference earlier in the day.

Also on tap are a number of panel discussions touching on such subjects as Pennsylvania's approach to education, photography and the modern newspaper and national and local advertising opportunities.

Charles Claybaugh of Brigham City, Utah, is running unopposed for the presidency of NEA. Winners of the better newspaper contest will be announced at that time.

Runaways To Be Sent Home Today

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Traveler's Aid Society said Wednesday it planned to send two boys home to Savannah, Ga., Thursday after their unauthorized, 640-mile train trip to Baltimore.

Miss Elizabeth Johnston, in charge of the society's office in Baltimore, said parents of the two boys had been reached in Savannah and the parents are "terribly relieved."

She said the two will return home Thursday, but that final travel arrangements have not yet deen made.

The boys' William Henry Jones, 10, and Wallace Becket, 9, said they hid on the train Monday and rode all the way to Baltimore.

Young Jones said his mother had told him to return a 75-cent bottle of aspirin for a less-expensive size but when the saleswoman refused, he was afraid to go home. So they hopped aboard the train instead.

Liquor Board Urged To Quiz Club Owners

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Criminal Justice Commission called Wednesday for questioning n Baltimore of two nightclub owners who appeared before a Senate rackets subcommittee Tuesday.

The owners, Julius Salsbury and August Magliano, invoked the Fifth Amendment under the subcommittee's questioning.

Ralph G. Murdy, managing director of the justice commission, urged that the Baltimore Liquor Board question Salsbury and Magliano, better known as Nick Trotta.

Trotta's and Salsbury's establishments, in the heart of Baltimore's honky-tonk section, are under license by the Liquor Board.

"They (Trotta and Salsbury) can plead the Fifth in Washington, but they won't be able to do that before the Liquor Board," said Murdy.

The subcommittee is investigating the relationship between an entertainer's union, the American Guild of Variety Artists, and the nightclub owners who employ the union's members.

Metcalf Joins Martin

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Martin Co. announced today the appointment of George F. Metcalf, a space missile and electronics expert, as the firm's vice president for engineering.

He succeeds Dr. Albert C. Hall, now vice president and general manager of Martin's Space Systems Division at nearby Middle River.

State Requests Closure Of Security Financial

BALTIMORE (AP(— Maryland asked Wednesday that Security Financial Insurance Corp. be closed. It is the only commercial insurer of savings and loan deposits in the state.

The request was made in a petition filed with Judge Reuben Oppenheimer in Circuit Court by Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan and Harrison M. Robertston Jr., an assistant attorney general, on behalf of F. Douglass Sears, the state insurance commissioner.

The petition said Security Financial is insolvent by more than $500,000, has insufficient assets to carry on its business and is believed to be fraudulently conducted.

The petition listed assets at $985,994 and liabilities at $1,512,363. The petition said an examination of the company's books turned up the figures.

The figures included a deficit from operations based on the insurance commissioner's opinion of suitable reserves for prospective losses under the company's policy covering depositors in four savings and loan associations already in conservatorship or receivership. The concerns are Military Service, Phoenix, First Guaranty and Freestate.

The figures do not include, however, possible losses by six other insured associations whose total insolvency the state alleges to be $1,403,000.

The petition charged the company's operation is "reckless, improper and fiscally unsound" because it spent 92.4 per cent of its total premium income for the period of its operations. Total income was $323,515, the petition said, and expenses were $316,142, including a dividend of $24,800 paid last Dec. 1.

The petition also charged the company's management is inexperienced and unqualified. It said all stock is held by Channel Investment, Ltd. and Lock Securities, Ltd., two Canadian holding companies "whose ownership, direction and control is unknown to the commissioner."

The petition also charged the company is insuring $60 million in savings and loan deposits while its own assets are less than $1 million.

Further operation of Security Financial would be hazardous to the association, its insurers, creditors and the public, the petition said.

Rains Boost Crop Growth In W. Md.

By The Associated Press

Haymaking and corn cultivation continued Wednesday in the north central and Western Maryland in the wake of life-giving rains which gave a boost to crop growth in the Maryland-Delaware area.

However, wet weather in midweek interrupted outdoor work in the northern and western portions of Maryland and caught many fields of hay on the ground.

First cuttings of alfalfa were near completion except in Garrett County, where only about 10-15 per cent of the crop had been cut.

The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service announced the figures. The service reported that soil moisture throughout the two-state area seemed adequate for the first time in several weeks. been made.

'Flubber' Makes Moola For Disney; Sequel Set

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Only in Hollywood could you shoot a picture with the ungainly title of "Son of Flubber," about a college professor who makes rain clouds, and expect to make money.

That's what Walt Disney is doing and there's every indication the film might succeed like "The Absent Minded Professor," his movie about a socially slipshod scientist who discovered "flubber," a magic material combing the qualities of atomic energy and rubber.

When "Professor" started pouring money into Disney's Burbank studios, the canny movie maker wasted no time preparing a sequel to the film entitled "Son of Flubber."

He even signed up some of the original cast, among them Fred MacMurray, who repeats his college professor role, Nancy Olson and Keenan Wynn.

In "Professor," MacMurray put his magic "flubber" material on the shoes of a college basketball team and the players had more bounce per ounce than their taller opponents.

The basketball game was one of the funniest movie scenes shot in years. MacMurray even had a model-T automobile fly to Washington D.C. on "flubber" power.

In "Son of Flubber," a secret formula is used to help the college football team. MacMurray even experiments with rain cloud production.

Miss Olson, a New York actress who played MacMurray's fiance in "Professor" and is married to him in the sequel, says "all of a sudden working in movies has become fun."

The beautiful blonde performer was out of the picture business for five years, making a comeback in Disney's 1960 production of "Pollyanna."

"I hadn't even thought of pictures," she said, crediting Disney with "taking me out of mothballs."

Miss Olson, divorced mother of two children, stayed off movie screens because of her own disinterest.

"My agent used to say to producers, 'Look, she doesn't want to work,'" Nancy recalled. "So they just quit sending me scripts. Right now I don't even have an agent. I had the last one for 12 years. There's not an actress in town who stayed with her agent 12 years."

Nancy wants more comedy roles and hopefully, another picturewith the forgetful professor touring the world.

"It would be nice if the professor went to Hong Kong, Paris and Rome," she said.

A very active man needs about 50 per cent more food than a very active woman.

Frankie Avalon Looks To Future Career In Films

NEW YORK (UPI)—What happens to a teen-age idol when he grows old by growing up?

Frankie Avalon, at 21, is facing up to that situation right now, as have Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra who made youthful successes before him, but it is not posing any problems for him just as it presented none to them. He's doing better than ever, at the bank and the box office.

Both Frankie and his audiences are trying to grow old gracefully. His original fans sit sedately in nightclubs and listen to him sing less flamboyant songs than the frenzied rock 'n' roll that sent them into paroxysms in theaters.

And he is planning ahead by trying to set up a schedule under which he appears in a dramatic role in movies—with no singing—once in a while. His first non-singing role is in the movie "Panic In The Year Zero," in which he plays the role of Ray Milland's son in one of the few families to survive the nuclear destruction of Los Angeles.

"The picture originally was called 'Survival,'" Frankie said in an interview. "If they had kept the title, I might have been able to sing a song called 'Survival Rock.' In one scene, where there isn't any talking, I asked Mr. Milland if I couldn't just hum a little—enough for one recording, maybe, but he said 'no!'"

Actually, Frankie is just as happy to be playing a straight dramatic role, as a possible investment in his future.

"It could happen that I might lose my voice, and styles of music change," he said, "And the public can be fickle. In my first two movies, I was bought just for my name value. Now people say I can handle a part and I was chosen this time for my acting ability. I'm playing my first New York date at the Copacabana, which moves me into the adult sphere."

Frankie is stepping very slowly in expanding his activities, however.

"I'd rather hold off a while," he said. "If I get a television show at 21, I might not be able to keep it. Even the best shows last only three years. Where would I go from 24?"

His present plan is to try to do two movies a year, with every third or fourth one a straight dramatic or comedy part, and appear in night clubs and on television shows as a guest performer. Records are one of the staples of his rather considerable fortune and he hopes to keep up this activity.

"I don't want to be a flash in the pan," he says. "Five years ago, when I first came out, columnists said 'he's just one recording artist.' So far I've lasted for five years, and they went by pretty fast. My income is increasing all the time and I still have some enthusiastic fans."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wheels rate on college campuses.

But the handling of two-wheelers rates only old-fashioned rave notices from some college officials in charge of campus traffic.

L. T. Suber, superintendent of the physical plant at the Davis campus of the University of California, is one who raves the intellectual's way about problems caused by bicycles on his campus.

The Davis campus has 3,535 licensed bicycles — more bikes than students, in fact.

Suber tells about some of the aches involved in bicycle control in a report in the current issue of "College and University Business," a journal for college officials nationwide.

From freshmen "dinks" to emeritus professors the bike is preferred as the best mode of transportation on the campus, however. And why not? No parking problems and no gas tank to feed.

But Suber says the bike brigade makes an interesting array of holes in asphalt paving during hot weather.

The riders park, knock the kick stand into place and go off to class. By the time they return, the kick stand has poked a hole in the pavement.

"At one time," Suber said, "we were naive enough to insist that bicycle traffic regulations be the same as the vehicle traffic regulations—until we started giving some traffic violation tickets.

"A mass or a line of bikes reacts somewhat like a freight train. There is a chain reaction in stopping and in starting."

And then there's the safety problem. Suber said injuries stem from the fact that many of the bike riders apparently did not ride during high school years. By the time they get to college, they have lost some skill and agility.

"It is interesting to observe the rejuvenated antics of freshmen each September as they wobble and wave their way to classes," the official said. "This has a direct effect on the student health center."

Last fall for example, more than 40 bike riders were treated each month for bruises and cuts caused by bike mishaps.

But by December, the students' skill had improved so much that injuries from bike accidents fell more than 50 per cent.

"This trend repeats itself each year," Suber noted.

There's also the problem of keeping track of one's bike. Suber said students use a great deal of ingenuity in putting their personal characteristics on bikes so they can identify them. But even so, there is considerable mistaken bike placement.

With all their problems, the bike riders seem to help solve some traffic problems. A campus with 3,535 two-wheelers can be almost heavenly when one thinks of what it would be like if all in the bike brigade switched to four-wheel vehicles.

Suber said the plan at his campus is to stand by the two-wheelers. The master blueprint calls for a traffic and parking plan capable of handling 15,500 bikes eventually.

The students, too, are doing their bit to make the bike brigade less of a liability—at least where the health center's concerned.

Each spring they put on a bike safety program.

Their slogan:

"Ride carefully; the cyclist you hit might be your roommate."

Girl Drifts To Shore In Fuelless Boat But Companion Drowns

CHESTERTON, Ind. (UPI)—A teen-age girl, missing since Sunday night on Lake Michigan, drifted to shore in a fuelless motorboat Tuesday and told how her companion drowned trying to save her.

The body of her companion, Theodore Hoffschneider, 35, Gary, Ind., was found on a beach not far away in this Indiana sand dunes area.

The girl, Nancy Hill, 19, Gary, had been adrift on Lake Michigan since shortly after she and Hoffschneider set out from the Burns Ditch, Ind., harbor at 9 p.m. Sunday.

The motor of the cabin cruiser quit two hours later. Miss Hill said they drifted until about 1 p.m. Monday afternoon when Hoffschneider, whom she described as "a good swimmer," decided to swim for shore.

Police estimated that at this time the boat was two or three miles offshore. Hoffschneider, who emigrated from Poland to Gary after the death of his father by drowning, strapped a sky-type life belt on and plunged into the water.

The girl rigged a makeshift sail when a breeze sprang up and was beached near the home of James Savage at Dunes Acres.

Shortly after police received the report of the beached boat they were called by Willard Crichfield, who has a cabin in the Dunes State Park.

Crichfield said his dog started barking this morning about 2 a.m. When he let the dog out, it led him to the body of Hoffschneider, which had washed ashore, the life belt still attached.

Hoffschneider was an employe at the U.S. Steel Gary Works. He had lived in Gary for 13 years.

During the time the boat drifted on the lake the water was relatively calm.

And then there's the safety problem. Suber said injuries stem from the fact that many of the bike riders apparently did not ride during high school years. By the time they get to college, they have lost some skill and agility.

"It is interesting to observe the rejuvenated antics of freshmen each September as they wobble and wave their way to classes," the official said. "This has a direct effect on the student health center."

Last fall for example, more than 40 bike riders were treated each month for bruises and cuts caused by bike mishaps.

But by December, the students' skill had improved so much that injuries from bike accidents fell more than 50 per cent.

"This trend repeats itself each year," Suber noted.

There's also the problem of keeping track of one's bike. Suber said students use a great deal of ingenuity in putting their personal characteristics on bikes so they can identify them. But even so, there is considerable mistaken bike placement.

With all their problems, the bike riders seem to help solve some traffic problems. A campus with 3,535 two-wheelers can be almost heavenly when one thinks of what it would be like if all in the bike brigade switched to four-wheel vehicles.

Suber said the plan at his campus is to stand by the two-wheelers. The master blueprint calls for a traffic and parking plan capable of handling 15,500 bikes eventually.

The students, too, are doing their bit to make the bike brigade less of a liability—at least where the health center's concerned.

Each spring they put on a bike safety program.

Their slogan:

"Ride carefully; the cyclist you hit might be your roommate."

Girl Drifts To Shore In Fuelless Boat But Companion Drowns

CHESTERTON, Ind. (UPI)—A teen-age girl, missing since Sunday night on Lake Michigan, drifted to shore in a fuelless motorboat Tuesday and told how her companion drowned trying to save her.

The body of her companion, Theodore Hoffschneider, 35, Gary, Ind., was found on a beach not far away in this Indiana sand dunes area.

The girl, Nancy Hill, 19, Gary, had been adrift on Lake Michigan since shortly after she and Hoffschneider set out from the Burns Ditch, Ind., harbor at 9 p.m. Sunday.

The motor of the cabin cruiser quit two hours later. Miss Hill said they drifted until about 1 p.m. Monday afternoon when Hoffschneider, whom she described as "a good swimmer," decided to swim for shore.

Police estimated that at this time the boat was two or three miles offshore. Hoffschneider, who emigrated from Poland to Gary after the death of his father by drowning, strapped a sky-type life belt on and plunged into the water.

The girl rigged a makeshift sail when a breeze sprang up and was beached near the home of James Savage at Dunes Acres.

Shortly after police received the report of the beached boat they were called by Willard Crichfield, who has a cabin in the Dunes State Park.

Crichfield said his dog started barking this morning about 2 a.m. When he let the dog out, it led him to the body of Hoffschneider, which had washed ashore, the life belt still attached.

Hoffschneider was an employe at the U.S. Steel Gary Works. He had lived in Gary for 13 years.

High-Kick Your Way To Leg Beauty

Here are specific exercises to help develop or reduce problem thighs.

This muscle-building exercise is to be performed rhythmically and methodically. Lie on your right side on the floor, bending your right arm to support your head. Put your left hand flat on the floor, for balance. Raise your left leg about 12 inches and bring your right leg up to touch it. Lower your right leg first, then let the left come down slowly to meet it. Repeat 12 times, then turn over and reverse the procedure 12 times.

Now, an exercise for overweight thighs: Lie flat on your back, arms extended sideways for support. Raise both legs as high as you can (don't bend your knees) . . . slowly swing both legs as far as possible to the left. Then swing both legs — slowly — as far as you can go to the right. Try not to let your torso roll to either side. Start with a count of five (legs left, then right) and work up to ten.

For further slenderizing your upper thighs (also shaping the hips), do this: Same position as above. Raise both legs as high as you can without bending the knees. Hold for a count of six. Slowly lower the legs to a 45-degree angle, holding for a count of six. Now bring them down to a 15-degree angle, holding as you count four. This normalizes thigh contour.

After exercising, keep your leg muscles relaxed by massaging them gently. Apply oil and stroke upward, massaging with fingertips form toes to hips.

You won't see results tomorrow, or the next day, but before long there'll be more shape, less problem, at the thigh line.

A letter was read from Mrs. Patricia DeMoss, national president, urging the chapter to have its membership list ready for the fall in order to determine the number of delegates allowed to the state convention. Miss Juanita Prine was appointed to arrange a date for a rummage sale, preferably the first week in August. The group also discussed its part in the program at Parkersburg.

West failed to capitalize on declarer's error in timing today, and therefore handed back the slam contract which he had been given the opportunity to defeat.

The bidding was somewhat labored but the final contract was sound enough. South's opening bid of one diamond with 23 high card points ran the distinct risk of being passed out, but fortunately he found North with ample values for a one no trump response. South now came out in his true colors with a game forcing jump shift to three spades, which elicited a diamond preference from his partner. South's cue bid of five clubs was a slam try, and North coöperated by showing the ace of hearts. A six diamond bid was rather obvious at this point, but the partnership decided to get their full money's worth and took an additional round of bidding to reach the slam.

The opening heart lead was won in the closed hand as East's jack of hearts forced the king. Declarer saw that his prospects more or less hinged on a successful finesse in either spades or diamonds. He therefore cashed the ace of diamonds at trick two to test trumps, and then he led the ten of hearts to the dummy's ace in order to take a diamond finesse by playing a small diamond and putting in the jack from his hand.

West was in with the queen of trumps and, had he returned a diamond at this point, South would have wound up a trick short of his contract. He is in the dummy for the last time and, tho the spade finesse succeeds, East can assure himself an eventual trick in the suit by covering dummy's jack with the king. Had declarer played off the high clubs from his hand before going over to the dummy's ace of hearts earlier, he could have taken a spade discard on the king of clubs and the defense would have been helpless.

West, however, was not on the ball and, instead of making the trump return which blocks up the club suit, he routinely led back a third round of hearts which was surely a hopeless play. South ruffed in his hand and hastily cashed his high clubs before crossing over to dummy's ten of diamonds, so that he could obtain the essential spade discard before taking the finesse in that suit.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago someone wrote to you lambasting office collections. The writer complained that every week somebody came around to collect 50 cents for flowers, a baby gift or a retirement present. He signed himself "Bled White."

When I read that letter I agreed with the writer because I, too, had been hit so often. Something happened last week that changed my mind. I landed in the hospital.

It's difficult to explain the wonderful, warm glow that passed over me when the nurse brought in a beautiful bouquet of red roses. The card read "Hurry back. We miss you." Then I saw 14 signatures of those who had chipped in for the flowers.

I'm not a sentimental guy but I think I wiped away a couple of tears when the nurse left the room.

I'll never feel imposed on again when a collection is made at our office I'm deeply ashamed it took a lesson like this to teach me.
—OTHER FOOT

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband thinks your column is rich. He reads it religiously and often says "Listen to this—" then he'll read a letter alound and say, "Doesn't this one sound like So and So?"

It's strange how people see everyone else's faults but they never recognize their own. You have had a few letters lately about husbands who ignore their wives' physical needs but my cold fish doesn't catch the drift.

We have three children and a lovely home. My husband doesn't drink or gamble or look at other women. He says he loves me but he shows no sign of affection unless I make the first move. Maybe I'm a romantic fool but I don't believe it's the woman's place to be agressive in love-making. It makes me feel like a hussy.

I hope you print this letter. If you do I promise to say "Listen to THIS ONE. I wrote it."
—SPARROW

DEAR SPARROW: Some men need a woman who is aggressive in love-making. Apparently you drew this type of a man.

There is no need to feel like a hussy if you must make the first move. Some of the most interesting women in history were aggressive types. When the situation calls for this approach the smart woman recognizes it and is equal to it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our teenage daughter was visiting in the home of a girl friend last evening and the girl's parents got into an argument.

It was embarrassing for our daughter to be in on a family quarrel. She asked her friend to drive her home. The friend refused, saying all families have arguments and that she should pay no attention. Our daughter stayed and had a miserable evening.

I told her this morning she should have telephoned home and asked her father or me to come and get her. She says this would have been rude. I say it would have been better manners than staying around and witnessing a family fight. May we have your opinion? —TRIANGLE

DEAR TRIANGLE: It depends on the nature of the fight. If it was just a few moments of disagreement, your daughter should have ignored it. If, however, it was a knock-down-drag-out battle, your daughter should have called home for transportation.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I hope you print this letter. If you do I promise to say "Listen to THIS ONE. I wrote it."

—SPARROW

DEAR SPARROW: Some men need a woman who is aggressive in love-making. Apparently you drew this type of a man.

There is no need to feel like a hussy if you must make the first move. Some of the most interesting women in history were aggressive types. When the situation calls for this approach the smart woman recognizes it and is equal to it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our teenage daughter was visiting in the home of a girl friend last evening and the girl's parents got into an argument.

It was embarrassing for our daughter to be in on a family quarrel. She asked her friend to drive her home. The friend refused, saying all families have arguments and that she should pay no attention. Our daughter stayed and had a miserable evening.

I told her this morning she should have telephoned home and asked her father or me to come and get her. She says this would have been rude. I say it would have been better manners than staying around and witnessing a family fight. May we have your opinion? —TRIANGLE

DEAR TRIANGLE: It depends on the nature of the fight. If it was just a few moments of disagreement, your daughter should have ignored it. If, however, it was a knock-down-drag-out battle, your daughter should have called home for transportation.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

News Commentary

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some supporters of President Kennedy's college aid bill fear it may have fallen prey to the ailment that already has struck down his other key education proposals — the church-state controversy.

Little has been said publicly about the dispute. But some of those close to it say the legislation could die in a House-Senate conference committee because of disagreement over federal aid to church-connected colleges. The conferees, after several false starts, are supposed to begin work on the bill June 19.

The House and Senate passed differing versions of Kennedy's original college aid proposals last winter. Although there was disagreement about the need for student scholarships as well as classroom construction aid, the over-all prospects for some form of college assistance were good.

But then the legislation got bogged down for more than four months. Instead of permitting the scholarship issue to cool down, as some thought it would, the delay kept it alive and encouraged the growth of the far more serious dispute over private school aid.

This same controversy played the principal part in scuttling Kennedy's request for federal aid to elementary and secondary schools, and helped drag down other education bills with it.

Until recently, the college aid bill seemed clear of the religious argument. Questions about the propriety of federal aid to colleges backed by religious denominations were raised in both House and Senate, but the bills went through without substantial change.

The problem now apparently centers on the House bill's provision for direct grants, as well as loans, to both public and private colleges to help build classrooms, libraries and laboratories.

The House bill would authorize $900 million in grants and $600 million in low-interest loans over five years. The Senate version would provide the same total outlay, but all in loans.

But the proposal to make direct payments to non-public schools has stirred up forces militantly in support of keeping church and state separate. These same forces backed Kennedy's rigid opposition to direct aid for parochial grade and high schools last year.

The FAA is testing a stainless steel tailhook on the belly of giant commercial jetliners. It's intended to prevent overshooting by hooking onto a wire strung across runways.

WHAT A "GREENBACK" — Robert Portune, 14, admires the 17-inch frog which he and two playmates caught in a wooded area in Savannah, Ga. Catching wild creatures is nothing new to Robert. One of his pastimes is hunting and catching snakes which he gives to a Savannah youth museum. (AP Photofax)

Man's Defiance Of Gravity Leads To Ills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you are bothered by an aching shoulder, sore feet or low back pain, chances are you can blame it on prehistoric man.

That, according to Medicine at Work, publication of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, is the opinion of a group of family doctors who discussed the problem at a recent medical symposium.

One physician, Dr. Harold A. Sofield, Oak Park, Ill., said the increasing incidence of shoulder-arm pain "stems from our ancestors' determination to swing down from trees and walk erect." He believes the wide swing of the arm subjects tendons to "extra wear and tear" which cause tendon fibers to degenerate and calcium deposits to form.

Dr. Leo F. Miller of Chicago noted that man's defiance of gravity also leads to structural ills. For example, while the body's weight is evenly disturbuted between the front and back portions of the foot, the big toe and metatarsal joint carry 60 per cent of the weight falling on the first half.

For a 200-pound man this means 30 pounds crunch-down on these parts with each step. Consequently, the most common foot disturbances are corns, callouses and bunions.

Another ailment perhaps caused by assumption of the upright position, according to Dr. P. M. Girard, a Dallas, Tex., orthopedic surgeon, is low back injury induced either by poor posture or a slight twist in the wrong direction.

The human body contains enough phosphorous to make 2,200 matches.

Old Ballplayers To Play In TV Show

By JOSEPH A. ST. AMANT

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—"He couldn't hit the water if he fell out of a boat."

It was a fan shouting from the stands at the batter—a tall, slim, man in a hand-me-down baseball uniform with unmatched shirt and pants.

The pitcher was clad in a neat white pin-striped uniform with red cap. The pitcher was Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The batter was actor Jimmy Stewart, which makes it a weir scene.

It was all play-acting—for the inaugural fall season show of "Alcoa Premiere" on ABC - TV this September—being filmed at Brookside Park.

Stewart, who swings a pretty fair bat for an actor, tried to beat out a bunt. He huffed and puffed down to first base and gasped, "It's funny how your wind gives out."

Drysdale, who has something of a reputation as a bean-ball artist —a charge he denies repeatedly— was asked if he might throw a duster at Stewart the next time up.

"No," he laughed, "It's not in the script."

This show has a collection of oldtime ballplayers who are supposed to be barnstorming arousd the country. Stewart is a player who has been outlawed from baseball because of a scandal.

But he's a good guy. Pat Wayne, son of actor John Wayne, gets on base. Stewart, playing first, pulls the hidden ball trick on young Wayne and tags him out. Then Stewart advises him in fatherly fashion, "You have to keep your eyes open to get ahead in this game, son."

Stewart's barnstorming mates—at least some of them—are authentic old ball players. They include: Vern Stephens, a broad-shouldered shortstop who played in the majors with the St. Louis Browns, the Boston Red Sox, and the Chicago White Sox; Whitey Campbell, who pitched for the Washington Senators, 1932-33; Bud Hardin, an infielder who played with the Chicago Cubs and the old Los Angeles Angels in the Pacific Coast League; Sy Malis, the show's technical director who pitched for the Philadelphia Phillies in 1928 and later for the Angels and Earl Gilpin, now 64, who was a catcher with the Chicago Cubs, 1926-28.

When not acting Gilpin works in the grip department at Revue Studios and runs a baseball school on the side.

He numbers Drysdale among his former pupils—and that's a pretty fair recommendation. "I tried to sign him when I was scouting for the Cleveland Indians," said Gilpin, "But the Dodgers offered him more money."

Director John Ford interrupts the conversation and says, "Let's get goin' here."

One of the barnstormers steps to the plate. He swings at the ball and looks like he's trying to deliver an uppercut.

"Talk it up there," says Ford to the barnstormers. The old - timers shout "C'mon, you're the big man. Let's get a man on."

"Cut," says Director Ford. "That's all for today."

The show looks like a lot of fun for the actors and it may even be fun to watch.

Playing Cards Have Existed Many Centuries

NEW YORK (UPI)—The next time your partner trumps your ace in a bridge game, count to 10 and then let off steam by reflecting on the colorful history of the playing card.

Consider, for example, that playing cards have been enlivening or depressing, but always entertaining mankind for more than 600 years and how many aces have been trumped, or similar booboos perpetrated in that time and your own plight may seem less bleak.

As far back as the 13th or 14th century, traders from the East brought with them spices, fine cloth, gold, ivory — and playing cards. And the cards had much of the elements of today's cards.

The expensive, rare and richly worked ancient decks were called "Tarocchi" and found mainly in Medieval Italy. They consisted of a trump suit of twenty two "Atouts" in addition to four 14-card suits.

The Atouts represented the most important forces affecting mankind, such as religion, lightinging, disease, war and death. The common suits were basically the four suits of the decks we have now. They represented nobility, clergy, tradesmen and peasants—today's spade, hearts, diamonds and clubs, respectively. Face cards were essentially the same except that Knaves were called Cavaliers.

Cards originally were made by hand of costly materials, including ivory, metal, silk and wood. Many were gold-encrusted. Gutenberg, father of printing, brought his discovery to cards and fine quality low cost cards began to receive wide popularity.

The five standard decks of European playing cards have survived, at least in the numbers of cards in each, since the Middle Ages. Besides the Tarocchi deck, there are the Italian decks of 40 cards, the Spanish deck of 48 cards, the German deck of 32 cards and the most widely used French and English-American of 52 cards.

However, playing card designs have changed to reflect history. Rulers and soldiers were exalted on card faces during certain periods of war and empire while enemies were subject to ugly caricatures.

Much of playing cards' popularity throughout the years has resulted from their adaptability to many games. Such odd-sounding and unusual games as Bezique, Zioncheck, Darada, Wipe-off and the Earl of Coventry have found followers at one time or another.

Among the 120 million Americans who play cards today, Contract Bridge and Canasta are played the most. Pinochle, poker, solitaire, rummy, 500, Auction Bridge, Hearts and Gin Rummy also are favorites.

City In Denmark Has Its Own Fairyland

By RALPH VILLERS

ODENSE, Denmark (UPI) — Entering the land of Hans Christian Andersen, the traveler steps into the fairytale world he expects—medieval streets with gingerbread homes, thatched - roofed cottages, swan - dotted lakes and castles complete with legends.

Odense, Denmark's third largest city, calls the famed storyteller its own, but all of Funen Island makes up the fairytale land of which Odense is the center.

Castles and manor houses dot the countryside, the hedgerows along the roadsides are repeatedly interrupted by white timbered and stuccoed cottages crowned with thick matted straw roofs. Country inns specialize in the fish dishes expected of a north European island.

Although a major manufacturing center with 125,000 residents, Odense maintains its heritage as one of Scandinavia's oldest cities. It was in Odense that St. Canute was slain by Jutlanders in 1086. The old Cathedral here still holds his remains in its crypt.

Andersen's home, adjoined by a museum, stands in a quaint area of little, steep - roofed buildings lining narrow cobbled streets. The museum boasts an impressive collection of his handwritten manuscripts and mementoes of his life, down to the little leather sack in which he carried the farewell letter written him by the woman he wanted so to marry, Riborg Voigt.

Odense boasts an old country inn right in the center of town. Timbered and stuccoed, with bright copper and antique clocks decorating the brick walls, Den Gamle Kro (The Old Inn), dates back to 1683. It is one of the most unusual restaurants to be found anywhere. It is a place where the Danes go and ask, "Could we have a table in the yard?"—the open air inside patio of the old building — and read from menus chalked onto slate.

While many vacationists who include more than Copenhagen on their Danish itinerary head for Odense—it's a delightful 85-mile rail and train-ferry trip, 2½ hours from the capital—the area still is to be overrun by American tourists. And that is especially true of Funen Island, sweeping green and ripe to the east, west and south of Odense.

It's pleasure driving yourself on the generally uncrowded roads. Giant windmills rise up along the landscape—including a "10-kroner windmill," the one near Egeskov, in southern Funen, which is depicted on the back of the Danish 10-crown note.

Egeskov Castle, less than 20 miles from Odense, is one of the showplaces of Denmark. The 15th Century castle stands in its weathered red brick majesty on a moat-made island.

This is only the third year that the acres of garden surrounding the castle have been opened to the public. Lawns and flowers of every conceivable color sweep up to the castle. Walkways go through a cooling woods and past a high-hedge labrynth (prudently closed to wanderers after too many got lost and cried for rescue). The castle itself still is the home of the County and Countess Ahlefeldt Laurvig Bille.

As befits fairytale land, the castle, which is built on 12,000 pilings, has its timeless legend: If the owner celebrates Christmas Eve there, it will sink into the moat. Needless to say the validity of the legend has not been tested.

At Nyborg, on the east coast, stands Denmark's oldest castle, dating from the 11th Century, and around which the last battle was fought in the 17th Century when the Danes and Swedes were less friendly than now.

For those wondering where else to go besides Copenhagen, there is something new in Denmark—very old Odense and Funen.

Swedish Sailing Vessel Now Tourist Attraction

By RALPH VILLERS

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Up from the watery grave into which it slipped 334 years ago, the mighty, but luckless, Warship Vasa has happier sailing ahead as a prime attraction of this historic northern capital.

Although raised from Stockholm Harbor last year, this is the first summer that visitors can get a proper look at both the 1,400-ton galleon and many of the historical finds discovered in and near the wreck of the onetime pride of Sweden. All are now under roof in a new "temporary" museum opened less than five months ago.

The Vasa, named for the 17th Century royal household and built to bolster Swedish naval might in the Thirty Years' War, heeled over before a none-too-strong gust and sank on its maiden voyage less than a mile from the quay it had just departed Aug. 10, 1628. About 50 of the 433 persons on board were lost in the mysterious accident.

Now resting on a floating pontoon and housed in steamy humidity in a modernistic, aluminum structure, the Vasa has become a top tourist attraction. A few steps away, in a museum dotted with steam-spouting humidifiers, a goodly representation of the 12,000 finds from the man-of-war — wood carvings, implements, utensils — are displayed.

The 100 per cent humidity maintained in both the ship's shed and museum at the Vasa Dockyard on the Bay of Kastell-Holmen is with good reason. Quick drying of the water-soacked timbers would cause the ship to crumble and be lost.

A visit to the Vasa also gives a close-up view of the extensive preservation work underway inside and outside the hull.

All about is the sound of jetting vapor. That, explained Lt. Bengt Hallvards, a spokesman for the Vasa Council, is the process of repeatedly applying a preservative liquid.

"The liquid forces out the water and it preserves the cells of the wood," Hallvards said. "We spray the hull outside in the morning and inside in the afternoon."

This isn't a task taking a few weeks or months. Hallvards estimates it may take five to six years to complete the preservation process. After that will come a permanent home for the 180-foot-long warship.

The adjoining museum abounds in artifacts from the ship — including the mighty carved wood lions head that snarled from the Vasa's prow, and numerous other finely worked wood carvings by various artists which decorated the bow, the gunports and other parts of the vessel. An original one-ton brass cannon is mounted outside the museum.

Eventually the Vasa Council — which has the active support of Sweden's King Gustaf VI Adolf, the Navy, historical organizations prominent individuals and industry — hopes to completely restore the warship. Diving still is going on in the harbor, where the ship was rediscovered in 1956 by historically-minded engineer Anders Franzen, for other pieces and remains of the Vasa.

Everything found is packed off to a specially built preservation factory outside Stockholm.

"It's the biggest in the world," said Hallvards, adding jokingly, "There is no other, so it must be the biggest."

One day, several years from now, the Vasa should stand again as proud as on that unhappy day in 1628 when it took its first brief voyage.

But even before then, she's still the newest sight in a very old city and well worth a look.

Hungary Begins Drive Against Hard Drinkers

By GARY HAMPTON

BUDAPEST (UPI)—Communist Hungary has launched something like a state-directed "Alcoholics Anonymous" in a national drive against excessive drinking.

Hungarians are not hard-drinking people and there are few few drunks to be seen in streets and bars. But authorities apparently are concerned at a rise in the number of crimes committed by people who have been drinking and of industrial and traffic accidents caused by intoxication.

The government campaign ranges from warning all school children against the dangers of drink to trying to rehabilitate chronic drinkers in alcoholic clinics where they can receive free medical treatment, advice and companionship.

Other measures include closing down many thousands of low-class "drink-shops" and purging press, radio and television of material which might encourage Hungarians to drink. Instead, these media now will promote natural fruit drinks put on sale especially for the campaign. Legislation will be passed to protect the families of alcoholics and stiffer penalties for crimes and accidents involving drink already have been introduced.

Few figures are available on the problem. The Communist Party newspaper "Nepszabadsag," however recently noted that consumption of rum and other spirits was significantly higher last year than in 1960, adding that 20 per cent of all crimes in 1960 were committed by people under the influence of alcohol. This figure was three percent higher than in 1958. Other newspapers frequently have appealed to readers to help solve personal problems of their colleagues.

Also, Budapest police have warned a growing number of local moonshiners against the risk of poisoning their clients by distilling spirits from wood alcohol bought on the black market.

The government has scheduled completion of 17 permanent alcohol clincis throught Hungary by the end of 1962. Ten already are working, seven in Budapest and three in important provincial centers.

These clinics treat less-advanced alcoholics who attend regularly while continuing work, wherever possible, and living at home. Treatment is voluntary for the present.

Doctors say the method is working for about half the 5,000 alcoholics who have sought help in Budapest since the first clinic opened, despite the normal high rate of relapses. They say these figures bear comparison with results obtained elsewhere and that attendence may be made compulsory at a later stage.

More forest fires in the United States are started on Sunday than any other day of the week.

A drinking driver is involved in three out of 10 fatal motor vehicle accidents.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

In his commencement address at Yale, President Kennedy again revealed a basic inability to recognize the economic road by which the United States has arrived at its present pre-eminence among the nations of the world. In sentence after sentence, he subordinated the importance of the thrust of private business, profits and competition to the need for governmental concern, "necessary" partnerships and coordination of the nation's economy. The President urged that the country put aside ancient cliches, stale phrases and myths of the past and address itself to the sophisticated questions of the present.

What were some of the myths to which the Chief Executive was referring? That deficits are sometimes dangerous. That the Government is steadily getting bigger and worse. That debts, public and private are neither good nor bad. That any unfavorable turn of the stock market wheel is the result of a lack of confidence in the Administration. As the "Wall Street Journal" put it: "The trouble is that Mr. Kennedy chooses to ignore the enormous mythology that comes under the mislabeled heading of liberalism."

The President obviously believes that an unbalanced budget, deficit spending, a steadily soaring public debt and creeping inflation are all splendid devices to produce prosperity. But did they pull the U. S. out of the mire of depression during the 1930's? They did not. Are they the proper means to the welcome ends of full employment, high wages, meaningful profits and a stable dollar? They are not.

Walter Lippman, dean of the liberal columnists, has stated that the major task of the Kennedy Administration is to "re-educate" the American public to put it "in touch with the realities of the modern age." What Mr. Lippman, Mr. Kennedy and his advisors do not understand is that it is they and not the American public who must bring themselves into alignment with the realities of the 1960's. And they could begin by perceiving the error of propagating the most dangerous myth of all: that the United States can best achieve prosperity by Government control and direction.

The American economy is based on freedom, on the least possible interference by the Government, upon open competition within the law, and it would be no myth but a nightmare if anyone tried to change this most essential characteristic of our Nation.

Swedish Sailing Vessel Now Tourist Attraction

By RALPH VILLERS

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Up from the watery grave into which it slipped 334 years ago, the mighty, but luckless, Warship Vasa has happier sailing ahead as a prime attraction of this historic northern capital.

Although raised from Stockholm Harbor last year, this is the first summer that visitors can get a proper look at both the 1,400-ton galleon and many of the historical finds discovered in and near the wreck of the onetime pride of Sweden. All are now under roof in a new "temporary" museum opened less than five months ago.

The Vasa, named for the 17th Century royal household and built to bolster Swedish naval might in the Thirty Years' War, heeled over before a none-too-strong gust and sank on its maiden voyage less than a mile from the quay it had just departed Aug. 10, 1628. About 50 of the 433 persons on board were lost in the mysterious accident.

Now resting on a floating pontoon and housed in steamy humidity in a modernistic, aluminum structure, the Vasa has become a top tourist attraction. A few steps away, in a museum dotted with steam-spouting humidifiers, a goodly representation of the 12,000 finds from the man-of-war — wood carvings, implements, utensils — are displayed.

The 100 per cent humidity maintained in both the ship's shed and museum at the Vasa Dockyard on the Bay of Kastell-Holmen is with good reason. Quick drying of the water-soacked timbers would cause the ship to crumble and be lost.

A visit to the Vasa also gives a close-up view of the extensive preservation work underway inside and outside the hull.

All about is the sound of jetting vapor. That, explained Lt. Bengt Hallvards, a spokesman for the Vasa Council, is the process of repeatedly applying a preservative liquid.

"The liquid forces out the water and it preserves the cells of the wood," Hallvards said. "We spray the hull outside in the morning and inside in the afternoon."

This isn't a task taking a few weeks or months. Hallvards estimates it may take five to six years to complete the preservation process. After that will come a permanent home for the 180-foot-long warship.

The adjoining museum abounds in artifacts from the ship — including the mighty carved wood lions head that snarled from the Vasa's prow, and numerous other finely worked wood carvings by various artists which decorated the bow, the gunports and other parts of the vessel. An original one-ton brass cannon is mounted outside the museum.

Eventually the Vasa Council — which has the active support of Sweden's King Gustaf VI Adolf, the Navy, historical organizations prominent individuals and industry — hopes to completely restore the warship. Diving still is going on in the harbor, where the ship was rediscovered in 1956 by historically-minded engineer Anders Franzen, for other pieces and remains of the Vasa.

Everything found is packed off to a specially built preservation factory outside Stockholm.

"It's the biggest in the world," said Hallvards, adding jokingly, "There is no other, so it must be the biggest."

One day, several years from now, the Vasa should stand again as proud as on that unhappy day in 1628 when it took its first brief voyage.

But even before then, she's still the newest sight in a very old city and well worth a look.

Hungary Begins Drive Against Hard Drinkers

By GARY HAMPTON

BUDAPEST (UPI)—Communist Hungary has launched something like a state-directed "Alcoholics Anonymous" in a national drive against excessive drinking.

Hungarians are not hard-drinking people and there are few few drunks to be seen in streets and bars. But authorities apparently are concerned at a rise in the number of crimes committed by people who have been drinking and of industrial and traffic accidents caused by intoxication.

The government campaign ranges from warning all school children against the dangers of drink to trying to rehabilitate chronic drinkers in alcoholic clinics where they can receive free medical treatment, advice and companionship.

Other measures include closing down many thousands of low-class "drink-shops" and purging press, radio and television of material which might encourage Hungarians to drink. Instead, these media now will promote natural fruit drinks put on sale especially for the campaign. Legislation will be passed to protect the families of alcoholics and stiffer penalties for crimes and accidents involving drink already have been introduced.

Few figures are available on the problem. The Communist Party newspaper "Nepszabadsag," however recently noted that consumption of rum and other spirits was significantly higher last year than in 1960, adding that 20 per cent of all crimes in 1960 were committed by people under the influence of alcohol. This figure was three percent higher than in 1958. Other newspapers frequently have appealed to readers to help solve personal problems of their colleagues.

Also, Budapest police have warned a growing number of local moonshiners against the risk of poisoning their clients by distilling spirits from wood alcohol bought on the black market.

The government has scheduled completion of 17 permanent alcohol clincis throught Hungary by the end of 1962. Ten already are working, seven in Budapest and three in important provincial centers.

These clinics treat less-advanced alcoholics who attend regularly while continuing work, wherever possible, and living at home. Treatment is voluntary for the present.

Doctors say the method is working for about half the 5,000 alcoholics who have sought help in Budapest since the first clinic opened, despite the normal high rate of relapses. They say these figures bear comparison with results obtained elsewhere and that attendence may be made compulsory at a later stage.

U.S. Youths Attend Unique Paris School

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — Some American students play baseball today on a lawn where Madame Dubarry used to stroll.

Others read "Tom Sawyer" in a schoolroom with marble fireplaces and golden carved walls.

This corner of the United States in a romantic French setting is the American school in Paris.

With the American colony a bustling 10,000, the school is a popular, expanding service for Americans who are embassy or military officials, journalists or businessmen who want their children to attend a school similar to those they left back home.

"We offer the regular American curriculum, plus the French language — taught in all of the grades," said John Chapman, of Bremen, Maine, who left a private school in Portland, Maine, to become the new headmaster.

The school was founded in 1946 by some interested Americans. It has three buildings. Two-hundred children are in the first to fifth grades in a rented mansion in suburban Boulogne. Another 180 students fill the sixth and ninth grades in a similar house in suburban Louvciennes. And across the street, 120 students in grades 10, 11 and 12 use the former Dubarry estate.

Now the estate has a strong American flavor. Boys bounce basketballs on the mansion's big stone terrace. In the French class, Hope Indian dolls decorat a shelf.

Many Americans living in Paris send their children to French schools. But the American School appears even to native Parisiens. Ten per cent of the students are French. Another 10 per cent are embassy children from 12 countries, from Japan to Brazil, and other nations where English is the first or second language.

The American pupils come from 48 states. They include Ambassador James Gavin's two oldest children; Mark Hammel, son of a Louisville, Ky., businessman stationed in Paris, and Martie Holmes, Westport, Conn., whose father serves with the American Youth Association.

The students go to school by bus. All hands get hot lunches, plus milk imported from Norway, served in the entry hall of the Dubarry mansion. The marble floors and paintings on the ceiling are part of the setting here too.

Change Urged In U.S. Adoption Laws

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of unwanted children are growing up in institutions because of chaotic adoption laws in the United States, a social service worker charges.

Verrill Rogers, executive director of WAIF, an organization founded in 1953 by actress Jane Russell to find homes in the United States for foreign orphans said that nearly a million American couples seek to adopt children every year but that fewer than 100,000 youngsters are made available.

There are many children overseas who are adoptable, but various stumbling blocks such as immigration laws and other red tape and high expenses keep the number low, she said. WAIF, for example, after nine years in operation, recently found a new home for its 10,000th orphan — a Greek boy adopted by an American couple.

"Despite all the red tape in adopting a foreign child," Miss Rodgers said in an interview, "it still is easier to adopt a Greek child than a child in a foundling hospital in the U.S.

Adoption laws differ from state to state. Some states have excellent legislation and some, dreadful. It is still legal in one state to deed a child, the way you would buy or sell a piece of property."

"A service man in Japan married a Japanese girl," she continued, "He brought his wife and children home. Their marriage is not legal in his state because of their racial difference. He cannot adopt his own children because they are half Japanese."

Miss Rogers said that child welfare agencies are trying to draft uniform adoption laws for consideration by state legislatures to get children out of institutions and into homes.

Ways are being sought, for example, to force parents to give up children that they institutionalize for various reasons. In many places, Miss Rogers said, a parent is allowed to limit his visits to a child to once a year but at the same time refuse to give the child up for adoption by a couple who would give him a real home.

"We are hoping for laws that will provide homes for these children," she said.

Miss Russell, as the head of a division of International Social Service, Inc., was invited to argue the case for more liberal adoption laws at the National Conference of Legislators in Seattle in June.

"We hope to get uniformity eventually," Miss Rogers said. "We need reciprocal arrangements between states, for one thing. California and some other states now have such an arrangement. If someone in California wants to adopt a child in another part of the country, there is machinery to provide for that in some cases. This should be the case all over the U.S.

"For another thing, we want a clearing house of information on what people want children and what children are available and where they are. If an Oklahoma couple wants a child and the child is in Maine, they should get him. As long as people want children, it seems wrong that there are any children still in institutions."

Nearly eight tons of 36 per cent nickel-iron alloy castings were used in the construction of the structure to support the 200-inch telescopic mirror at Mount Palomar observatory.

Jack Frost Lost

PALISADE, N.J. (UPI) — Jack Frost got lost Tuesday as the temperature climbed into the upper eighties. Thousands of persons attempting to beat the heat at the Palisades Amusement Park here were not surprised to hear a loud speaker announcement that Jack Frost was lost. Jack, 4, was reunited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frost of Brooklyn after a separation of about a half hour.

Many migrating birds fly nonstop over thousands of miles of open ocean in their travels, but no one seems to know how they navigate.

"For another thing, we want a clearing house of information on what people want children and what children are available and where they are. If an Oklahoma couple wants a child and the child is in Maine, they should get him. As long as people want children, it seems wrong that there are any children still in institutions."

Nearly eight tons of 36 per cent nickel-iron alloy castings were used in the construction of the structure to support the 200-inch telescopic mirror at Mount Palomar observatory.

Jack Frost Lost

PALISADE, N.J. (UPI) — Jack Frost got lost Tuesday as the temperature climbed into the upper eighties. Thousands of persons attempting to beat the heat at the Palisades Amusement Park here were not surprised to hear a loud speaker announcement that Jack Frost was lost. Jack, 4, was reunited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frost of Brooklyn after a separation of about a half hour.

Many migrating birds fly nonstop over thousands of miles of open ocean in their travels, but no one seems to know how they navigate.

Dr. Salk Launches New-Type Institute

(United Press International)

In the intellectual haven of Princeton, N.J., Einstein pursued his momentous theories of the universe. In the scientific complex of Cape Canaveral, another generation of scientists works to probe the universe in reality.

Princeton's institute for Advanced Studies and Canaveral's sandy launching pads have one thing in common: they are greenhouses for ideas. To put it another way, they are custom-designed repositories for great minds.

What Princeton and Canaveral do for the physical sciences, Dr. Jonas Salk wants to do for the sciences of life.

Salk, developer of the anti-polio vaccine which bears his name, has launched a new institute for Biological Studies where neat minds can be gathered for a new, intense investigation on the remaining mysteries of life.

Or, as Salk himself describes the projected Salk Institute at La Jolla, Calif.—a "launching site" for "bionauts."

"If we speak of astronauts," he asks, "why can't we think of 'bionauts'—scientists who are capable of doing in biology what has already been done in the fields of space and of atomic physics?"

The National Foundation-March of Dimes will sponsor a campaign across the nation this summer to build and equip the Salk Institute.

In 1956, a year after his polio vaccine was declared safe and effective, Salk began to think about a "center for biological research where outstanding scientists in the fundamental disciplines would carry on their work in an atmosphere of intellectual imagination, heightened by the presence of the fellow workers."

He developed the idea of assembling "men of great excellence in the fields of biology, genetics, biochemistry, physics and mathematics," along with philosophers, historians of science and others concerned with humanitarian objectives."

"Discoveries in biology and medicine, as in other sciences, are not often made by accident or even by trial and error—they are achieved by deep and thoughtful search," Salk has said. "The way to solve the problems of disease is through understanding; cures and prevention come from knowledge and understanding.

"It is our expectation that the men and women at the Institute will help further understanding of the basic processes of life. In that way we should learn how the natural processes are altered by disease. As we understand more and more of the natural processes and therefore of the changes present in disease, we will have at our disposal knowledge upon which health is built.

"We prefer to think of life and health rather than disease and cure. The attitude and the approach at the Institute will be positive. The aim will be to contribute to helping man make the best of his gift of life."

The site for the Institute's three buildings, which will provide all the facilities needed by the "bionauts," consists of 27 acres overlooking the Pacific just north of San Diego. Gift of the land, valued at $1 million, was authorized by the electorate last year.

The three units of the Salk Institute will house the Laboratories, the Meeting House and the Quarters for Visiting Fellows. The Laboratories will be part of a two-story building that is to include studies and a technical library. The top floor is partly roofed by glass and is built without columns to permit maximum flexibility in laying out individual laboratories. Each laboratory will be provided with water, steam, air, vacuum and electricity.

The Quarters for Visiting Fellows, which will accomodate some of the "bionauts," is to be a cluster of some 18 two-story units divided into studio-type rooms. The third unit, the Meeting House, is designed as the intellectual, cultural and social heart of the Salk Institute. It will provide seminar rooms, a library for special collections dealing with the humanistic aspects of science, accomodations for temporary guests, an exhibition hall and a lecture hall.

Salk, who will be director of the Institute, is a relatively young scientist of 47. He and his wife, the former Donna Lindsay, have three sons, and now live in Pittsburgh.

Salk was born in New York City October 28, 1914. He graduated from City College of New York and entered New York University College of Medicine when under 20. After graduation he went to the University of Michigan under a March of Dimes fellowship and joined the staff of Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., a leading virologist and epidemiologist.

In 1947 he went to the University of Pittsburgh as associate research professor of bacteriology. Two years later, working under a March of Dimes research grant, he began his work in polio. He has described the development of Salk vaccine with considerable modesty.

"I happened to be in the right place to catch a long forward pass."

Moose To Induct Class Friday

Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, will induct a class of 12 candidates Friday at 8 p.m. at the lodge home on Paca Street.

The ritual will be conducted by the Keyser Moose degree team, led by Capt. Charles (Doc) Snyder. The class has been named in honor of Frank (Pop) Trozzo who died recently.

A dance will be held after the ceremonies with music by the Pie Harvey Trio.

Safety Group Offers Tips For Cookouts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Precaution makes the family cookout safe as well as savory.

The Greater New York Safety Council offered these fire prevention tips:

Before starting a fire, clear the area of leaves, pine needles, and all other flammables. Keep fire small and let it burn down to gray coals before putting on food. Don't use kerosene or lighter fluid to start a fire.

Supervise the fire constantly and always have water on hand to extinguish sparks. Use extra precaution on windy days.

Small children should be kept away from the fire and from playing in the area where the food is being prepared. Watch your own step and wear clothing that will not droop into the flames or ignite easily.

Keep your legs covered to avoid burns from spattering hot grease or boiling liquid. Use asbestos or well-padded pot holder mittens, not the nearest towel or dishcloth for overheated pan handles.

Use long-handled utensils. Get help in handling large pots or ladle out the food until they are light enough to be carried easily.

Douse the fire when you're ready to leave the picnic area. Stir the ashes and cover them with earth.

Treat Honored By Heart Unit

Ernest B. Treat, credited with much of the success of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, was cited for his "10 years of devoted Heart work" Tuesday at the association's 14th annual awards dinner, held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Treat, manager of the Shrine Club, recently retired from the association board of directors because of the press of business, received a gold service recognition medallion.

He also received a letter of commendation from Dr. Edward Davens, president of the Heart Association of Maryland.

Also receiving a gold service medallion for 10 years service was Mrs. John G. Clower, while James W. Webster, Jr., 1962 general campaign chairman, and Mrs. William H. Macy, Heart Sunday chairman for the past three years, received silver service medallions.

The association elected its Board of Directors following the dinner. Elected were Mrs. Irva Mickey, William A. Wilson, C. Glenn Watson Jr., Albert A. Helmick, Harry C. Edwards, James W. Webster, Jr., Charles E. Bramble, Robert J. Brown, Dr. Robert D. Brodell, and Dr. G. Overton Himmelwright.

Other awards presented were 12 bronze service medallions, 13 framed certificates, 23 certificates of appreciation and pins, 20 business and organization certificates of merit, and certificates of appreciation to fund campaign leaders in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Dr. Earl R. Paul, local surgeon, discussed cardial pulmonary resuscitation, and a film: "External Cardiac Massage" was shown. Dr. Paul and Dr. L. Michael Glick demonstrated the closed-chest massage technique on a hospital mannequin, "Resusci-Ann."

In attendance were Paul Neff, executive director of the Heart Association of Maryland, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee S. Bowers. Bowers is program director for the state association.

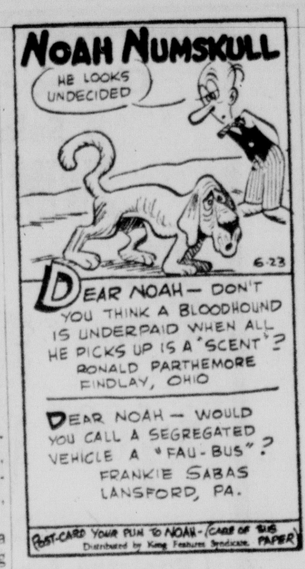
Invocation was given by Fred Merrill Macy, son of one of the award winners, who is a student at Lenoir-Rhyne College.

Frosty Belles Plan Wiener Roast

FROSTBURG—"Braddock Parkettes," Chapter 16, Frosty Belles, will hold a wiener roast at Braddock Park, Thursday at 7:30 p.m., following a business session.

Final plans will be made for a dinner to be held at Anton's Big Savage Inn next Thursday.

Sounds travel four and a half times more quickly in water than in air.



Steel produced by the bessemer process began replacing iron rails after the Civil War.

Brotherhood Dinner To Honor Three

The minister, priest and rabbi who will participate in the fourth annual Brotherhood Week observance of the National Conference of Christians and Jews today at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club have been announced by John J. Rowan, Allegany County conference chairman of the Maryland region.

Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will offer the invocation. The middle prayer will be led by Rabbi Israel Wolmark, of Beth Jacob Synagogue, and benediction will be given by Rev. John Lipinski, O.F.M., Cap., of SS. Peter and Paul monastery.

The program, to begin with a dinner at 6:30 p. m., will be highlighted by the presentation of citations to Sister Mary Richard, administrator of Sacred Heart Hospital, Samuel M. Jacobson, M.D., and George Henderson, retired chief judge of Allegany County Circuit Court, who were selected as the Catholic, Jew, and Protestant, respectively, for "contributing in outstanding measure to the brotherhood of man."

William C. Walsh, former judge in the Maryland Court of Appeals and former Maryland attorney general, will be master of ceremonies.

Also scheduled is the presentation of plaques to the nine previous citation winners for "their continuing interest in the National Conference of Christians and Jews," Rowan said.

They are the late Judge D. Lindley Sloan (to be received by a son, James Sloan), John H. Mosner, vice president of Second National Bank, and Robert Kaplon, 1959 winners; Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of Allegany County schools, Clarence Lippel, local attorney, John J. McMullen, publisher, Times and Alleganian Company, 1960 selectees; William C. Walsh, U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, and former Magistrate Morris Baron, who were chosen last year.

Nearly 900 area residents have been sent invitations to the dinner, Rowan said, including Mrs. Benjamin R. Lewis, Jr., president, Cumberland Woman's Civic Club; Mrs. Leslie J. Clark, president, Junior Women's Civic Club; Mrs. Roy C. Dickerson, president, LaVale Century Club; and Mrs. Albert D. Heacox, president, Federated Women's Clubs, all of whom have been invited as hostesses.

Dr. Sterling W. Brown, general director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and regarded as one of the outstanding leaders in the field of intergroup education, will speak.

Rowan will deliver the welcome, and greetings will be extended by Mayor J. Edwin Keech and Nathan R. Jerald, Maryland regional director of the conference.

Citations will be presented by Walsh.

James R. Hager will sing "My Baby Prayer," lyrics of which were written by J. Gopdloe Jackson, president of the Allegany County Board of Education. He will be accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Robert R. Gormer.

Besides Rowan, those on the committee that made the selections are David Sigel and William A. Douglas, co-chairman, John H. Mosner, treasurer, William L. Wilson Jr., Judge Walsh, Milton G. Gerson and Mrs. Jim McQuown.

Attends Conference

Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, is attending a three-day Gorup III Executives Conference of the Eastern Area Staff in Alexandria, Va.

Rain Storm Brings Protests

MERCERSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Farmer S. A. Heisey sowed the wind in nearby Montgomery Township and is now reaping a whirlwind from his irate neighbors.

Some 400 of them jammed into the Township Elementary School to protest Heisey's tinkering with the clouds to produce rain for his more than 300 acres of orchards.

The mass meeting was the latest in a series of events that began last month when Heisey retained the Blue Ridge Hail Suppression Project, Martinsburg, W. Va., to do something about the weather over his land. Until Tuesday, it had been a dry spring.

(This is the same project which is financed by fruit growers in this section to limit hail storms which often damage fruit.)

At the heated 2½-hour session some farmers protested that Heisey's rainmaking efforts had drawn all the water to his own land. Others contended that Tuesday's 24-hour deluge was a direct—and not too welcome—result of the Heisey project.

The Martinsburg firm was retained by Heisey to "seed" the clouds. Seeding is a process involving sprinkling of a chemical, usually sodium iodide in a cloud to precipitate moisture into rainfall.

As soon as the West Virginia firm began flying missions over the Heisey lands, the protests began to roll in. Two weeks ago somebody chopped down 138 of Heisey's plum trees, worth about $1,035.

Dr. Charles L. Hosler, Pennsylvania State University meteorologist, attempted to pacify the meeting by pointing out that seeding doesn't funnel moisture into a specific area, such as Heisey's farm. He also contended that the process is of questionable value because even when it works it produces only a small amount of rain.

Poster Contest Won By St. Louis Girl

EMMITSBURG, Md. (AP)—St. Joseph College announced Tuesday that Rosemary Boedeker of St. Louis won the national poster-slogan contest sponsored by the Omega chapter of Pi Delta Phi, national French honor society.

Miss Boedeker is a student at Villa Duchesne in St. Louis. She took top honors in the contest with her modernistic interpretation of religion through the ages.

Joan Walsh, a classmate of Miss Boedeker at Villa Duchesne, took second place.

Pi Delta Phi is dedicated to the promotion of French culture in the United States.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 132 Dispatches about Daniel E. Sickles a century ago this month were more favorable to his reputation than news through which the public knew him best. He was leading the 2nd Brigade, Hooker's Division, Union Army of the Potomac.

Sickles, an old line New York Democrat and lawyer, created a national sensation in 1859, while he was representing the Empire State in the Senate. Believing Philip Barton Key, son of Francis Scott Key of "Star Spangled Banner" fame, to have forced attentions upon Mrs. Sickles, the senator shot young Key to death.

Brought to trial in Washington, Sickles pleaded temporary insanity for the first time in United States legal annals, and won an acquittal. Then Sickles publicly "forgave" his wife and took her back. She capped that climax by committing suicide.

When war came in 1861, Sickles helped raise the "Excelsior" militia brigade in New York City and was chosen colonel of the 20th Regiment, which was sent to join the defenders of Washington.

Subsequently, Sickles acquitted himself as a brigade and divisional commander at Fair Oaks, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg. After injuries forced his retirement from active duty, he made a confidential mission to South America for his old friend, Secretary of State Stanton, and was military governor of the Carolinas. After the war he was U. S. minister to Spain.

Sickles' political career ended with his being charged with mishandling of funds appropriated for war monuments. He died in obscurity.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

Dan Sickles as a brigadier. Congress refused to confirm Lincoln's first nomination of Sickles for brigadier general rank, although Sickles had been in command of a brigade for months. It yielded a second nomination. He eventually was promoted to major general. Sickles was awarded Medal of Honor for heroism at Gettysburg, where wounds required the amputation of a leg.

Candidate Innocent Of Drunk Driving

FERNDALE, Md. (AP)—Bruce C. Williams, Republican candidate for state's attorney in Anne Arundel County, was found innocent of drunken and reckless driving Tuesday night.

Magistrate Ralph C. Boyd handed down the verdict in Ferndale Police Court. Williams had pleaded innocent to both charges.

The candidate was arrested last Wednesday after a collision with an auto driven by William Raitter, 37-year-old sailor.

Boyd convicted Raitter of drunken driving, imposed a $101.45 fine and suspended it. The sailor was acquitted of reckless driving. He had pleaded innocent to both charges.

Candidate Innocent Of Drunk Driving

FERNDALE, Md. (AP)—Bruce C. Williams, Republican candidate for state's attorney in Anne Arundel County, was found innocent of drunken and reckless driving Tuesday night.

Magistrate Ralph C. Boyd handed down the verdict in Ferndale Police Court. Williams had pleaded innocent to both charges.

The candidate was arrested last Wednesday after a collision with an auto driven by William Raitter, 37-year-old sailor.

Boyd convicted Raitter of drunken driving, imposed a $101.45 fine and suspended it. The sailor was acquitted of reckless driving. He had pleaded innocent to both charges.

Williams, 31, of Severna Parl, was unopposed in the Republican primary last May 15.

Historic Link To C&O Canal Removed Here To Make Way For Industrial Boulevard Project

Another link to the historic C&O Canal has been removed from the local scene with the razing of the large structure on Wineow Street once occupied by the W. T. Coulehan and Brothers wholesale grocers.

The large building was razed to make way for the Industrial Boulevard project. It was located opposite the A&P Supermarket parking lot at the intersection of Kearney and Wineow streets.

In 1887 two young men, William T. Coulehan, 35, and Bernard J. Coulehan, 25, sons of Bernard Carroll Coulehan and Mary Walsh Coulehan, founded the W. T. Coulehan and Brothers firm.

The section was known as "Shanty Town" and the grocery firm was adjacent to the C&O Canal basin where the canal barges took on cargoes for the trip to Georgetown and way points of the 186-mile long canal.

The Coulehan firm's main business was with the men who operated the canal boats. They sold flour, all kinds of groceries, feed for the mules which pulled the boats, and also coal. The coal was shipped to Georgetown.

In addition the firm delivered groceries to the neighborhood grocers in Cumberland by horse and wagon.

As time went on the firm modernized and owned one of the first motorized dump trucks in Cumberland — a Federal truck which had solid rubber tires.

The company went through many critical periods. A fire in 1915 almost completely disrupted the business and caused a heavy loss.

During the 1936 St. Patrick's Day flood there was 10 feet of water in the building and the loss in merchandise was $35,000. One section of the building had been filled with a carload of sacked flour just the day before the flood.

Later the business was liquidated and Albert Tomsko operated the Community Market there. Later on the Tri-State Electrical Company occupied the building. The building was vacant for about a year before being razed.

W. T. Coulehan lived in an old mansion at the corner of Williams and Orchard streets and Bernard Coulehan lived on Orchard Street. Both homes were just across the street from the Footer Dye Works, which then was the largest plant of its kind in the world.

The market for bourbon whiskey has been growing steadily since 1948. By 1959 bourbon sales had quadrupled, and have continued rising ever since.

Relentless Growth Should Be Checked

As the federal government accelerates its penetration into many new areas, compounds its activities in established roles and as a result of both continues to become mired ever deeper in financial distress, more members of Congress are looking into a widening list of agencies with an eye toward pruning back some of the excess growth.

It is interesting to compare a present-day agency—almost any agency—to the intents and purposes which begat it.

If honors are to be bestowed for that agency which has expanded its domain farthest from its original purpose, the Rural Electrification Administration would be high up in the running. Founded with the commendable purpose of bringing electricity to the widespread rural areas in which commercial electrification was not economically feasible, the REA long ago accomplished this purpose and is now encroaching on the urban territory of private electric companies.

Investor-owned utilities and the REA now serve all but 3 per cent of American farms, but the REA is not content to rest on its laurels. It has requested a record appropriation from Congress for fiscal 1963 of almost $500 million.

REA expansion in recent years has concentrated more and more heavily on competition with or replacement of taxpaying private utilities. The government agency is able to penetrate and usurp power areas now adequately served by private firms through two special privileges.

It is able to borrow money at 2 per cent interest and it does not account to Congress for its individual projects. The appropriations it receives are distributed according to the decisions of REA officials, and are not prejudged by Congress.

A half billion dollars a year is a formidable war chest to further the encroachment on private enterprise by government monopoly. Since the REA has passed the goal for which it was founded, is it not time Congress began holding the purse-strings to its future activities?

The Gilbert Story

For several years, I have seen Eddie Gilbert about New York. He had moved from the wrong side of the tracks into the social and moral morass known as Cafe Society. By the way his name appeared, with regularity, in certain gossip columns, he must have had a press agent to proclaim his significance and to make his adopted name and his profession as a financier a household word.

Eddie Gilbert bought friendships by picking up the tab for his social superiors. He gave parties at which were present some who are always present at parties and whose presence requires a headwaiter to give a preferred table, if any table is ever really preferred.

He owned a house on the Riviera, which is a European Gaza strip where ladies and gentlemen during the season disport themselves, as they do during another season at Palm Beach and as their ancestors used to do at Newport or Atlantic City. It is the thing to do and does not cost too much if you know someone like Eddie Gilbert who has sleeping space for distinguished names and whose Sunday breakfasts, with champagne and an orchestra, brought together those who go everywhere and are known to everybody.

Eddie Gilbert sure made it. Now, of course, he has taken refuge in Brazil, which is a sanctuary for American swindlers. If you have any intention of being a swindler, do not jump out of a window, if your conscience pricks you. Just take a plane to Brazil and join the colony of expatriates there.

Eddie Gilbert's partner in this gaiety was a rather demure young lady, his wife, Rhoda. She did not go to Brazil with Eddie because they are now living apart. Rhoda recently got into a tizzy over some jewelry which she picked up at Cartier's; not one piece, but a couple of handsful. She expected Eddie to pay. He declined. She was forced to return the jewelry.

His fortune, estimated at $15,000,000, had disappeared in the complications of the deflation of paper values. He not only was broke but he had helped himself to $2,000,000 or thereabouts and ran off to Brazil. He said in an interview that he hoped "to pay everybody back and make everything whole some day." That is the spirit! But when is some day? Meanwhile, Eddie is in Brazil and if he has any of the $2,000,000 that he swiped from his company, he can, of course, trade on European exchanges, even in American securities, evading income taxes which will be a help. If he is found to be trading on American exchanges, his funds will probably be seized. Eddie is not likely to do that.

Eddie, in this purported interview, says that if he returned to the United States, he would be crucified. He is in error. We do not crucify. He would undoubtedly be arrested, indicted by a Grand Jury, tried by a judge and jury in a Court of Law and he would perhaps be convicted and sent to prison. After 10 years or so, he might get out of prison for good behavior and probably find that all those for whom he picked up the tab in fancy restaurants, no longer knew him. It is a habit in those circles, to run fast from trouble.

Eddie holds that he did nothing to hurt anybody intentionally. Nevertheless a great many people suffered because of Eddie's financial genius, particularly those whom he guaranteed against losses. One of Eddie's complaints is that a "lot of important people on Wall Street disappointed him." This is not surprising.

There are very few important people on Wall Street. In such an extremity as the present one, the brokers and bankers of Wall Street strip themselves of refinement and become Shylocks who demand their due. It was Wall Street's hardness of heart in its dealings with the Bank of the United States that got the 1929 Depression rolling. Anyone who believes that he can depend on "important people" in Wall Street might just as well depend on an IBM machine.

Eddie must have picked up the tab for those "important people." Now, they don't know him. Had he asked anyone who has had dealings with "important people," he would have been told that they always run away. When, in trouble, it is best to go to unimportant people.

The Doctor's There With Another Pill

The Two Grand Designs Of JFK And DeGaulle

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

At long last, the Algerian tragedy really seems to be coming to an end. For the United States, this chiefly means the opening of a new era in the far from easy relationship between President Kennedy and President Charles de Gaulle.

The point is that de Gaulle's freedom of action was always limited, as long as the grim Algerian problem remained unsolved. But now that the killing has ceased in Algiers, de Gaulle is entirely free to try to realize his highly personal design for Europe.

In addition, the large French army will also, in the main, be set free by the Algerian peace. This is highly important, since de Gaulle means to use his army as a crucial counter in his European game. The French divisions are to be used, not to meet France's commitment to NATO, but to give credibility to de Gaulle's arguments for the eventual creation of a strictly European defense system, without NATO's dependence on the U. S.

In the same fashion, the French nuclear program is also intended to serve as the embryo for an eventual European deterrent, with or without British cooperation, but once again independent of the American deterrent. De Gaulle has in fact long had the idea at the back of his mind, that as soon as the power of France could be disentangled from Algeria, the pooled strength of the Western European nations would be sufficient to constitute a third giant power.

De Gaulle will now attempt to lay the foundations of this new giant power, complete with its own nuclear deterrent, comparable in magnitude to the U. S. or the Soviet Union, and independent of both. He can hardly complete his grand design in the years that remain to him, but it is very clear indeed that he means to go forward as fast as his European partners, and particularly the West Germans, will allow him to.

Two features of the de Gaulle design stick in the craws of President Kennedy and his policy-makers. On the one hand, they are firmly convinced that the existing world balance makes the defense of Western Europe just as important for the United States as the defense of actual American territory. Thus they are convinced that the U. S. must always share in West Europe's defenses.

On the other hand and far more important, the President and those around him are deeply dismayed by the prospect of an additional nuclear power, whether French, or Franco-German, or Western European, which is not tied to the United States in the manner of British nuclear power.

At the same time, the Kennedy policy-makers recognize that de Gaulle will not suspend his nuclear program, just because Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara warned him that "additional national nuclear forces operating independently" will be "dangerous, expensive, prone to obsolescence, and lacking in credibility" as deterrents — which was how McNamara put it at Ann Arbor, Mich., on Saturday. The result, therefore, is a Kennedy grand design, intended to compete for European adherents with the de Gaulle grand design.

Under the Kennedy grand design, NATO will be strengthened, and not just on the ground. With American assistance, a European deterrent will also be created; but this European deterrent will be quite unlike de Gaulle's. It will in fact be firmly linked to the American deterrent. It will not be usable without American approval; and in return, certain limitations will be accepted on the free use of the American deterrent.

Just how these limitations are to be drawn up, or to be enforced, is very far from clear. "Guide lines" agreed upon with the Western Europeans, controlling what the President of the United States may or may not do with our deterrent, are one of the devices under consideration..

The arguments for this new grand design are basically simple. It is accepted that the Europeans will not remain indefinitely content to found their whole defense system on a nuclear deterrent under exclusive American control. It is agreed, therefore, that there must be a European deterrent of some sort, which will at least be preferable to several more national deterrents. It is considered, finally, that any limitations to be imposed on this European deterrent must at least appear to be balanced by reciprocal restrictions on the U. S. deterrent.

These are all valid arguments. But unless the "guide lines" device is almost miraculously ingenious, the new grand design effectively means that the American deterrent will be placed under the control of an international committee — which is a strong counter-argument, at least in this country. This is a story, in fact, which is barely beginning. And no man can now foresee this story's end.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MARKET'S NOSE DIVE — The wildly fluctuating stock market of recent weeks inevitably became the subject of sharp debate in the Senate as Republicans and then Democrats sought to make political capital out of the event.

During the Eisenhower years when Democrats, including the then presidential candidate John Kennedy, assailed the government's economic policies as causing stagnation, Senate Republicans attacked them on grounds that they were prophets of doom and gloom creating a depressing picture of American economic prospects in other lands.

It took the market drop to turn the tables. As Republican after Republican arose in the Senate to blame the Kennedy administration for the stock market losses, Democratic senators pinned the doom and gloom label on their political adversaries.

Democrats charged that Republicans, in their effort to make political hay out of the market losses, were painting a false picture of the U. S. economy.

During one exchange, Sen. Henry Dworkshak, R-Idaho, read to the Senate a gloomy report of American stocks dropping sharply in foreign markets. Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., asked for the time the report was originated; then proceeded to state that the market had changed course and was rising.

Dworshak commended Humphrey in ironic tones for turning the tide of the market with a single Senate speech. And, with seeming seriousness, Humphrey accepted the compliment, stating it was the finest tribute ever paid him.

Humphrey topped off the exchange by inviting Dworshak to join with the other Democratic senators because of his high regard for them as reflected in his compliment. But Dworshak declined. He took the position that there already were too many Democratic senators on Capitol Hill.

Dedicated Officials Undismayed By Task Of Reforming Criminals

By Drew Pearson

SAN FRANCISCO — Walking along the catwalk around Alcatraz, I noticed a prisoner working alongside the incinerator look up and wave at Fred Wilkinson, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

"That's George McCoy," explained Wilkinson. "We transferred him here after he killed Remington at Lewisburg."

Wilkinson referred to William Remington, the former Communist official in the Commerce Department, who was murdered in his cell by McCoy and two other prisoners at the Lewisburg Penitentiary. McCoy is one of the original feuding McCoys of Kentucky, and still thinks he did a patriotic service in killing Remington.

Director Wilkinson once served as warden at Lewisburg, and O. G. Blackwell, now warden at Alcatraz, was his assistant. They have grown up in the federal prison system, seem undiscouraged by the difficult, sometimes hopeless job of reforming men, of making hardened criminals realize that there is a better way of life.

There chief, James V. Bennett, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, is one of the most dedicated men in prison work. Both he and Wilkinson know almost every important criminal in federal penitentiaries, understand their problems both in prison and at home. They can tell you whether a wife is waiting to help encourage a man when he comes home, or whether she has given up and sued for divorce.

Wilkinson has worked in so many other prisons that 150 out of the 266 inmates at Alcatraz have served under him.

As we walked around the catwalk, a Negro prisoner called up from the exercise pen below. He had held up a bank near Andrews Air Force base in Maryland.

"Mr. Wilkinson," he called, "when you gonna transfer me out of here?"

"Where do you want to go?" asked the assistant director.

"Back to Atlanta," was the reply.

Another prisoner standing beside him wanted to go to Arizona.

"He wants to go to our Florence, Ariz., institution because he comes from Arizona," Wilkinson explained. "We've had a lot of trouble with him, had to transfer him from one place to another. But now he's settling down. He's due to be discharged in a short time, but unfortunately his wife is divorcing him and he won't have much to go back to."

The three prisoners stood, in Navy peajackets, in the cold wind which swept over San Francisco Bay. There weren't enough prisoners off duty from the workshops to get up a handball game and they stood looking off at the skyscrapers of San Francisco, the Golden Gate Bridge, and all the unattainable joys of life that lay beyond.

Skeptical Grandchildren

George E. Johnson, a vigorous American who was born on the Greek Islands just off the Turkish coast, has become one of the leading citizens of Sacramento. Its top leaders pay tribute to his contributions to the community. But some of its junior citizens are skeptical.

The other day his grandchildren approached him on this subject.

"Papu," they said, Papu being Greek for grandfather, "We have told the children at school that you have a photo of President Kennedy signed by the President, but they won't believe us. Will you let us take your photograph of President Kennedy to school?"

"A photograph of the President should not be handed around among people," replied Papu Johnson, "but you can bring them here and show it to them."

About that time, President Kennedy punctuated his friendship for Johnson by inviting him to a state luncheon in honor of Archbishop Makarios, President of Cyprus, who now governs another Greek island off the coast of Turkey.

Alcatraz-Go-Round

When you have been on Alcatraz you can understand the accuracy and poignancy of the new motion picture, "Reprieve," Millard Kaufmann's gripping story of a prisoner in the death cell who at the last minute is reprieved. . . . The toughest criminals of the USA are not foreign born, but white Anglo-Americans. Out of the 266 Alcatraz inmates, 175 are Anglos, 75 Negro, two Chinese-Japanese, three Indian, ten Mexican, and one Puerto Rican. The Japanese, according to pen authorities, almost never commit violent crimes. The toughest criminals are native midwesterners. The criminal "circuit" used to extend from Kansas City to St. Paul, right through Middle America. . . . It takes 160 prison personnel to handle the 266 inmates of Alcatraz, an illustration of the fact that crime doesn't pay, either for the criminal or for the taxpayer who has to support him. . . . Prison personnel are part of the civil service system, especially trained for the work. But it's difficult to hire prison guards. Government pay is low compared with high wages in San Francisco, and the work is inclined to be depressing.

Inmates at Alcatraz, as in most prisons, pass through a metal-detection machine which can even detect metallic foil in a cigarette pack. Inmates must have cigarettes packed in nonmetallic paper, also wooden belt buckles and wooden supports in their shoes. . . . The average sentence for Alcatraz prisoners is 25 years, but their average stay on the rock is five years. When they improve they can go back to other institutions. Most prevalent crimes for which they are sentenced are bank robbery, kidnapping, and narcotics. . . . Average age of prisoners is 34. . . . Their average IQ is 100. . . . The library at Alcatraz is more in demand than almost any other in the USA. Prisoners go in for heavy reading —especially philosophy and sociology. They can take extension courses courtesy of the University of California, Penn State University.

Death On West End

By John Crosby

LONDON

We may be seeing the twilight of serious theater as we know it, not because there aren't any playwrights but because the audience is slipping away. The London theater is a particularly interesting case in point because it seems to be following--15 years later--our own lamentable tracks. That is, it's becoming a theater of smash hits, many of them musicals.

The interesting and challenging play catering to a small, solid minority taste that runs five months and makes a small profit is dissappearing here as it has in America. Productions that appeal to huge generalized audiences--and of course, the musical does that best --are the ones that survive. Naturally, that means a drift towards naked commercialism, which is distressing. "Blitz," a big splashy new musical hit of no particular distinction, is the most expensive production in English history. London is having a bad season except for the big musical hits.

Even the biggest play hit around, "The Private Ear, the Public Eye," was full of empty seats the night I was there. However, while the audience dwindles, the playwrighters, and some good ones, proliferate. Kenneth Tynan, drama critic for The Observer, says England is producing good young playwrights (most of them under 35) at the rate of one a month for the last five years. In the last ten days two good plays by young playwrights opened and another was due. But all these promising and much publicized young playwrights are all but starving to death. Their plays open at the Royal Court, which is the equivalent of Off-Broadway, or they open at art theaters in the provinces. The playwrights get their plays on, all right, which is more than ours do, but they make next to nothing.

Harold Pinter is the only playwright who has made any money of consequence and only because his play, "The Caretaker," went to Broadway. His new play, "The Collection," just arrived.

Probably the most written about and prolific of the younger playwrights is Arnold Wesker, who turns out plays of rather alarming realism like muffins, and who in spite of his hardly made eating money out of them. I saw Wesker's play, "The Kitchen," a year ago and loathed it. This time I saw his new play, "Chips with Everything," a bitter protest against the rigid cast system, with mounting excitement which probably would have been greater if so much of the play had not been muffled for me in Lancashire and Scottish dialects as impermeable as the mist of the Hebrides.

This is a play about a young aristocrat who wants to join the proletariat (because he thinks they're trodden upon), a sort of "Pygmalion" in reverse. However, breeding and particularly an Oxford accent will tell and in a stirring and really tremendously theatrical scene, the young hero, rather poorly played by John Kelland, assumes the habilments of caste, the officer's uniform, the gloves, the look of supercilious hauteur, and starts barking out commands to his poor Royal Air Force tentmates. Great scene. It reminded me strongly of Brecht in his great scene where the Pope dons the habilments of his office while pondering the fate of Galileo and turns into a different human by the sheer weight of office right before your eyes. I suspect Wesker has seen that scene.

Wesker is infatuated with pure realism to what I consider an inordinant degree. "The Kitchen" was documentary in fidelity to the facts of life in a big commercial kitchen and I found it a bore. In "Chips with Everything" the director, John Dexter, and the author wallow in realism in its scenes of recruit air force training. Again, I didn't think it was worth that slavish devotion to detail--but the English eat up this sort of thing, not only in the theater but in the movies and on television.

Documentary realism mixed with social protest is very large here at the moment.

There's one other important fact that, I think, is going unnoticed in our country and is creeping in here. I think that the center of theatrical excitement is moving out of the big cities--New York and London--and into the country. For instance, two of the interesting recent new plays here opened at art theaters at Coventry and Canterbury, not in London.

Sir Laurence Oliver and his wife, Joan Plowright, head a distinguished group of actors who have taken up residence at Chichester, where they are doing a summer of repertory.

The first Chichester Festival Theater season runs from July 3 to September 8. The festival opens with "The Chances" by the Jacobean John Fletcher, adapted by the Duke of Buckingham, followed by "The Broken Heart," by another Jacobean playwright, John Ford, and then Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya." The company's summer schedule is a repertory of dramatic classics and it is expected that the festival will be held at Chichester every summer.

All this-- the decentralization of the theater from the great metropolitan centers in our country and England--is a little cloud no bigger than a man's hand, way off on the horizon. Maybe it'll vanish. But I think this is the shape of things to come.

Hazards Of Collecting Mushrooms For Food

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Several years ago I struck a hornet's nest when I wrote about the hazards of collecting and eating mushrooms. It never occurred to me that mushroom lovers were so sensitive, scientific, and vocal. (Cat lovers are worse).

I assumed that everyone knew that some mushrooms are dangerous but mentioning this fact was an insult to their intelligence. Their criticism was justifiable because no one should collect wild mushrooms for food unless he knows mushrooms. But we must be realistic because people continue to die from eating the poisonous kinds.

Many connoisseurs of the table toadstool own books on the subject, are careful to pick their own, never mix species, and wait until the edible variety is in good condition. They are sure of the identification and know the deadly species in their community.

But many more depend upon knowledge of mushrooms that has been handed down from generation to generation. These people may not realize that the species are different in another state or country.

Furthermore, they will eat anyone's mushrooms, assuming that the product was obtained from the market. These people may be lucky but ought to become better acquainted if they wish to live to an old age. Never trust anyone else to identify a wild mushroom and be critical of your own determinations. If you are not an expert, eat only those grown for the market.

We don't have the space to describe and illustrate the deadly and the edible types. Some are so toxic, even a small piece may cause death. In general, avoid species with white caps and gills.

The universal antidote and inducing vomiting should be tried when the individual discovers he consumed toxic mushrooms. But in most instances the first indications of poisoning occur 6 to 15 hours after eating them. The food has been digested, the poison is in the blood, and it must be neutralized with a product such as atropine. Drugs to relieve distress are prescribed also. All this means a physician must be called.

Albert M. Fuller, curator of botany at the Milwaukee public museum, recommends the following books in the Wisconsin Conservation bulletin.

Common Edible Mushrooms by Clyde M. Christensen.

The Mushroom Hunter's Field Guide by Alexander H. Smith.

Field Book of Common Mushrooms by William Sturgis.

TOMORROW: Age not yet conquered.

SKIN CANCER

M.B. writes: Would a malignancy of the skin indicate the presence of cancer elsewhere in the body?

REPLY

Not as a rule. Internal cancers rarely spread to the skin unless they are under the skin and grow outward. A breast cancer, for example may grow large enough to break through the skin, forming a malignant ulcer.

EMPHYSEMA

E.B. writes: Does emphysema go into tuberculosis?

REPLY

No, but persons with tuberculosis may develop this lung condition, especially when they continue to smoke or have repeated bouts of bronchitis. Victims of emphysema usually cough and are short of breath.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Management memo pinned on the bulletin board of a paperbox factory: The Management of this organization, after due and careful consideration of certain regrettable practices which have recently been brought to its attention, is desirous of again reminding you of the fact — which has, of course, been pointed out on several previous occasions but which nevertheless has apparently been overlooked or ignored by an all-too-preponderant proportion of our present personnel — that all members of this organization should make an earnest, sincere, continuous and persistent effort to eschew and avoid all excessive wordiness, repetitive phraseology, unnecessarily complicated sentence structure, lengthy, involved, or obscure paragraphs, and other tautological and/or grammatical errors to indite or transcribe an internal communication of any nature whatsoever to one or more fellow employes. P.S. In other words — make it brief!

Caskie Stinnett reports that a passel of French delegates to a Moscow trade fair, understandably alert to the possibilities of their hotel room being bugged, cut through a maze of multi-colored wires they discovered cleverly hidden under the carpet. The floor was thick, but not so thick that it deadened the sound of the chandelier crashing in the room beneath them.

Two women aboard a Philadelphia bus were overheard discussing the contemplated divorce action by one of them. "Why," inquired the one not involved, "don't you sue the so-and-so for incompatibility?" "I would," replied the other, "if I could catch him at it."

One of Eddie's complaints is that a "lot of important people on Wall Street disappointed him." This is not surprising.

There are very few important people on Wall Street. In such an extremity as the present one, the brokers and bankers of Wall Street strip themselves of refinement and become Shylocks who demand their due. It was Wall Street's hardness of heart in its dealings with the Bank of the United States that got the 1929 Depression rolling. Anyone who believes that he can depend on "important people" in Wall Street might just as well depend on an IBM machine.

Eddie must have picked up the tab for those "important people." Now, they don't know him. Had he asked anyone who has had dealings with "important people," he would have been told that they always run away. When, in trouble, it is best to go to unimportant people.

The Doctor's There With Another Pill

The Two Grand Designs Of JFK And DeGaulle

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

At long last, the Algerian tragedy really seems to be coming to an end. For the United States, this chiefly means the opening of a new era in the far from easy relationship between President Kennedy and President Charles de Gaulle.

The point is that de Gaulle's freedom of action was always limited, as long as the grim Algerian problem remained unsolved. But now that the killing has ceased in Algiers, de Gaulle is entirely free to try to realize his highly personal design for Europe.

In addition, the large French army will also, in the main, be set free by the Algerian peace. This is highly important, since de Gaulle means to use his army as a crucial counter in his European game. The French divisions are to be used, not to meet France's commitment to NATO, but to give credibility to de Gaulle's arguments for the eventual creation of a strictly European defense system, without NATO's dependence on the U. S.

In the same fashion, the French nuclear program is also intended to serve as the embryo for an eventual European deterrent, with or without British cooperation, but once again independent of the American deterrent. De Gaulle has in fact long had the idea at the back of his mind, that as soon as the power of France could be disentangled from Algeria, the pooled strength of the Western European nations would be sufficient to constitute a third giant power.

De Gaulle will now attempt to lay the foundations of this new giant power, complete with its own nuclear deterrent, comparable in magnitude to the U. S. or the Soviet Union, and independent of both. He can hardly complete his grand design in the years that remain to him, but it is very clear indeed that he means to go forward as fast as his European partners, and particularly the West Germans, will allow him to.

Two features of the de Gaulle design stick in the craws of President Kennedy and his policy-makers. On the one hand, they are firmly convinced that the existing world balance makes the defense of Western Europe just as important for the United States as the defense of actual American territory. Thus they are convinced that the U. S. must always share in West Europe's defenses.

On the other hand and far more important, the President and those around him are deeply dismayed by the prospect of an additional nuclear power, whether French, or Franco-German, or Western European, which is not tied to the United States in the manner of British nuclear power.

At the same time, the Kennedy policy-makers recognize that de Gaulle will not suspend his nuclear program, just because Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara warned him that "additional national nuclear forces operating independently" will be "dangerous, expensive, prone to obsolescence, and lacking in credibility" as deterrents — which was how McNamara put it at Ann Arbor, Mich., on Saturday. The result, therefore, is a Kennedy grand design, intended to compete for European adherents with the de Gaulle grand design.

Under the Kennedy grand design, NATO will be strengthened, and not just on the ground. With American assistance, a European deterrent will also be created; but this European deterrent will be quite unlike de Gaulle's. It will in fact be firmly linked to the American deterrent. It will not be usable without American approval; and in return, certain limitations will be accepted on the free use of the American deterrent.

Just how these limitations are to be drawn up, or to be enforced, is very far from clear. "Guide lines" agreed upon with the Western Europeans, controlling what the President of the United States may or may not do with our deterrent, are one of the devices under consideration..

The arguments for this new grand design are basically simple. It is accepted that the Europeans will not remain indefinitely content to found their whole defense system on a nuclear deterrent under exclusive American control. It is agreed, therefore, that there must be a European deterrent of some sort, which will at least be preferable to several more national deterrents. It is considered, finally, that any limitations to be imposed on this European deterrent must at least appear to be balanced by reciprocal restrictions on the U. S. deterrent.

These are all valid arguments. But unless the "guide lines" device is almost miraculously ingenious, the new grand design effectively means that the American deterrent will be placed under the control of an international committee — which is a strong counter-argument, at least in this country. This is a story, in fact, which is barely beginning. And no man can now foresee this story's end.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MARKET'S NOSE DIVE — The wildly fluctuating stock market of recent weeks inevitably became the subject of sharp debate in the Senate as Republicans and then Democrats sought to make political capital out of the event.

During the Eisenhower years when Democrats, including the then presidential candidate John Kennedy, assailed the government's economic policies as causing stagnation, Senate Republicans attacked them on grounds that they were prophets of doom and gloom creating a depressing picture of American economic prospects in other lands.

It took the market drop to turn the tables. As Republican after Republican arose in the Senate to blame the Kennedy administration for the stock market losses, Democratic senators pinned the doom and gloom label on their political adversaries.

Democrats charged that Republicans, in their effort to make political hay out of the market losses, were painting a false picture of the U. S. economy.

During one exchange, Sen. Henry Dworkshak, R-Idaho, read to the Senate a gloomy report of American stocks dropping sharply in foreign markets. Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., asked for the time the report was originated; then proceeded to state that the market had changed course and was rising.

Dworshak commended Humphrey in ironic tones for turning the tide of the market with a single Senate speech. And, with seeming seriousness, Humphrey accepted the compliment, stating it was the finest tribute ever paid him.

Humphrey topped off the exchange by inviting Dworshak to join with the other Democratic senators because of his high regard for them as reflected in his compliment. But Dworshak declined. He took the position that there already were too many Democratic senators on Capitol Hill.

Dedicated Officials Undismayed By Task Of Reforming Criminals

By Drew Pearson

SAN FRANCISCO — Walking along the catwalk around Alcatraz, I noticed a prisoner working alongside the incinerator look up and wave at Fred Wilkinson, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

"That's George McCoy," explained Wilkinson. "We transferred him here after he killed Remington at Lewisburg."

Wilkinson referred to William Remington, the former Communist official in the Commerce Department, who was murdered in his cell by McCoy and two other prisoners at the Lewisburg Penitentiary. McCoy is one of the original feuding McCoys of Kentucky, and still thinks he did a patriotic service in killing Remington.

Director Wilkinson once served as warden at Lewisburg, and O. G. Blackwell, now warden at Alcatraz, was his assistant. They have grown up in the federal prison system, seem undiscouraged by the difficult, sometimes hopeless job of reforming men, of making hardened criminals realize that there is a better way of life.

There chief, James V. Bennett, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, is one of the most dedicated men in prison work. Both he and Wilkinson know almost every important criminal in federal penitentiaries, understand their problems both in prison and at home. They can tell you whether a wife is waiting to help encourage a man when he comes home, or whether she has given up and sued for divorce.

Wilkinson has worked in so many other prisons that 150 out of the 266 inmates at Alcatraz have served under him.

As we walked around the catwalk, a Negro prisoner called up from the exercise pen below. He had held up a bank near Andrews Air Force base in Maryland.

"Mr. Wilkinson," he called, "when you gonna transfer me out of here?"

"Where do you want to go?" asked the assistant director.

"Back to Atlanta," was the reply.

Another prisoner standing beside him wanted to go to Arizona.

"He wants to go to our Florence, Ariz., institution because he comes from Arizona," Wilkinson explained. "We've had a lot of trouble with him, had to transfer him from one place to another. But now he's settling down. He's due to be discharged in a short time, but unfortunately his wife is divorcing him and he won't have much to go back to."

The three prisoners stood, in Navy peajackets, in the cold wind which swept over San Francisco Bay. There weren't enough prisoners off duty from the workshops to get up a handball game and they stood looking off at the skyscrapers of San Francisco, the Golden Gate Bridge, and all the unattainable joys of life that lay beyond.

Skeptical Grandchildren

George E. Johnson, a vigorous American who was born on the Greek Islands just off the Turkish coast, has become one of the leading citizens of Sacramento. Its top leaders pay tribute to his contributions to the community. But some of its junior citizens are skeptical.

The other day his grandchildren approached him on this subject.

"Papu," they said, Papu being Greek for grandfather, "We have told the children at school that you have a photo of President Kennedy signed by the President, but they won't believe us. Will you let us take your photograph of President Kennedy to school?"

"A photograph of the President should not be handed around among people," replied Papu Johnson, "but you can bring them here and show it to them."

About that time, President Kennedy punctuated his friendship for Johnson by inviting him to a state luncheon in honor of Archbishop Makarios, President of Cyprus, who now governs another Greek island off the coast of Turkey.

Alcatraz-Go-Round

When you have been on Alcatraz you can understand the accuracy and poignancy of the new motion picture, "Reprieve," Millard Kaufmann's gripping story of a prisoner in the death cell who at the last minute is reprieved. . . . The toughest criminals of the USA are not foreign born, but white Anglo-Americans. Out of the 266 Alcatraz inmates, 175 are Anglos, 75 Negro, two Chinese-Japanese, three Indian, ten Mexican, and one Puerto Rican. The Japanese, according to pen authorities, almost never commit violent crimes. The toughest criminals are native midwesterners. The criminal "circuit" used to extend from Kansas City to St. Paul, right through Middle America. . . . It takes 160 prison personnel to handle the 266 inmates of Alcatraz, an illustration of the fact that crime doesn't pay, either for the criminal or for the taxpayer who has to support him. . . . Prison personnel are part of the civil service system, especially trained for the work. But it's difficult to hire prison guards. Government pay is low compared with high wages in San Francisco, and the work is inclined to be depressing.

Inmates at Alcatraz, as in most prisons, pass through a metal-detection machine which can even detect metallic foil in a cigarette pack. Inmates must have cigarettes packed in nonmetallic paper, also wooden belt buckles and wooden supports in their shoes. . . . The average sentence for Alcatraz prisoners is 25 years, but their average stay on the rock is five years. When they improve they can go back to other institutions. Most prevalent crimes for which they are sentenced are bank robbery, kidnapping, and narcotics. . . . Average age of prisoners is 34. . . . Their average IQ is 100. . . . The library at Alcatraz is more in demand than almost any other in the USA. Prisoners go in for heavy reading —especially philosophy and sociology. They can take extension courses courtesy of the University of California, Penn State University.

Death On West End

LONDON

We may be seeing the twilight of serious theater as we know it, not because there aren't any playwrights but because the audience is slipping away. The London theater is a particularly interesting case in point because it seems to be following--15 years later--our own lamentable tracks. That is, it's becoming a theater of smash hits, many of them musicals.

The interesting and challenging play catering to a small, solid minority taste that runs five months and makes a small profit is dissappearing here as it has in America. Productions that appeal to huge generalized audiences--and of course, the musical does that best --are the ones that survive. Naturally, that means a drift towards naked commercialism, which is distressing. "Blitz," a big splashy new musical hit of no particular distinction, is the most expensive production in English history. London is having a bad season except for the big musical hits.

Even the biggest play hit around, "The Private Ear, the Public Eye," was full of empty seats the night I was there. However, while the audience dwindles, the playwrighters, and some good ones, proliferate. Kenneth Tynan, drama critic for The Observer, says England is producing good young playwrights (most of them under 35) at the rate of one a month for the last five years. In the last ten days two good plays by young playwrights opened and another was due. But all these promising and much publicized young playwrights are all but starving to death. Their plays open at the Royal Court, which is the equivalent of Off-Broadway, or they open at art theaters in the provinces. The playwrights get their plays on, all right, which is more than ours do, but they make next to nothing.

Harold Pinter is the only playwright who has made any money of consequence and only because his play, "The Caretaker," went to Broadway. His new play, "The Collection," just arrived.

Probably the most written about and prolific of the younger playwrights is Arnold Wesker, who turns out plays of rather alarming realism like muffins, and who in spite of his hardly made eating money out of them. I saw Wesker's play, "The Kitchen," a year ago and loathed it. This time I saw his new play, "Chips with Everything," a bitter protest against the rigid cast system, with mounting excitement which probably would have been greater if so much of the play had not been muffled for me in Lancashire and Scottish dialects as impermeable as the mist of the Hebrides.

This is a play about a young aristocrat who wants to join the proletariat (because he thinks they're trodden upon), a sort of "Pygmalion" in reverse. However, breeding and particularly an Oxford accent will tell and in a stirring and really tremendously theatrical scene, the young hero, rather poorly played by John Kelland, assumes the habilments of caste, the officer's uniform, the gloves, the look of supercilious hauteur, and starts barking out commands to his poor Royal Air Force tentmates. Great scene. It reminded me strongly of Brecht in his great scene where the Pope dons the habilments of his office while pondering the fate of Galileo and turns into a different human by the sheer weight of office right before your eyes. I suspect Wesker has seen that scene.

Wesker is infatuated with pure realism to what I consider an inordinant degree. "The Kitchen" was documentary in fidelity to the facts of life in a big commercial kitchen and I found it a bore. In "Chips with Everything" the director, John Dexter, and the author wallow in realism in its scenes of recruit air force training. Again, I didn't think it was worth that slavish devotion to detail--but the English eat up this sort of thing, not only in the theater but in the movies and on television.

Documentary realism mixed with social protest is very large here at the moment.

There's one other important fact that, I think, is going unnoticed in our country and is creeping in here. I think that the center of theatrical excitement is moving out of the big cities--New York and London--and into the country. For instance, two of the interesting recent new plays here opened at art theaters at Coventry and Canterbury, not in London.

Sir Laurence Oliver and his wife, Joan Plowright, head a distinguished group of actors who have taken up residence at Chichester, where they are doing a summer of repertory.

The first Chichester Festival Theater season runs from July 3 to September 8. The festival opens with "The Chances" by the Jacobean John Fletcher, adapted by the Duke of Buckingham, followed by "The Broken Heart," by another Jacobean playwright, John Ford, and then Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya." The company's summer schedule is a repertory of dramatic classics and it is expected that the festival will be held at Chichester every summer.

All this-- the decentralization of the theater from the great metropolitan centers in our country and England--is a little cloud no bigger than a man's hand, way off on the horizon. Maybe it'll vanish. But I think this is the shape of things to come.

Hazards Of Collecting Mushrooms For Food

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Several years ago I struck a hornet's nest when I wrote about the hazards of collecting and eating mushrooms. It never occurred to me that mushroom lovers were so sensitive, scientific, and vocal. (Cat lovers are worse).

I assumed that everyone knew that some mushrooms are dangerous but mentioning this fact was an insult to their intelligence. Their criticism was justifiable because no one should collect wild mushrooms for food unless he knows mushrooms. But we must be realistic because people continue to die from eating the poisonous kinds.

Many connoisseurs of the table toadstool own books on the subject, are careful to pick their own, never mix species, and wait until the edible variety is in good condition. They are sure of the identification and know the deadly species in their community.

But many more depend upon knowledge of mushrooms that has been handed down from generation to generation. These people may not realize that the species are different in another state or country..

Furthermore, they will eat anyone's mushrooms, assuming that the product was obtained from the market. These people may be lucky but ought to become better acquainted if they wish to live to an old age. Never trust anyone else to identify a wild mushroom and be critical of your own determinations. If you are not an expert, eat only those grown for the market.

We don't have the space to describe and illustrate the deadly and the edible types. Some are so toxic, even a small piece may cause death. In general, avoid species with white caps and gills.

The universal antidote and inducing vomiting should be tried when the individual discovers he consumed toxic mushrooms. But in most instances the first indications of poisoning occur 6 to 15 hours after eating them. The food has been digested, the poison is in the blood, and it must be neutralized with a product such as atropine. Drugs to relieve distress are prescribed also. All this means a physician must be called.

Albert M. Fuller, curator of botany at the Milwaukee public museum, recommends the following books in the Wisconsin Conservation bulletin.

Common Edible Mushrooms by Clyde M. Christensen.

The Mushroom Hunter's Field Guide by Alexander H. Smith.

Field Book of Common Mushrooms by William Sturgis.

TOMORROW: Age not yet conquered.

SKIN CANCER

M.B. writes: Would a malignancy of the skin indicate the presence of cancer elsewhere in the body?

REPLY

Not as a rule. Internal cancers rarely spread to the skin unless they are under the skin and grow outward. A breast cancer, for example may grow large enough to break through the skin, forming a malignant ulcer.

EMPHYSEMA

E.B. writes: Does emphysema go into tuberculosis?

REPLY

No, but persons with tuberculosis may develop this lung condition, especially when they continue to smoke or have repeated bouts of bronchitis. Victims of emphysema usually cough and are short of breath.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Management memo pinned on the bulletin board of a paperbox factory: The Management of this organization, after due and careful consideration of certain regrettable practices which have recently been brought to its attention, is desirous of again reminding you of the fact — which has, of course, been pointed out on several previous occasions but which nevertheless has apparently been overlooked or ignored by an all-too-preponderant proportion of our present personnel — that all members of this organization should make an earnest, sincere, continuous and persistent effort to eschew and avoid all excessive wordiness, repetitive phraseology, unnecessarily complicated sentence structure, lengthy, involved, or obscure paragraphs, and other tautological and/or grammatical errors to indite or transcribe an internal communication of any nature whatsoever to one or more fellow employes. P.S. In other words — make it brief!

Caskie Stinnett reports that a passel of French delegates to a Moscow trade fair, understandably alert to the possibilities of their hotel room being bugged, cut through a maze of multi-colored wires they discovered cleverly hidden under the carpet. The floor was thick, but not so thick that it deadened the sound of the chandelier crashing in the room beneath them.

Two women aboard a Philadelphia bus were overheard discussing the contemplated divorce action by one of them. "Why," inquired the one not involved, "don't you sue the so-and-so for incompatibility?" "I would," replied the other, "if I could catch him at it."

CUT TAXES AND SPEND MORE! A NEAT TRICK! — The economic advisers at the White House are following a pattern you might expect. They propose to continue heavy government spending, actually adding more spending programs, and, at the same time, cut taxes! Their theory is that a cut in taxes would result in an upsurge in business to the extent that there would be no net loss in revenue. Actually, the modest cuts suggested (corporation income tax from the present 52% to 49%, and personal income tax from the present range of 20%-to-91% to a new range of 18%-to-65%) would result in a net revenue loss of not less than $6,100,000,000 a year. The White House economists have an answer for that: "Even if our idea doesn't work out and we don't make ends meet, what's wrong with deficit spending?" "Deficit spending" is government talk for "spending money you don't have and going deeper in debt."

The first approach to real savings in tax dollars must be a serious effort to control Federal spending.

The entire tax picture, which has been in a state of suspension during the present Administration, is more confused than ever. Promises of a tax cut next year are puny compared with the punitive proposals now before Congress. Definitely harmful from the point of view of economic expansion are these features of the tax bill passed by the House of Representatives and now before us in the Senate:

— the change in the method of taxing foreign-earned income;

— the treatment as ordinary income, at the sale of income-producing real estate, of capital gains representing prior depreciation deductions;

— the withholding, at the source, of taxes on dividends and interest.

Every one of these provisions of the tax bill either weaken the incentive to conduct a business or promise a loss in the availability of funds for investment.

The investment tax credit in the bill is a gimmick of dubious incentive value, especially in the present atmosphere of suspicion on profits.

We need a tax bill, but not this one!

What's more important, we need to halt wasteful Government spending!

SPACE PROGRESS AND DEFENSE PREPARDNESS — The Space Administration has awarded a $10,000,000 contract to Bendix Radio Division of Towson, Maryland, to operate 5 of its worldwide network of Propect Mercury tracking and communications stations for the next two years and to supply certain technical engineering services for all its 16 stations. The Navy has awarded a $2,162,000 contract to Westinghouse of Baltimore for the manufacture of Polaris missile launch recorders. The Air Force has obligated additional money to the Martin Marietta Corporation for the Titan II weapon system, bringing the total obligated to date to $243,135,724, the work being done in Baltimore, Denver and Cape Canaveral.

BIGGEST LANDLORD: THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT—The Federal government is the largest single owner of real estate in the United States. Its total holdings exceed the combined areas of the six New England States plus Texas.

NO WONDER WE'RE BROKE! —The other day, on a television program, I heard two Presidential advisers say we musn't pay any attention to deficits and the raising of the National Debt limit, and they cited European nations which they said were getting along wonderfully well, making great economic strides, experiencing prosperity,—and all because they didn't worry about little ol' things like budget balancing. I did some checking and found that the American taxpayer had given or "loaned" (how much do you expect to see again!) hundreds of millions, even billions, of dollars to the nations cited by the two professors as prospering so well. Since the end of World War II, we have sent—

Belgium	$1,935,200,000
France	$9,423,600,000
Germany	$5,120,900,600
Great Britain	$8,668,300,000
Italy	$5,517,000,000
Netherlands	$2,416,000,000
Norway	$1,024,500,000
Spain	$1,470,300,000
Yugoslavia	$2,132,400,000

This is only a partial list of those in the "billion-dollar class" —those who have taken more than A THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS of our money. Foreign aid to all countries since World War II has cost you $84,090,800,000.

AID TO COMMUNIST GOVERNMENTS — For 24 hours it looked as though the American taxpayer had won a great victory in the Senate of the United States —for, by a vote of 57 to 24, the Senate eliminated all U.S. aid to Communist governments. But that was too good to be true—for long! Overnight, Administration leaders rallied support for a plan to exempt surpluses from the restriction. However, we need not underrate the partial victory won; the Senate, though weakening on farm commodity aid, held firm against cash grants or loans or military assistance to Communist-dominated governments.

The action came on the Administration's bill authorizing new funds in the amount of $4,300,000,000 for foreign aid during the coming fiscal year. The Senate's restriction on our financial support of Communist governments reflected widespread grassroots opinion. In my own cross-section opinion survey in Maryland, I found 84% of the people against further aid to the Yugoslavia government with an additional 10% undecided. It has been established that the Yugoslavia government has used strategic and economic materials received from the U.S. to carry on her own foreign aid of other Communist governments, and that the Communist government of Poland, another recipient of our aid, has loaned money to a bitter enemy of the United States, Communist Castro in Cuba, and has shipped arms and other war materials to the Communist North Vietnam government and the Communist Outer Mongolia government. Senator Frank J. Lausche (Democrat) of Ohio, who introduced the amendment to cut out aid to Communist governments, said that we were not helping the oppressed people of these countries by supporting the governments which do the oppressing and that to say we help the United States by helping the Communist governments is "nonsense".

I supported the Lausche amendment, and voted against the move to weaken it.

ANOTHER SPACE ACHIEVEMENT — American scientists have "bounced" a ray of light on the moon's surface. Previously, to reach outer space, man had used such methods as radio waves, satellites, or rockets. This time, man used light. Engineers of the Research Laboratory for Electronics, Lexington, Massachusetts, shot 13 short bursts of light to the dark portion of the moon, and the light bursts were reflected back to earth, each making the round trip in less than 3 seconds — since the moon's mean distance from the earth is only 238,000 miles.

WELL, WE LIVE AND LEARN —When the white man discovered this country, the red men were running it. There were no disaster areas, no spending programs, no public debt, no interest to pay, no withholding taxes, no taxes of any kind. The women did all the work.

And the white man thought he could improve on a system like that!

The highlight of legislative action during the last week was the action of the House of Representatives to raise the debt limit. This is a legislative action which requires concurrence of the Senate and approval of the President. But the big fight was in the House, and the House did approve the increase in the debt limit to $308 billion, a new record for this Country.

I voted against raising the debt to this figure. In the first place, I think we have to understand what is meant by the debt limit or by putting a ceiling over the National debt. These are convenient terms which have been used by newsmen over the years; they are understood in government circles, but they have a certain technical meaning which very often is misunderstood.

In actuality, the legislation which was considered by the Congress in connection with the National debt was not putting a ceiling on the debt or limiting the debt. It was merely directing that the Secretary of the Treasury might sell government bonds up to a certain limit, that is $308 billion. Of course, it would be convenient if the Congress could by its act limit the debt to that amount. But we all know that in many ways the Congress has contracted obligations which are really the debts of the United States and which are totally apart from and in addition to, the bonded indebtedness of this Nation. So, in fact, the $308 billion debt ceiling does not limit in any way the National debt. It merely limits the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue and sell U.S. Government bonds up to that total amount.

This isn't the first time during the 87th Congress that this question of increasing our bonded indebtedness has been before the House of Representatives. In midsummer of 1961 there was a legislative request which came down from the White House to the Congress to raise the limit of the National debt. At that time the permanent debt limitation was still fixed as it is today at $285 billion, and the President requested that a temporary limitation be increased from $293 billion to $298 billion, an increase of $5 billion. I felt that this was justified; I felt that it was necessary at that time. I had voted for the additional military items that were required by the Berlin crisis and for some other defense expenditures. I felt that having voted for these things, I should vote for the additional bonded indebtedness to cover them since revenues were not adequate to meet these expenditures.

Again in March of this year, the President came back to the Congress for authority to issue an additional $2 billion, raising the temporary limitation to $300 billion. Again, for similar reasons, I felt that this was justified and that the only responsible thing to do was to vote to increase the debt ceiling.

Last week in voting on the latest increase, I felt differently. I felt that when the President came back for an additional $8 billion authority to issue bonds on top of the $7 billion which this Congress has already approved that we are reaching a danger point at which the brakes must be put on. I believe we are reaching a saturation point as far as the bond indebtedness is concerned and unless the people of this Country are alert to the danger inherent in the alarming and rapid growth of the National debt, we are in for srious fiscal troubls.

For these reasons I voted to limit the increase at this time to only $306 billion and when that motion failed, I voted against the increase to $308 billion.

Truman Says Kennedy Can Make Decisions

Former President Visits Charleston

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A peppery Harry S. Truman described President Kennedy Wednesday as "tough enough to make decisions" and said he was optimistic about the Democrats' chances at the polls this fall.

The 78-year-old former president spoke highly of Kennedy during a news conference held in conjunction with his appearance here to help West Virginia observe its 99th anniversary of statehood.

"We've got a man in the White House tough enough to make decisions," he said. "He's all right. Give him time to finish his term." And looking ahead, Truman said that Kennedy had completed, "only one eighth of his time in office."

He said if the American people are "in the right frame of mind, the Democratic party should lose no seats in the House and Senate in the November election."

"The Democrats are the only ones who can take over and save the country when it has troubles," Truman said.

The former chief executive hesitated to venture an opinion on who the 1964 Republican presidential candidate would be but got in a dig at former Vice President Richard M. Nixon who is now running for governor of California.

Asked what he felt about Nixon's chances of being elected in California, Truman said, "I don't think California is that crazy."

Truman covered several subjects in his news conference, mostly on the national and international level. However, he also said he felt that Gov. W. W. Barron is "doing every thing he can" to help West Virginia out of its economic woes.

He commented briefly on the slumping stock market, saying he didn't think it would affect the fall elections but added, "your guess is as good as mine."

Truman also said he felt that total disarmament was impossible unless the United Nations was given the power to enforce it. "I wouldn't trust the Russians across the street," he said.

Truman also said he stands "by the President on medical care for the aged legislation."

Appearing hale and hearty, he was asked by a reporter if he felt as good as he looked to which he replied, "want to take a walk?"

He also had some words of advice for young men entering politics:

"Learn how to pull a precinct and take an interest in your party and job. There's always room for good men at the top."

Second Army Band To Play In Frostburg On June 30

FROSTBURG — The Second Army Band will participate in Frostburg's gala Sesquicentennial Parade on June 30, according to U. S. Army officials at Fort George G. Meade.

Known throughout the seven-state Second Army area as a versatile and accomplished group of musicians, the band averages more than 400 performances a year.

Although the band's primary function is to provide music for the troops throughout the Army area, the unit has performed on television, radio and stage in many of the major Eastern cities. To fulfill its engagements, the 42-piece band is alternately a symphonic group, a military ceremonial band, an 18 piece show band, or broken into smaller and more specialized units. Having a near complete instrumentation, the symphonic band presents a repertoire ranging from Bach to such modern composers as Stravinsky and Don Gillis.

The conductor of the Second Army Band, Chief Warrant Officer Jerome J. Gillis, brings to the podium a rich background in professional experience. He has served over 14 years in Army bands, attended the City College of San Francisco, and is a graduate of the U. S. Naval School of Music.

First sergeant of the band is Master Sergeant Weldon P. Corbitt Jr. a renowned oboist and accomplished musician.

Camp Dawson Action Notes Evasive Steps

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia's 16th Special Forces units practiced "evasive action" Wednesday and conducted "classes" on ambush, patrolling techniques and communications.

The six operational teams are training guerrilla troops as part of "Operation Dare."

Other Special Forces units are acting as "aggressor" forces and are operating in the rugged hill country around Camp Dawson. So far, the "aggressor" forces have managed to capture only one member of the units which parachuted into the area Sunday night.

Two Army helicopter Wednesday dropped supplies to the citizen - commandos who specialize in "dirty warfare" techniques. However, the food was not a full supply and the Special Forces teams and the guerrillas will continue to live partly off the land as part of their training.

The 1092nd Engineer Battalion of Parkersburg, Weston and Salem continued work on a 4,200-foot airstrip despite being hampered by mud.

West Virginia National Guard officers say they are pleased with the progress of the strip.

Gas Drilling Work Starts At Needmore

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Two carloads of pipe have been unloaded for casing on the exploratory well to be drilled near Needmore. Crews of workers for the project are arriving daily and seeking living quarters.

An additional eight or ten cars of the casing pipe will arrive at a later date. The exploratory well for gas or oil is a joint venture but is drilled by the United Fuel Gas Company of Charleston. The contractor for the work is the Lohmann-Johnson Oil Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

H. C. Mefford, Jr., Elkins, superintendent of storage of Atlantic Seaboard Corporation, will supervise the operation. Digging for the foundation of the rig and the pouring of the concrete has been completed. The operators are prepared to drill to 11,000 feet.

The exploratory well is located on the East Whip Cove anticline near Needmore on the property belonging to Mrs. Annie Baughman. Work is expected to continue until this fall.

Centennial Group Formed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Samuel Solins, chairman of the distinguished guests committee of the West Virginia Centennial Commission said Wednesday that four prominent persons will serve with him on the committee.

The Welch attorney said former Defense Secretary Louis Johnson of Washington and Clarksburg; former governors Okey Patteson and Cecil Underwood, and former U. S. Sen. Chapman Revercomb, Charleston have accepted assignments.

Solins' committee will be responsible for sending invitations to distinguished guests and participants in all phases of the celebration next year.

Johnson was made committee vice chairman for the Parkersburg area, Patteson for the Mt. Hope - Beckley area, Revercomb for the Charleston area and Underwood for the Huntington area.

Sesquicentennial Features Fireworks Each Evening

FROSTBURG—A fireworks display will climax each of the performances of the Frostburg sesquicentennial headline attraction, "Mountain City Echoes", to be presented June 30 and July 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 at Beall High School stadium at 8:45 p. m.

Pyrotechnical effects will also be used for the cannonading and rifle fire in three battle scenes, and a simulated atomic bomb will be exploded in the prologue of the production.

Arthur Simpson, a representative of Ohio Fireworks Manufacturing and Display Company, will supervise the firings in accordance with split-second cues.

The displays will feature aerial shells in all colors of the spectrum, including "The Arabian Nights", "Opalescent Shell", "Tracer Artillery", "The Flying Serpent", "Thunder and The Rainbow", "Glowing Emeralds", "Cleopatra's Jewels", "Sapphires", "Whistle and Report", "Vesuvius Cascade", "Glow Worms", "Aurora Cascade" "The Garden of Roses", "Blue Star Shell", "Glittering Diamonds", "Garden of Allah", "Quavering Flakes" and "Sunset Shell", all in two, three and four break aerials in spirals of fire.

The ground fireworks, or set-pieces will include a varying assortment, changing each night. Among these are "The Acrobatic Cyclist", in which a rider and a bicycle, done entirely in fireworks effects, are seen moving across the field; "Sheba's Brooch", a huge, varicolored fan, which opens slowly as it jets forth fire in rainbow effects; "Fountain of Youth", starting with a shower of golden fire and abruptly changing to flittering silver gems; "White Cascade", a rapidly revolving ruby and emerald wheel which changes to silver; "Firefly Wheel", which apparently dies out three times and each time changes its color; "Roman Phantom", a fantasy of revolving planets and radium twirlers; and "Tempest Wheel", discharging a large cloud of blue.

Other set-pieces are "The Duck Family Goes For A Stroll", in which a large "mother bird is followed by a "duckling" across the stage; "Sun Flower", embodying a flowering plant, starting with a bud; "Temple of Iris", showing the seasons of the year in changing color, employing jets of fire forty feet in height; "The Devil Wheel", a whirling "demon" which repeatedly explodes, dies to nothing and then comes to life to explode again; "Electric Thunderstorm", a living machine gun in changing white, green and red fire; "Niagara Falls", flowing streams of silver-gray fire, in which a fish is seen to be swimming; and "The Mystic Circle Wheel", a rapidly spinning circle of changing light.

Each display will conclude with a mammoth presentation of the American flag with the stars in stripes in brilliant red, white and blue. Truman Says Kennedy Can Make Decisions

Former President Visits Charleston

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A peppery Harry S. Truman described President Kennedy Wednesday as "tough enough to make decisions" and said he was optimistic about the Democrats' chances at the polls this fall.

The 78-year-old former president spoke highly of Kennedy during a news conference held in conjunction with his appearance here to help West Virginia observe its 99th anniversary of statehood.

"We've got a man in the White House tough enough to make decisions," he said. "He's all right. Give him time to finish his term." And looking ahead, Truman said that Kennedy had completed, "only one eighth of his time in office."

He said if the American people are "in the right frame of mind, the Democratic party should lose no seats in the House and Senate in the November election."

"The Democrats are the only ones who can take over and save the country when it has troubles," Truman said.

The former chief executive hesitated to venture an opinion on who the 1964 Republican presidential candidate would be but got in a dig at former Vice President Richard M. Nixon who is now running for governor of California.

Asked what he felt about Nixon's chances of being elected in California, Truman said, "I don't think California is that crazy."

Truman covered several subjects in his news conference, mostly on the national and international level. However, he also said he felt that Gov. W. W. Barron is "doing every thing he can" to help West Virginia out of its economic woes.

He commented briefly on the slumping stock market, saying he didn't think it would affect the fall elections but added, "your guess is as good as mine."

Truman also said he felt that total disarmament was impossible unless the United Nations was given the power to enforce it. "I wouldn't trust the Russians across the street," he said.

Truman also said he stands "by the President on medical care for the aged legislation."

Appearing hale and hearty, he was asked by a reporter if he felt as good as he looked to which he replied, "want to take a walk?"

He also had some words of advice for young men entering politics:

"Learn how to pull a precinct and take an interest in your party and job. There's always room for good men at the top."

Second Army Band To Play In Frostburg On June 30

FROSTBURG — The Second Army Band will participate in Frostburg's gala Sesquicentennial Parade on June 30, according to U. S. Army officials at Fort George G. Meade.

Although the band's primary function is to provide music for the troops throughout the Army area, the unit has performed on television, radio and stage in many of the major Eastern cities. To fulfill its engagements, the 42-piece band is alternately a symphonic group, a military ceremonial band, an 18 piece show band, or broken into smaller and more specialized units. Having a near complete instrumentation, the symphonic band presents a repertoire ranging from Bach to such modern composers as Stravinsky and Don Gillis.

The conductor of the Second Army Band, Chief Warrant Officer Jerome J. Gillis, brings to the podium a rich background in professional experience. He has served over 14 years in Army bands, attended the City College of San Francisco, and is a graduate of the U. S. Naval School of Music.

Jury Awards $4,250 For Truck Damage

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury, which deliberated only about 20 minutes, returned a verdict of $4,250 for C. William Hetzer Inc. of Washington County for damage to a dump truck in an accident last September 11 on U.S. Route 40 a few miles west of Hagerstown.

Robert C. Hohing, Frostburg merchant was foreman of the jury of nine men and three women which heard testimony from nine witnesses in a day-long trial. The case had been moved here from Washington County Circuit Court.

Mr. Hetzer, who resides in Williamsport, testified that he had paid $4,000 for the dump truck in the spring of 1961. He then spent another $1,553 for repairs to its transmission and clutch and for new tires. Estimates of the salvage value of the truck, which has been sitting unused on Mr. Hetzer's lot since the accident last September 11, ranged between $1,000 and $1,500.

The Williamsport plaintiff was represented here by Attorney Irving M. Einbinder of Hagerstown and Attorney William L. Wilson of Cumberland. Although the defendants, Frank Price and Roy B. Price, trading as P&P Livestock, Johnson City, Tenn., did not appear for the trial, their attorneys were there. The defense attorneys were Edwin H. Miller of Hagerstown and Gorman E. Getty of Cumberland.

State Police Cpl. Richard Earl Garvey, the first witness, explained that two of Mr. Hetzer's dump trucks were stopped along the side of U. S. Route 40 near the State Police quarters west of Hagerstown last September 11. A west-bound tractor trailer owned by the Prices struck the rear of the second dump truck being driven by Elmer Thomas Boden, forced it up a bank and into the other dump truck.

Defense attorneys, in their closing argument to the jury, did not contend that their client was not guilty of negligence. They contended that Mr. Hetzer was claiming excessive damages.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey presided at the trial.

Army Seeks Bandsmen

Sgt. Jack Wheeler, local Army recruiter said yesterday that the Army has a number of openings for bandsmen, especially for those who play piano, bassoon, trombone, B-flat clarinet, baritone sax, flute or piccolo.

Because of current shortages and a continuing need, the Army has authorized the enlistment of young men for direct assignment to Army bands.

Young men who meet the physical and mental qualifications for the Army must first be auditioned by an active Army bandmaster and must be able to read music fundamentals and play reasonably well.

Upon completion of the audition, the bandmaster will give the successful applicant a letter containing his audition score and an authorization to enlist as a bandsman or for assignment to a specific army band. To guarantee assignment, this is all accomplished prior to actual enlistment.

After basic training, the bandsmen will receive music training either at the Army Element of the Naval School of Music or at one of the five band training units located at Ft. Dix, N. J.; Ft. Knox, Ky.; Ft. Wood, Mo.; Ft. Jackson, S.C.; or Ft. Ord, Calif.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Sgt. Wheeler at the recruiting station at the Post Office Building or by calling 722-6600.

Truman Joins Celebration To Mark W. Va. Birthday

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—An umbrella - covered crowd of about 3,500 persons braved a brief rainshower Wednesday evening to join former President Harry S. Truman, Gov. W. W. Barron and three ex - governors in wishing West Virginia a happy birthday.

The crowd gathered on the front steps of the capitol, overlooking the Kanawha River, heard the 78-year-old Truman urge them to learn their history and take pride in it.

The fiery Democrat, main speaker for the ceremony which kicked off West Virginia's drive to raise $1 million to help finance next year's centennial celebration, said the state's break from Virginia helped keep Kentucky and his home state of Missouri from seceding from the Union during the Civil War.

Truman delivered his address after the introduction of former governors Homer A. Holt, Okey L. Patteson and Cecil H. Underwood. Also introduced was Harmon S. Hamrick of Valley Head, Randolph County, who was born on the day West Virginia was declared the 35th state in the Union.

Former Gov. Henry D. Hatfield, now 86, was unable to attend but sent his best wishes, as did former Gov. William C. Marland.

Recalling his years as President of the United States, Truman defended his decision to drop atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki to end World War II. He said America and Japan would have lost 250,000 men each if it had been necessary to invade Japan.

"Don't let anybody kid you about," Truman said. "Why don't we do a little crying over 5,000 American servicemen murdered at Pearl Harbor."

Barron told the gathering that West Virginia has reached "a critical time" in its centennial planning. The governor said West Virginia needs up to $1 million "to get our programs off the drawing board and into being."

"It was understood the general public would be asked at the proper time to augment a $400,000 legislative appropriation," Barron said. "That time has arrived. We must dedicate ourselves to financing the centennial program."

"That we will do," Barron added. "You may count on it."

H. Ward Christopher, Morgantown, general chairman of the fund - raising drive, said West Virginians must "prepare themselves to play host to the nation during 1963."

"What you do can inspire West Virginia youth to look to their native state for a golden future," Christopher said. "This is our once-in-a-lifetime chance to sell West Virginia, the state we love. Don't sell her short."

The Rev. John F. Streng, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church in Wheeling, who delivered the invocation, said West Virginia's birthday observance was the state's "99th psalm of life."

Truman arrived at Kanawha Airport in Charleston from Independence, Mo., at 1:45 p.m. EST, and went directly to the governor's mansion where he rested until 4:30 p.m. when he met with newsmen.

During the news conference, he described President Kennedy as "tough enough to make decisions" and credited Barron with "doing everything he can to help West Virginia" solve its economic problems.

Following the birthday program at the statehouse, Truman dined with the governor and Mrs. Barron at the executive mansion before leaving for Fayette County with Cincinnati industrialist Harrison O. Ash, a long - time personal friend of the ex-president. Truman planned to spend two or three days at Ash's home in Minden.

Andrea Bowden Will Attend FHA Convention

Andrea Bowden, a member of the Valley High School chapter of Future Homemakers of America and state fourth vice president, will represent Region A at the 1962 national meeting of the Future Homemakers of America in Salt Lake City, Utah, from July 9 to 12.

Miss Ruth C. McColly, FHA supervisor in Western Maryland, said that Miss Bowden is one of five Maryland students who will attend the Salt Lake City meeting. The Maryland girls will be accompanied by Mrs. Mary Nuce Stultz, state supervisor of FHA and county supervisor of home economics in Frederick County. Before her marriage, Mrs. Stultz was a home economics teacher at Fort Hill High School.

About 800 teenagers will attend the four-day Salt Lake City meeting at which they will aim to develop plans for working toward new national objectives which they are adopting for the next three-year period.

Delegates will come from all states and from Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands to represent the 521,000 members of this high school organization for students studying home economics.

Guideposts For Progress is the theme chosen for the meeting at which a number of outstanding speakers including Assistant Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson will appear.

Attending Conference

Among members of the Wesleyan Subdistrict attending a youth annual conference at Buckhannon, W. Va., are Martha Leighton, Bayard, W. Va.; Betty Beaman, West Vindex; Garry Trickett, Mountain Lake Park, and Charles Feather and Carl Pelton, both of Oakland.

The conference opened yesterday afternoon and will close at 3 p.m. Saturday.

The crowd gathered on the front steps of the capitol, overlooking the Kanawha River, heard the 78-year-old Truman urge them to learn their history and take pride in it.

The fiery Democrat, main speaker for the ceremony which kicked off West Virginia's drive to raise $1 million to help finance next year's centennial celebration, said the state's break from Virginia helped keep Kentucky and his home state of Missouri from seceding from the Union during the Civil War.

Truman delivered his address after the introduction of former governors Homer A. Holt, Okey L. Patteson and Cecil H. Underwood. Also introduced was Harmon S. Hamrick of Valley Head, Randolph County, who was born on the day West Virginia was declared the 35th state in the Union.

Former Gov. Henry D. Hatfield, now 86, was unable to attend but sent his best wishes, as did former Gov. William C. Marland.

Recalling his years as President of the United States, Truman defended his decision to drop atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki to end World War II. He said America and Japan would have lost 250,000 men each if it had been necessary to invade Japan.

"Don't let anybody kid you about," Truman said. "Why don't we do a little crying over 5,000 American servicemen murdered at Pearl Harbor."

Barron told the gathering that West Virginia has reached "a critical time" in its centennial planning. The governor said West Virginia needs up to $1 million "to get our programs off the drawing board and into being."

"It was understood the general public would be asked at the proper time to augment a $400,000 legislative appropriation," Barron said. "That time has arrived. We must dedicate ourselves to financing the centennial program."

"That we will do," Barron added. "You may count on it."

H. Ward Christopher, Morgantown, general chairman of the fund - raising drive, said West Virginians must "prepare themselves to play host to the nation during 1963."

"What you do can inspire West Virginia youth to look to their native state for a golden future," Christopher said. "This is our once-in-a-lifetime chance to sell West Virginia, the state we love. Don't sell her short."

The Rev. John F. Streng, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church in Wheeling, who delivered the invocation, said West Virginia's birthday observance was the state's "99th psalm of life."

Truman arrived at Kanawha Airport in Charleston from Independence, Mo., at 1:45 p.m. EST, and went directly to the governor's mansion where he rested until 4:30 p.m. when he met with newsmen.

During the news conference, he described President Kennedy as "tough enough to make decisions" and credited Barron with "doing everything he can to help West Virginia" solve its economic problems.

Following the birthday program at the statehouse, Truman dined with the governor and Mrs. Barron at the executive mansion before leaving for Fayette County with Cincinnati industrialist Harrison O. Ash, a long - time personal friend of the ex-president. Truman planned to spend two or three days at Ash's home in Minden.

Andrea Bowden Will Attend FHA Convention

Andrea Bowden, a member of the Valley High School chapter of Future Homemakers of America and state fourth vice president, will represent Region A at the 1962 national meeting of the Future Homemakers of America in Salt Lake City, Utah, from July 9 to 12.

Miss Ruth C. McColly, FHA supervisor in Western Maryland, said that Miss Bowden is one of five Maryland students who will attend the Salt Lake City meeting. The Maryland girls will be accompanied by Mrs. Mary Nuce Stultz, state supervisor of FHA and county supervisor of home economics in Frederick County. Before her marriage, Mrs. Stultz was a home economics teacher at Fort Hill High School.

About 800 teenagers will attend the four-day Salt Lake City meeting at which they will aim to develop plans for working toward new national objectives which they are adopting for the next three-year period.

Delegates will come from all states and from Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands to represent the 521,000 members of this high school organization for students studying home economics.

Guideposts For Progress is the theme chosen for the meeting at which a number of outstanding speakers including Assistant Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson will appear.

Attending Conference

Among members of the Wesleyan Subdistrict attending a youth annual conference at Buckhannon, W. Va., are Martha Leighton, Bayard, W. Va.; Betty Beaman, West Vindex; Garry Trickett, Mountain Lake Park, and Charles Feather and Carl Pelton, both of Oakland.

The conference opened yesterday afternoon and will close at 3 p.m. Saturday.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 133 It naturally follows that the war in which railroads and telegraphs were strategic and tactical factors the first time was also the first in which a president was empowered by Congress to seize companies providing these services. Early in 1862, Congress authorized President Lincoln to take charge of railroads and telegraph facilities "when public safety might require it."

Only 15 years earlier Congress had decided that telegraphy was not destined to be an important or lucrative business, and turned over the pioneer Washington-Baltimore line, which had been built with a government subsidy, to a private company. The original Morse equipment and line required considerable improvement to be dependably workable. Breakdowns were frequent before the engineers who adapted telegraphy for U. S. Army purposes aided the engineers for the private companies in extending and improving services. "Remarkable feats were performed in setting up lines as the armies moved, sometimes under fire, and in sending messages under fire," it is stated.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

Certain kinds of seaweed are used for food in the Orient and in Hawaii. The Japanese have found these plants so important that they have developed huge seaweed farms.

Board Approves Liquor License

The Frostburg Centennial Committee yesterday was granted a special one-day beer-wine and liquor license for the Centennial Ball which will be held at the National Guard Armory next month.

B. Wayne Myers made the application for the Centennial group before the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

The board also issued permits to John E. Jenkins for a beer and wine business at 417 Henderson Avenue and Mrs. Betty Reighard Serf for Reick's Tavern in Ellerslie.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — The way things are going in Hollywood these mad, mad, mad days, it's no particular surprise that Sandra Church's dog went berserk on the set of "The Ugly American" and bit three people. The dog skipped Marlon Brando for reasons of his own.

Those bitten were given precautionary anti-rabies shots, the dog was tested for rabies, and the report is the animal is clean. Probably just got fed up with it all.

Due to a "typo," a recent in this column was that "The Ugly American" had been brought in on a 21-day shooting schedule. Should have been 71 (seventy-one) days, fellas.

I'm suspicious of Eddie Fisher's sudden flight to London to "talk a movie" with Frank Sinatra. It's just possible the London stopover is a red herring dragged across his eventual destination — Rome.

More and more Eddie has been torching for Elizabeth Taylor and doing less and less to hide it. Liz may be wigwagging daddy back home. Or maybe he just wants to see for himself what the status is between Cleopatra and Marc Antony since he last checked in with them.

Interesting results on the London Daily Mirror poll answering the newspaper's query: "What famous living person would you most like to meet."

Queen Elizabeth came in a predictable first. A bit of a surprise is Prince Philip in second spot. And a big surprise is our boy Elvis Presley in third!

Dr. Albert Schweitzer placed fourth and Princess Margaret came a somewhat shaky eighth.

Judy Garland, in her time, has given movie producers more than their share of headaches. But making "The Lonely Stage" in London, Judy's being an ever-lovin' doll. Stuart Millar, co-producing Judy's picture with Lawrence Turman, called to report:

"Judy's on the set every morning at 7:15 and doesn't leave until 6 p.m. We're rolling along so fast we took a look at the rough cut of what we've shot the other morning, and even Judy was jumping. Says she's never looked so well or sung better — and she's her own severest critic." If Sid Luft is giving her private troubles, it isn't showing in her work.

One of the most interesting spots Buddy Rogers will hit on his upcoming "Buddy Rogers Adventuruous Hobbies" TV series, is the famed Fan Ling Golf Course in Hong Kong. Get in "the rough" there, and you're in Red China.

It's an interesting project Buddy has undertaken, a combination of chatter and sports in foreign countries. In Japan, he'll use girl caddies—an innovation that could become very popular in this country if too many golfers weren't married.

Buddy's wife Mary Pickford will join him on several of his jaunts. In fact, for their 25th wedding anniversary, Mary gave Buddy a Sunbeam Alpine car to travel around in.

Singing Steve Lawrence continues to travel the Frank Sinatra route alternating nightclub, TV and record-making with movies. When Steve completes his "Tonight Show" stint this week, he opens in summer stock in "Pal Joey" (Frank did it on the screen) and this will be followed by a feature picture.

Young Lawrence gets tri-starring billing with Jackie Gleason and Steve McQueen in "Soldiers in the Rain" for producers Blake Edwards and Martin Jurow.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Diana Dors, who expects her baby any day now, has been set by Tommy Noonan and William Welch for "Promise Her Anything" which is about a woman who can't have a baby.

That house near the Kennedys, which Judy Garland rented for the summer months in Hyannisport, will be vacant a long time. Judy's London movie doesn't shutter until late in July and after that she's taking a leisurely trip on the continent.

Sampling steaks at the Black Bull were a cute newsome, Lawrence Welk, Jr., and Maggie Lennon, of the Lennon Sisters, who usually sing for their supper on papa Welk's TV show.

Kathryn Grayson was met in New York by Mel Carney, the rich and good-looking Chicago banker, who was very much on hand for her "Rosalinda" opening in Buffalo.

Mrs. Gilbert Roland, herself a fine painter, is minding the store at Frank Perles' Art Gallery in Beverly Hills while Perles is on a collector trek to France.

The title of Andy Williams' new album is "Warm and Willing," one of Jimmy McHugh's hit tunes.

Phil Harris flew in from Palm Springs to introduce Gary Crosby at his Slate Bros. opening, but so many old palsy-walsys showed up to cheer Gary on, he never really got officially introduced. Just came on singing to ringsiders Jackie Gleason, Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy, Jimmy Van Heusen and Glenna Gibson, the Jackie Coopers, the Sammy Cahns, Jack Oakie, Don Rickles with Gloria Grey, Kathy Crosby and an assortment of Crosby boys wives. Some arrived by bus after dinner at the Villa Capri.

Quite a "day" at the Hollywood Brown Derby with Doris Day, Laraine Day and Dennis Day lunching in adjoining booths.

Deborah Kerr and Peter Viertel postcard they are happy to be back in sunny (?) London after a damp motor trip through Spain where the rains fell in the plains all the time they were there.

Alan Dale's birthday cake for wife Charlotte at his Villa Nova was more of a pleasant surprise that she expected. Wrapped in cellophane in the icing was a check for a jaunt to the Seattle World's Fair.

After 18 weeks at the Sands in Las Vegas, Johnny Ricardo and his Latin group open locally at Robbs-Century.

Committee Reports On Fun Fair

The Fun Fair committee of the South Cumberland Civic and Business Association met Tuesday to discuss the results of last week's fair.

Robert Keech and Dr. Larry MacKenzie, co-chairmen, reported the affair was a financial success.

They noted that the many complements expressed by the public in attendance showed the new type of rides and games offered this year were what the public wanted.

Prizes were won by Elsie Shircliff, of 22 Maple Street, and Edward Dycke, 1407 Oldtown Road.

The association expressed its thanks to the patronage and persons who helped make the affair a success.

Approves Motion

THE HAGUE (UPI)—The lower house of the Dutch Parliament Tuesday approved a motion calling on the government to oppose Spain's membership in the European "Common Six" market until it becomes a "democratic nation."

The River Jordan twists and loops 200 miles in its tumbling journey down a 65-mile long valley between the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea.

PSC Sets Hearing In Piedmont Case

The Public Service Commission of West Virginia has set July 25 for hearing a request by the B&O Railroad Company for permission to change the Piedmont station to non-agency status and for car load freight only.

The B&O said it would transfer the business being done at Piedmont to its Keyser station.

King Visits Rome

ROME (UPI)—President Antonio Signi Tuesday received King Hassan II of Morocco who arrived Monday from the Cairo "Casablanca" Conference on his way home. The king was accompanied by his foreign minister and Moroccan embassy officials.

Power and reliability of today's outboard motors are based on steel. One company's 60-horsepower model uses 326 stainless steel parts.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 133 It naturally follows that the war in which railroads and telegraphs were strategic and tactical factors the first time was also the first in which a president was empowered by Congress to seize companies providing these services. Early in 1862, Congress authorized President Lincoln to take charge of railroads and telegraph facilities "when public safety might require it."

Only 15 years earlier Congress had decided that telegraphy was not destined to be an important or lucrative business, and turned over the pioneer Washington-Baltimore line, which had been built with a government subsidy, to a private company. The original Morse equipment and line required considerable improvement to be dependably workable. Breakdowns were frequent before the engineers who adapted telegraphy for U. S. Army purposes aided the engineers for the private companies in extending and improving services. "Remarkable feats were performed in setting up lines as the armies moved, sometimes under fire, and in sending messages under fire," it is stated.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

Medical reports indicate that a 0.1% salt solution (about one teaspoon to six quarts of water) taken during exercise when it's hot and humid can help avert nausea, dizziness and fatigue.

Certain kinds of seaweed are used for food in the Orient and in Hawaii. The Japanese have found these plants so important that they have developed huge seaweed farms.

Board Approves Liquor License

The Frostburg Centennial Committee yesterday was granted a special one-day beer-wine and liquor license for the Centennial Ball which will be held at the National Guard Armory next month.

B. Wayne Myers made the application for the Centennial group before the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

The board also issued permits to John E. Jenkins for a beer and wine business at 417 Henderson Avenue and Mrs. Betty Reighard Serf for Reick's Tavern in Ellerslie.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — The way things are going in Hollywood these mad, mad, mad days, it's no particular surprise that Sandra Church's dog went berserk on the set of "The Ugly American" and bit three people. The dog skipped Marlon Brando for reasons of his own.

Those bitten were given precautionary anti-rabies shots, the dog was tested for rabies, and the report is the animal is clean. Probably just got fed up with it all.

Due to a "typo," a recent in this column was that "The Ugly American" had been brought in on a 21-day shooting schedule. Should have been 71 (seventy-one) days, fellas.

I'm suspicious of Eddie Fisher's sudden flight to London to "talk a movie" with Frank Sinatra. It's just possible the London stopover is a red herring dragged across his eventual destination — Rome.

More and more Eddie has been torching for Elizabeth Taylor and doing less and less to hide it. Liz may be wigwagging daddy back home. Or maybe he just wants to see for himself what the status is between Cleopatra and Marc Antony since he last checked in with them.

Interesting results on the London Daily Mirror poll answering the newspaper's query: "What famous living person would you most like to meet."

Queen Elizabeth came in a predictable first. A bit of a surprise is Prince Philip in second spot. And a big surprise is our boy Elvis Presley in third!

Dr. Albert Schweitzer placed fourth and Princess Margaret came a somewhat shaky eighth.

Judy Garland, in her time, has given movie producers more than their share of headaches. But making "The Lonely Stage" in London, Judy's being an ever-lovin' doll. Stuart Millar, co-producing Judy's picture with Lawrence Turman, called to report:

"Judy's on the set every morning at 7:15 and doesn't leave until 6 p.m. We're rolling along so fast we took a look at the rough cut of what we've shot the other morning, and even Judy was jumping. Says she's never looked so well or sung better — and she's her own severest critic." If Sid Luft is giving her private troubles, it isn't showing in her work.

One of the most interesting spots Buddy Rogers will hit on his upcoming "Buddy Rogers' Adventuruous Hobbies" TV series, is the famed Fan Ling Golf Course in Hong Kong. Get in "the rough" there, and you're in Red China.

It's an interesting project Buddy has undertaken, a combination of chatter and sports in foreign countries. In Japan, he'll use girl caddies—an innovation that could become very popular in this country if too many golfers weren't married.

Buddy's wife Mary Pickford will join him on several of his jaunts. In fact, for their 25th wedding anniversary, Mary gave Buddy a Sunbeam Alpine car to travel around in.

Singing Steve Lawrence continues to travel the Frank Sinatra route alternating nightclub, TV and record-making with movies. When Steve completes his "Tonight Show" stint this week, he opens in summer stock in "Pal Joey" (Frank did it on the screen) and this will be followed by a feature picture.

Young Lawrence gets tri-starring billing with Jackie Gleason and Steve McQueen in "Soldiers in the Rain" for producers Blake Edwards and Martin Jurow.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Diana Dors, who expects her baby any day now, has been set by Tommy Noonan and William Welch for "Promise Her Anything" which is about a woman who can't have a baby.

That house near the Kennedys, which Judy Garland rented for the summer months in Hyannisport, will be vacant a long time. Judy's London movie doesn't shutter until late in July and after that she's taking a leisurely trip on the continent.

Sampling steaks at the Black Bull were a cute newsome, Lawrence Welk, Jr., and Maggie Lennon, of the Lennon Sisters, who usually sing for their supper on papa Welk's TV show.

Kathryn Grayson was met in New York by Mel Carney, the rich and good-looking Chicago banker, who was very much on hand for her "Rosalinda" opening in Buffalo.

Mrs. Gilbert Roland, herself a fine painter, is minding the store at Frank Perles' Art Gallery in Beverly Hills while Perles is on a collector trek to France.

The title of Andy Williams' new album is "Warm and Willing," one of Jimmy McHugh's hit tunes.

Phil Harris flew in from Palm Springs to introduce Gary Crosby at his Slate Bros. opening, but so many old palsy-walsys showed up to cheer Gary on, he never really got officially introduced. Just came on singing to ringsiders Jackie Gleason, Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy, Jimmy Van Heusen and Glenna Gibson, the Jackie Coopers, the Sammy Cahns, Jack Oakie, Don Rickles with Gloria Grey, Kathy Crosby and an assortment of Crosby boys wives. Some arrived by bus after dinner at the Villa Capri.

Quite a "day" at the Hollywood Brown Derby with Doris Day, Laraine Day and Dennis Day lunching in adjoining booths.

Deborah Kerr and Peter Viertel postcard they are happy to be back in sunny (?) London after a damp motor trip through Spain where the rains fell in the plains all the time they were there.

Alan Dale's birthday cake for wife Charlotte at his Villa Nova was more of a pleasant surprise that she expected. Wrapped in cellophane in the icing was a check for a jaunt to the Seattle World's Fair.

After 18 weeks at the Sands in Las Vegas, Johnny Ricardo and his Latin group open locally at Robbs-Century.

Committee Reports On Fun Fair

The Fun Fair committee of the South Cumberland Civic and Business Association met Tuesday to discuss the results of last week's fair.

Robert Keech and Dr. Larry MacKenzie, co-chairmen, reported the affair was a financial success.

They noted that the many compliments expressed by the public in attendance showed the new type of rides and games offered this year were what the public wanted.

Prizes were won by Elsie Shircliff, of 22 Maple Street, and Edward Dycke, 1407 Oldtown Road.

The association expressed its thanks to the patronage and persons who helped make the affair a success.

Approves Motion

The River Jordan twists and loops 200 miles in its tumbling journey down a 65-mile long valley between the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea.

PSC Sets Hearing In Piedmont Case

The Public Service Commission of West Virginia has set July 25 for hearing a request by the B&O Railroad Company for permission to change the Piedmont station to non-agency status and for car load freight only.

The B&O said it would transfer the business being done at Piedmont to its Keyser station.

King Visits Rome

Money-Saving Main Dish

This meat balls and spaghetti dish is as delicious as any you've tasted—but there is a welcome difference, as you will see from the recipe. It is prepared in only one skillet — a streamlined method which saves time and dishwashing!

The all-important meat balls are plump and richly juicy, due to the use of undiluted evaporated milk as the "binder." This double-rich whole milk, which brings about marked improvement in texture, at the same time steps up the food value. Incidentally, you can use this same meat mixture to make a moist and flavorful meat loaf — just shape and bake.

SKILLET MEAT BALLS AND SPAGHETTI

1 pound ground beef
1 cup soft bread crumbs*
1 cup chopped onion, divided
2 teaspoons salt, divided
Dash of pepper
⅔ cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup butter or fat
¼ cup chopped green pepper, if desired
4½ cups tomato juice
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 pkg. (7 oz.) spaghetti, broken in small pieces (about 2 cups uncooked)

Mix together lightly but thoroughly ground beef, bread crumbs, ½ cup of the onion, 1 teaspoon of the salt, pepper and evaporated milk. Shape mixture into 12 balls. Roll and coat each ball in flour. Melt butter in a large skillet over low heat. Add meat balls and brown on all sides over medium heat. Push balls to sides of pan. Place remaining ½ cup onion and green pepper in center of pan and cook until tender. Pour tomato juice over meat balls and sprinkle with remaining 1 teaspoon salt and the chili powder. Bring to a boil over high heat. Add spaghetti and stir to moisten. Cover skillet, reduce heat as low as possible and cook, stirring occasionally, until spaghetti is tender, about 40 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

*Approximately 1½ slices bread, pulled into crumbs.

If you've ever been in Mexico on June 24, you'll remember the colorful day of feasting in honor of St. John, the saint of the waters. As a part of their festivities, the citizenry bring their food to the bathing places. There are pork tacos of lean pork and lard, ground and mixed with pepper, onion, tomatoes, cherries, raisins and eggs. This tasty mixture is placed in tortillas, sprinkled with cheese and baked. Another favorite meat dish, the American Meat Institute tells us, is "Empanadas de Orno," a baked dish of ground beef plus onions, green peppers, corn, olives, raisins and eggs.

Look Who Made The Crepes Great — You!

Don your chef's cap, try out your accent, and get ready for compliments. You're the international cook of the day! How did you do it? With this simply scrumptious, simply simple new recipe for Crepes Great (that's our own American version of authentic Crepes Suzette with the help of the marmalade jar). Don't be afraid of these crepes because they really are easy. This is a delicacy you'd be proud to serve to a king or to your most special company and the family will love it, too. The flavor is sweetly exotic, the texture is perfection, and the total effect is great. The secrets are many, but such ingredients as prepared pancake mix, cream cheese, sour cream, orange marmalade, and preserved ginger are the major magic powers.

For brunch, late night entertaining or a substantial dessert to climax a light meal, these crepes will draw rave notices. The pancakes can be prepared ahead and stored in a warm oven until time to serve or they can be stored already filled in an ovenware serving dish soaking up sauce until it's their turn to come to the table.

CREPES GREAT

Filling
1 package (3 ounce) cream cheese, softened
½ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup commercial orange marmalade

Crepes
1 cup prepared pancake mix
½ teaspoon sugar
2 eggs
1½ cups milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening or cooking oil

Sauce
¾ cup commercial orange marmalade
2 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger
2 tablespoons ginger syrup
2 tablespoons water (or kirsch or brandy, if desired)

Blend filling ingredients. Prepare crepes. Combine pancake ingredients in mixing bowl; stir until smooth. Pour ¼ cup batter onto a lightly greased hot griddle for each cake. Bake until top is full of bubbles and edges look dry. Turn; cook remaining side. Spread crepes with cheese mixture; roll up. Keep warm. Combine marmalade, ginger, syrup and water or kirsch, if desired. Heat until marmalade melts, stirring frequently. Pour over crepes. Flame with additional kirsch or brandy, if desired. Yield: 10 crepes.

Confetti Crab Chip Pie

Potato Chip Crust:
1½ cups finely crushed potato chips (about 6 cups, uncrushed)
½ cup melted butter or margarine
1 teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons dehydrated minced green onions

Combine ingredients, mix well, press firmly on sides and bottom of six individual pie tins, reserving ⅓ cup of mixture for topping. Bake shells 10 minutes at 375°F. Cool. Fill with following mixture:

Confetti Crab Filling
2 7-oz. packages frozen crab meat, thawed and flaked
1 2-oz. jar sliced pimientos, drained
½ cup minced ripe olives
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup minced onion
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup cultured sour cream
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper

Cook green pepper and onion in melted butter until soft but not brown. Blend in flour and seasonings, gradually add milk and cream. Cook, stirring, until mixture begins to thicken, then add pimientos, olives, and crab. Continue cooking and stirring until thick. Spoon into pie shells, sprinkle with reserved potato chip mixture (1 tablespoon per pie). Bake 20 minutes at 350°F. Serves 6.

Chip & Cheese Casserole

4 ounces potato chips
6 slices bacon
4 slices Swiss cheese
½ teaspoon salt
dash of black pepper
dash of rosemary
1½ cups milk
6 eggs
¼ cup chopped parsley
4 tablespoons onion soup mix
¾ pound ground chuck beef

Fry bacon until crisp; drain on paper and crumble. Brown beef in skillet until crumbly as in making a meat sauce; salt and season with a generous pinch of rosemary and black pepper. Partially drain.

In a medium size casserole dish, or dry skillet, cover the bottom generously with potato chips and mash them so as to build a one-half inch layer. Sprinkle bacon (or bits of cold cuts or what-have-you) and cover with a layer of Swiss Cheese. Spoon in the browned beef.

Beat together the eggs, milk, salt, pepper and dry onion soup mix (just as it comes from the envelope). Pour over the chips and cheese and beef. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Bake at about 375° for twenty minutes. Makes four generous servings.

The pyramids and the Sphinx are the only ones left of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World.

Egg Pizza

Crust:
1 cake compressed yeast
¾ cup lukewarm water
2½ cups biscuit mix
Olive oil

Filling:
8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 cans (8 oz.) tomato sauce
¾ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon oregano
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon anise seed
Dash pepper
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup shredded pizza cheese*

Crust: Crumble yeast cake in lukewarm water; dissolve. Add biscuit mix; beat vigorously for 2 minutes. On surface dusted lightly with biscuit mix, knead dough until smooth, 25 strokes. Divide dough in half. Roll each piece to a 12-inch circle; place on ungreased cooky sheets and crimp edges. Brush dough with olive oil.

Filling: Reserve 2 sliced eggs for garnish. Arrange remaining egg slices on pizza crusts. Combine remaining ingredients except cheese; spread over eggs. Sprinkle cheese over pizzas.

Bake in a 425° F (hot) oven for 15 to 18 minutes or until crusts are lightly browned. Garnish with reserved egg slices. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes 2 12-inch pizzas.

*Mozzarella or Scamorze is the best pizza cheese.

- ¼ cup butter or fat
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper, if desired
- 4½ cups tomato juice
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 pkg. (7 oz.) spaghetti, broken in small pieces (about 2 cups uncooked)

Mix together lightly but thoroughly ground beef, bread crumbs, ½ cup of the onion, 1 teaspoon of the salt, pepper and evaporated milk. Shape mixture into 12 balls. Roll and coat each ball in flour. Melt butter in a large skillet over low heat. Add meat balls and brown on all sides over medium heat. Push balls to sides of pan. Place remaining ½ cup onion and green pepper in center of pan and cook until tender. Pour tomato juice over meat balls and sprinkle with remaining 1 teaspoon salt and the chili powder. Bring to a boil over high heat. Add spaghetti and stir to moisten. Cover skillet, reduce heat as low as possible and cook, stirring occasionally, until spaghetti is tender, about 40 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Riverside Feast

If you've ever been in Mexico on June 24, you'll remember the colorful day of feasting in honor of St. John, the saint of the waters. As a part of their festivities, the citizenry bring their food to the bathing places. There are pork tacos of lean pork and lard, ground and mixed with pepper, onion, tomatoes, cherries, raisins and eggs. This tasty mixture is placed in tortillas, sprinkled with cheese and baked. Another favorite meat dish, the American Meat Institute tells us, is "Empanadas de Orno," a baked dish of ground beef plus onions, green peppers, corn, olives, raisins and eggs.

Look Who Made The Crepes Great — You!

Don your chef's cap, try out your accent, and get ready for compliments. You're the international cook of the day! How did you do it? With this simply scrumptious, simply simple new recipe for Crepes Great (that's our own American version of authentic Crepes Suzette with the help of the marmalade jar). Don't be afraid of these crepes because they really are easy. This is a delicacy you'd be proud to serve to a king or to your most special company and the family will love it, too. The flavor is sweetly exotic, the texture is perfection, and the total effect is great. The secrets are many, but such ingredients as prepared pancake mix, cream cheese, sour cream, orange marmalade, and preserved ginger are the major magic powers.

For brunch, late night entertaining or a substantial dessert to climax a light meal, these crepes will draw rave notices. The pancakes can be prepared ahead and stored in a warm oven until time to serve or they can be stored already filled in an ovenware serving dish soaking up sauce until it's their turn to come to the table.

CREPES GREAT

Filling

- 1 package (3 ounce) cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup dairy sour cream
- ¼ cup commercial orange marmalade

Crepes

- 1 cup prepared pancake mix
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 tablespoons melted shortening or cooking oil

Sauce

- ¾ cup commercial orange marmalade
- 2 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger
- 2 tablespoons ginger syrup
- 2 tablespoons water (or kirsch or brandy, if desired)

Blend filling ingredients. Prepare crepes. Combine pancake ingredients in mixing bowl; stir until smooth. Pour ¼ cup batter onto a lightly greased hot griddle for each cake. Bake until top is full of bubbles and edges look dry. Turn; cook remaining side. Spread crepes with cheese mixture; roll up. Keep warm. Combine marmalade, ginger, syrup and water or kirsch, if desired. Heat until marmalade melts, stirring frequently. Pour over crepes. Flame with additional kirsch or brandy, if desired. Yield: 10 crepes.

Confetti Crab Chip Pie

Potato Chip Crust:

- 1½ cups finely crushed potato chips (about 6 cups, uncrushed)
- ½ cup melted butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 2 teaspoons dehydrated minced green onions

Combine ingredients, mix well, press firmly on sides and bottom of six individual pie tins, reserving ⅓ cup of mixture for topping. Bake shells 10 minutes at 375°F. Cool. Fill with following mixture:

Confetti Crab Filling

- 2 7-oz. packages frozen crab meat, thawed and flaked
- 1 2-oz. jar sliced pimientos, drained
- ½ cup minced ripe olives
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ cup minced onion
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup cultured sour cream
- ½ cup milk
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper

Cook green pepper and onion in melted butter until soft but not brown. Blend in flour and seasonings, gradually add milk and cream. Cook, stirring, until mixture begins to thicken, then add pimientos, olives, and crab. Continue cooking and stirring until thick. Spoon into pie shells, sprinkle with reserved potato chip mixture (1 tablespoon per pie). Bake 20 minutes at 350°F. Serves 6.

Chip & Cheese Casserole

- 4 ounces potato chips
- 6 slices bacon
- 4 slices Swiss cheese
- ½ teaspoon salt
- dash of black pepper
- dash of rosemary
- 1½ cups milk
- 6 eggs
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 4 tablespoons onion soup mix
- ¾ pound ground chuck beef

Fry bacon until crisp; drain on paper and crumble. Brown beef in skillet until crumbly as in making a meat sauce; salt and season with a generous pinch of rosemary and black pepper. Partially drain.

In a medium size casserole dish, or dry skillet, cover the bottom generously with potato chips and mash them so as to build a one-half inch layer. Sprinkle bacon (or bits of cold cuts or what-have-you) and cover with a layer of Swiss Cheese. Spoon in the browned beef.

Beat together the eggs, milk, salt, pepper and dry onion soup mix (just as it comes from the envelope). Pour over the chips and cheese and beef. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Bake at about 375° for twenty minutes. Makes four generous servings.

The pyramids and the Sphinx are the only ones left of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World.

Egg Pizza

Crust:

- 1 cake compressed yeast
- ¾ cup lukewarm water
- 2½ cups biscuit mix
- Olive oil

Filling:

- 8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- 2 cans (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- ¾ cup chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon oregano
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon anise seed
- Dash pepper
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 cup shredded pizza cheese*

Crust: Crumble yeast cake in lukewarm water; dissolve. Add biscuit mix; beat vigorously for 2 minutes. On surface dusted lightly with biscuit mix, knead dough until smooth, 25 strokes. Divide dough in half. Roll each piece to a 12-inch circle; place on ungreased cooky sheets and crimp edges. Brush dough with olive oil.

Filling: Reserve 2 sliced eggs for garnish. Arrange remaining egg slices on pizza crusts. Combine remaining ingredients except cheese; spread over eggs. Sprinkle cheese over pizzas.

Bake in a 425° F (hot) oven for 15 to 18 minutes or until crusts are lightly browned. Garnish with reserved egg slices. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes 2 12-inch pizzas.

*Mozzarella or Scamorze is the best pizza cheese.

Venezia's Zuppa di Pesce

The cruisine of Venezia (Venice) is reputed to be among the most versatile and delectable in Italy. It comprises a variety of special dishes that are truly gastronomic delights. The numerous specialities are undoubtedly a result of the varying climates, agricultural products and geographic boundaries.

The best known of the Venetian specialties are : Riso e piselli (soup made with rice and peas); fegato alla veneziana (liver and onions, usually served with polenta); and a number of fish dishes.

Zuppa di Pesce alla Veneziana, a salad, usually of raw and cooked vegetables, and perhaps a Bel Paese with fresh pears as dessert, would round out a local meal for you to enjoy at your own table. No menu, however, would be complete without wine. A perfect complement to this meal would be a local Soave.

Zuppa di Pesce alla Veneziana
(Fish soup Venetian style)
2 lbs. haddock and flounder
3 cups fish stock
½ cup Italian olive oil
2 cloves garlic
1 bay leaf
Pinch of thyme
1 tablespoon parsley, minced
1 tablespoon fresh basil, minced (or ½ teaspoon dry basil leaves)
½ cup white wine
1 No. 2 can imported Italian plum tomatoes
½ teaspoon saffron
Salt and pepper to taste
Croutos, sauteed in olive oil

Have fisherman remove heads, tails and bones from fish, clean skin, and cut fish in 1-inch slices. (Make a fish stock by combining the following ingredients not listed above: 3 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 small onion, bay leaf and sprig of parsley. Simmer gently about 30 minutes. Strain stock and reserve.)

In a large saucepan, heat olive oil, garlic, bay leaf and thyme. When garlic is browned, remove and discard. Brown fish. Add fish stock and remaining ingredients except croutons. Bring to boil. Reduce heat to simmer; cook gently 10-15 minutes. Serve hot with croutons. Serves 6-8.

Church Supper Casserole

2 tablespoons butter
2 pounds ground beef
2 cups tomato sauce (2, 8 ounce cans)
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups small curd cottage cheese
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup chopped green onions
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped ripe olives
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce or chili sauce

Cook noodles according to package directions. Drain; in a skillet melt butter, then brown meat. Drain excess drippings, add 1 teaspoon salt; stir in tomato sauce, flour, add Worcestershire sauce or chili sauce; simmer 10 minutes. Mix together cottage cheese, sour cream, remaining salt, onion, green pepper and olives. Place half the noodles in a buttered 3 quart casserole or baking dish; spread on cottage cheese mixture. Top with remaining noodles and cover with ground beef mixture. Bake 50 minutes in a moderate oven, 350° F. Let stand about 10 minutes before serving. Serves 12. This casserole can be frozen. Overwrap with transparent saran.

Week's Food Economies

Maryland-grown vegetables are beginning to appear at the produce counter as the summer season starts. The general picture is one of variety for your selection, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist at the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

Maryland snap bean season is here. The local supply is supplemented by beans from Delaware, Virginia and North Carolina. Prices are at a fairly high level presently but can be expected to lower as the season progresses. Look for beans that are bright green, fresh appearing, and uniform in size with immature seeds.

Cabbage is on the best buy list. The local crop is of very good quality. It costs little, a generous serving two to three cents. It provides a generous amount of Vitamin C, particularly when used raw. It is easy to detect signs of high quality with weight and firmness of the head. Cabbage keeps for longer periods in the home than more perishable vegetables.

Cucumbers are another of the best buys. The coolness of this succulent vegetable in the salad bowl is unsurpassed.

Supplies are increasing in peaches from Georgia and South Carolina; cantalopes from Arizona and California and watermelon from Florida and Texas. These are moderate priced fruits. A few North Carolina blackberries and dewberries are on the market. Blueberries of good quality are attractively priced. The first apricots have arrived from California.

The poultry industry is supplying us with two of the best protein buys in the form of fryer chickens and eggs. Fryers are available in cut-up styles to suit every use as well as whole. Try a new chicken recipe.

If you start your day with one egg or two you will avoid the mid-morning slump. Egg prices are low on all sizes. Grade A quality is recommended.

Buffet Dish Features Shrimp And Dairy Foods

Shrimp are one of the most favored of the seafood family. Their individual and delicate flavor is richly enhanced by well seasoned cream sauces and the inimitable flavor of butter. A tasty and easily prepared entree is Shrimp Rabbit, a combination of shrimp and cheese sauce. A rabbit makes a buffet entree especially suitable for Lenten entertaining.

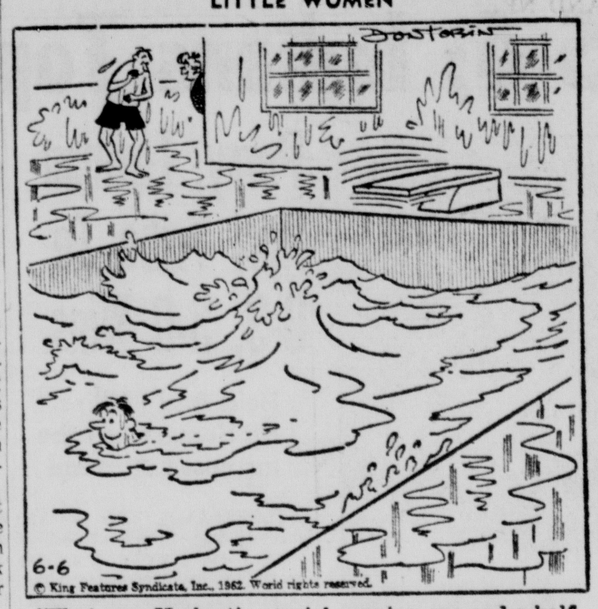
Shrimp Rabbit is a dairy-rich entree that will delight any hostess because of its ease in preparation as well as its nourishing goodness. Cheese and milk as well as the shrimp contribute essential high quality protein along with other essential minerals and vitamins.

If you are planning a buffet dinner during Lent, feature Shrimp Rabbit as the main dish and watch your guests come back for more. Serving suggestions for variation include toast points, fluffy rice or crisp fried noodles. To complete your company buffet menu, serve broiled peach halves, buttered green peas, minted pineapple chunks with watercress, milk and ice cream cakes.

Diabolical Ham

Canned deviled ham combined with canned beans make an excellent and economical summer supper. Or you may use tiny canned Vienna sausages or cubed luncheon meat. Use 1 small can meat to two 2-pound cans beans. Canned meats provide maximum quality, flavor, and convenience at minimum cost.

LITTLE WOMEN



"That was Herbert's special running one-and-a-half pool-emptier!"

"Hello, Mr. Brookbank—how's your liver today?"

Quick Camping Trip Meal

Grill-barbecued luncheon meat is a quickly prepared main dish for camping trips or summer cottage fare, suggests the American Meat Institute. Cut the contents of a can of luncheon meat into thick slices. Grill slices over hot coals until they become a golden brown, basting frequently with a bottled barbecue sauce. Serve between slices of buttered toasted bread or with vegetable accompaniments.

Veal Chops, Limas Good Companions

Veal chops and lima beans may be a food combination you haven't tried. If not, you have a treat in store.

Veal, a tender, delicately flavored meat, should be served frequently to give variety to family meals. Although all cuts are tender, veal does not have much fat and for this reason veal chops are best cooked in moist heat.

In this recipe, the chops are dredged in flour seasoned with nutmeg and savory as well as salt and pepper. Then they are browned in lard.

Savory Veal Chops With Limas

6 veal chops, cut ½ inch thick
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon savory
¼ cup lard or drippings
1 package (10½ ounces) frozen baby lima beans
1 cup tomato juice
1 bouillon cube

Mix together flour, salt, pepper, nutmeg and savory. Dredge chops in seasoned flour. Sprinkle any remaining seasoned flour over chops. Brown in lard or drippings. Remove chops from pan. Pour off drippings. Place lima beans in frying-pan. Add tomato juice and bouillon cube. Place chops on top. Cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes to 1 hour or until chops and limas are done. Yield: 6 servings.

The Parthenon was built about 500 years before the birth of Christ, in the greatest age of Greece.

WIFE PRESERVERS

A non-matching blouse and skirt can be made to seem an ensemble if you can snatch enough skirt material from a seam or pocket to make a small tie or sleeve trim.

You'll have to defrost your refrigerator more often if you put in foods that are still hot. The rising moisture from the cooling food condenses into frost.

Never wrap a cord around a warm appliance; heat damage may result.

To hide small scratches on a plastic table top, wax it.

An hour-glass egg timer can save you money on long-distance phone bills, as its three-minute schedule will coincide exactly with your three-minute basic toll.

Be sure to cut your flower stems at a long slant, so they'll absorb as much water as possible, to stay fresh longer.

Toasted Egg Cups

A light-touch lunch might well take shape from Toasted Egg Cups. Simply designed, the "cups" are really crust-trimmed slices of enriched bread, brushed on both sides with melted butter, each gently pressed into a large custard cup. Poured into the "cups" is a scrambled egg mixture of beaten egg, milk, and a little salt, plus a nippy but generous pinch of grated sharp process cheese. The dish is baked in a 350°F. oven for 30 minutes. Tossed salad greens make a crisp and inviting accompaniment.

Pirates Edge Cincinnati, 5-4; Indians Top Bosox In Doubleheader

Error Permits Winning Tally For Pittsburgh

Face's Relief Job Saves Triumph For Starter Vern Law

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Howie Goss scored on a throwing error by Chico Cardenas in the fifth inning Wednesday night to enable the Pittsburgh Pirates to regain third place in the National League with a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Cardenas fielded Don Leppert's grounder and stepped on second to force Don Hoak. But when the Cincinnati shortstop attempted to double Leppert, he threw widly and the deciding run scored.

The Pirates scored two other runs in that inning when loser Jim O'Toole allowed five walks and one hit.

Elroy Face pitched masterful relief in the ninth inning to preserve starter Vernon Law's victory.

Reliever Diomedes Olivo yielded a walk to Cardenas. Then with pinch hitter Joe Gaines facing him, Olivo was relieved on a 2-1 count.

Face gave up a single to Cardenas, but little Elroy struck out Vada Pinson, who had two runs batted in, and got Frank Robinson to fly out to short center. Jerry Lynch fouled out to the catcher for the last putout.

Pinson got his 14th homer in the fourth inning and Lynch got his fifth in the sixth. Both blows came off Law. The Pirates got eight hits in ending a three game losing streak. The Reds collected 10 safeties.

Hank Aaron Paces Braves To Two Wins Over Mets

Gets Five Hits As Milwaukee Bags 9-4, 3-2 Triumphs

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Aaron continued his torrid hitting Wednesday as he powered the Milwaukee Braves to a doubleheader sweep over the New York Mets, 9-4 and 3-2. The second game was called because of rain after six innings.

Aaron was the single-handed wrecker of the Mets in the second game, smashing a pair of homers and driving in all three Milwaukee runs. The strong-wristed outfielder broke a scoreless tie in the third when he hit his 15th of the season following a walk to Eddie Matthews, then belted No. 16 his next time up, in the sixth. Both came off loser Bill Hunter.

In the opener, Aaron teamed with ex-Met Gus Bell to lead the Braves' 15-hit attack. Aaron singled three times and knocked across three runs and Bell whacked a three-run homer. Joe Adcock also homered for Milwaukee, while Marv Throneberry and Felix Mantilla had homers for the Mets, who now have lost nine of their last 10 starts.

Tony Cloninger went the distance for the Braves in the first game, yielding 10 hits as he picked up his second victory against one loss.

Colts Batter San Francisco Giants, 9 To 5

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Norm Larker's grand-slam home run and a bases loaded double by Pidge Browne powered the Houston Colts to a 9-5 victory over the fumbling San Francisco Giants Wednesday.

Larker blasted the second grand slam of his major league career in the third frame and pinch hitter Browne broke a 5-5 deadlock in the seventh at the expense of reliever Stu Miller.

In the eighth, the Colts scored as San Francisco was charged successively with a passed ball and two infield errors. The Giants' pitchers also contributed nine walks in their downfall.

Dan Athletics Post Third Win, Beat Tigers, 7-3

Manager Bob Ziler's Athletics notched their third straight win to pace the field in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League, beating the Tigers, 7-3, yesterday at Campobello.

The loss was the first of the campaign for Coach Val DeArcangelis' Bengals.

Kyle Geatz tossed a six-hitter and struck out nine to best the Tigers' Glen Cross who also allowed six hits and whiffed 10. Terry Ashby's three-run homer in the sixth iced the verdict for the Athletics who held a 4-3 edge at the time. Harry Minnicks chipped in with three singles for the winners.

Mervin Uhl smacked a triple for the Tigers but was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch it into a four-bagger. Moore banged a triple and Hooten a double for the losers. The results:

Tigers	011 100—3 6 7

Kyle Geatz and Terry Ashby. Glen Cross and Steve Hamilton.

Dapper Red Sox Wallop Phillies, Pirates Score

The Red Sox pounded out 12 hits to hand the defending champion Phillies a 12-3 lacing in a Dapper Dan Little League yesterday on a muddy East Side field.

Bobby Fisher picked up the mound victory as Manager Jim Stevens' Red Sox posted their second win of the campaign. The Phillies lost their first game after opening with a victory last week. Jimmy Daum was the losing pitcher.

Fisher Fisher belted a solo home run in the second inning to spark a four-run Red Sox rally which put the game on ice. He also collected two singles while Joe Baker smacked a double and single and had five runs batted in to pace the winners at the plate. Randy Natale had a two-run homer in the first and Gene Basilio cracked a double for the Phillies who garnered only three hits. Gene Martin excelled at third base for the Red Sox.

In another Dapper Division tilt at Constitution Park the Pirates blanked the Orioles, 21-0, banging out 19 hits and scoring in every inning in the one-sided slaughter. The win was the first for the Pirates while the Orioles have now dropped two in a row.

Oscar Lewis smacked a homer, double and single; Tom Lewis had four hits including a three-bagger; and Ronnie Bierman collected a triple and two singles in the Pirates' onslaught.

Jimmy Stafford held the Orioles to three scattered singles and struck out five in posting his first mound victory. The results:

Writer Claims Pinson Slugged Him On Jaw

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Earl Lawson, a baseball writer for the Cincinnati Post-Times Star, said Wednesday night that he was punched on the jaw by Cincinnati Reds outfielder Vada Pinson for a story he had written.

Lawson said that Pinson slugged him minutes before Wednesday night's game between the Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates. He said the incident occurred in the Forbes Field visitor's locker room shortly after he had walked in .

He quoted Pinson as asking him if he meant it in a column Lawson had written when he stated that with Pinson's speed he should be the best defensive player in the National League but that he wasn't.

Lawson told Pinson that he had meant it, and the Reds' centerfielder punched him on the jaw.

Pirates Edge Cincinnati, 5-4; Indians Top Bosox In Doubleheader

Error Permits Winning Tally For Pittsburgh

Face's Relief Job Saves Triumph For Starter Vern Law

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Howie Goss scored on a throwing error by Chico Cardenas in the fifth inning Wednesday night to enable the Pittsburgh Pirates to regain third place in the National League with a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Cardenas fielded Don Leppert's grounder and stepped on second to force Don Hoak. But when the Cincinnati shortstop attempted to double Leppert, he threw widly and the deciding run scored.

The Pirates scored two other runs in that inning when loser Jim O'Toole allowed five walks and one hit.

Elroy Face pitched masterful relief in the ninth inning to preserve starter Vernon Law's victory.

Reliever Diomedes Olivo yielded a walk to Cardenas. Then with pinch hitter Joe Gaines facing him, Olivo was relieved on a 2-1 count.

Face gave up a single to Cardenas, but little Elroy struck out Vada Pinson, who had two runs batted in, and got Frank Robinson to fly out to short center. Jerry Lynch fouled out to the catcher for the last putout.

Pinson got his 14th homer in the fourth inning and Lynch got his fifth in the sixth. Both blows came off Law. The Pirates got eight hits in ending a three game losing streak. The Reds collected 10 safeties.

Tim Scaletta banged out a three-bagger and Ralph Miller and Jerry Growden each obtained two hits for Outdoor Club. Miller's running catch of a drive at second was the fielding highlight of the game.

The Lions, down 6-2, roared back for six runs in the last two innings to beat Bedford Road with Johnny Robinson's two-run single in the seventh capping the winning three-run rally.

Mike Baker was the winning pitcher, with Al Delbrugge getting the loss. Baker had a double, Bobby Dick a triple and Gene Wright two hits for the Lions. Delbrugge's two singles and a triple by Dave Fram were the big blows for Bedford Road. The results:

Writer Claims Pinson Slugged Him On Jaw

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Earl Lawson, a baseball writer for the Cincinnati Post-Times Star, said Wednesday night that he was punched on the jaw by Cincinnati Reds outfielder Vada Pinson for a story he had written.

Lawson said that Pinson slugged him minutes before Wednesday night's game between the Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates. He said the incident occurred in the Forbes Field visitor's locker room shortly after he had walked in .

He quoted Pinson as asking him if he meant it in a column Lawson had written when he stated that with Pinson's speed he should be the best defensive player in the National League but that he wasn't.

Lawson told Pinson that he had meant it, and the Reds' centerfielder punched him on the jaw.

Faces Suspension

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — State Athletic Commissioner Joseph F. Walker said Wednesday that heavyweight boxer Tom McNeeley faces a 90-day suspension in all National Boxing Association member states for his conduct in a fight in Ottawa.

McNeeley was suspended for "unsportsmanlike conduct" in a fight against Don McAteer on June 8. A ringside riot involving fans and police erupted when McNeeley was disqualified in the sixth round after throwing four consecutive low punches.

Hank Aaron Paces Braves To Two Wins Over Mets

Gets Five Hits As Milwaukee Bags 9-4, 3-2 Triumphs

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Aaron continued his torrid hitting Wednesday as he powered the Milwaukee Braves to a double-header sweep over the New York Mets, 9-4 and 3-2. The second game was called because of rain after six innings.

Aaron was the single-handed wrecker of the Mets in the second game, smashing a pair of homers and driving in all three Milwaukee runs. The strong-wristed outfielder broke a scoreless tie in the third when he hit his 15th of the season following a walk to Eddie Matthews, then belted No. 16 his next time up, in the sixth. Both came off loser Bill Hunter.

In the opener, Aaron teamed with ex-Met Gus Bell to lead the Braves' 15-hit attack. Aaron singled three times and knocked across three runs and Bell whacked a three-run homer. Joe Adcock also homered for Milwaukee, while Marv Throneberry and Felix Mantilla had homers for the Mets, who now have lost nine of their last 10 starts.

Tony Cloninger went the distance for the Braves in the first game, yielding 10 hits as he picked up his second victory against one loss.

Dapper Red Sox Wallop Phillies, Pirates Score

The Red Sox pounded out 12 hits to hand the defending champion Phillies a 12-3 lacing in a Dapper Dan Little League yesterday on a muddy East Side field.

Bobby Fisher picked up the mound victory as Manager Jim Stevens' Red Sox posted their second win of the campaign. The Phillies lost their first game after opening with a victory last week. Jimmy Daum was the losing pitcher.

Fisher Fisher belted a solo home run in the second inning to spark a four-run Red Sox rally which put the game on ice. He also collected two singles while Joe Baker smacked a double and single and had five runs batted in to pace the winners at the plate. Randy Natale had a two-run homer in the first and Gene Basilio cracked a double for the Phillies who garnered only three hits. Gene Martin excelled at third base for the Red Sox.

In another Dapper Division tilt at Constitution Park the Pirates blanked the Orioles, 21-0, banging out 19 hits and scoring in every inning in the one-sided slaughter. The win was the first for the Pirates while the Orioles have now dropped two in a row.

Oscar Lewis smacked a homer, double and single; Tom Lewis had four hits including a three-bagger; and Ronnie Bierman collected a triple and two singles in the Pirates' onslaught.

Jimmy Stafford held the Orioles to three scattered singles and struck out five in posting his first mound victory. The results:

Colts Batter San Francisco Giants, 9 To 5

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Norm Larker's grand-slam home run and a bases loaded double by Pidge Browne powered the Houston Colts to a 9-5 victory over the fumbling San Francisco Giants Wednesday.

Larker blasted the second grand slam of his major league career in the third frame and pinch hitter Browne broke a 5-5 deadlock in the seventh at the expense of reliever Stu Miller.

In the eighth, the Colts scored as San Francisco was charged successively with a passed ball and two infield errors. The Giants' pitchers also contributed nine walks in their downfall.

DETROIT (UPI)—George Hicks, 35, Detroit, was given a choice of 90 days in jail or a $100 fine Wednesday for throwing a beer cup at Washington outfielder Jim Piersall from the bleachers during Tuesday night's Detroit-Washington game.

The sentence was handed out by Detroit Recorder's Judge Joseph A. Gillis.

Five kickoffs were returned for touchdowns during the 1961 National Football League season.

$50,000 Golf World Series Is Planned

4 Champions Meet On September 8-9

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A "world series of golf," a super exclusive tournament matching the winners of the Masters, U.S. and British Opens and the PGA championships, will be played here Sept. 8-9 with a $50,000 first prize at stake.

Only the four players—and may be less if there are double or triple champions—will be eligible for the 36-hole stroke play tournament at the Firestone Country Club, it was announced Wednesday. One round will be played on Saturday and the other on Sunday.

To Be Televised

The world series will be televised (NBC) both days with the TV show beginning each day at the 13th hole and carrying on to the finish.

Second place will be worth $15,000 and third and fourth place a minimum of $5,000 each. There's a possibility the third place award may be hiked to $10,000.

Arnie Palmer, winner of the Masters, and Jack Nicklaus, who won the U.S. Open by beating Palmer in a playoff, already have qualified for the jackpot tourney. Nicklaus earned $17,500 for the Open title.

The British Open, which will include both Palmer and Nicklaus in the field, will be played July 9-13 at the famous Troon course in Scotland. The PGA will be held July 19-22 at the Aronimink Country Club in Newtown Square, Pa.

The champions will gather at Akron two days in advance of the tourney for practice rounds Thursday and Friday, Sept. 6-7.

Play Is Twosomes

Play will be in twosomes—if four qualify—but the pairings will not be made until after the PGA.

The world series of golf is being produced by Walter Schwimmer Productions, Inc., of Chicago.

Schwimmer said the PGA will supervise the tournament and also will select an alternate or alternates should any of the qualifiers win another of the titles.

Rains Soak Greens On Eve Of Eastern Open

Mount Pleasant Site Of Tourney

BALTIMORE (AP)—Extra emphasis was laid on putting Wednesday for Thursday's start of the $35,000 Eastern Open golf tournament by heavy rains that waterlogged the Mount Pleasant course.

Heavy downfalls Tuesday night and Wednesday suddenly changed the condition from fast to slow. The downpour which swamped the greens caused cancellation of the scheduled tuneup pro-amateur competition.

The resultant mushy greens were expected to cause the most revision in calculations for the 115 pros slated to tee off in the first of four 18-hole rounds Thursday morning.

Size Poses Problem

The size of many of the Mount Pleasant greens alone had posed problems. The largest is 20,000 square feet, nearly one quarter of an acre.

"I had forgotten just how big these greens were," said Freddie Hawkins of El Paso, Tex. "Man, you can hit a good approach and be faced with a 100-foot putt."

"That's right," agreed Bob Rosburg of Portland, Ore., "you could make 18 greens in regulation and wind up in the 80s."

The 13th Eastern is returning to Mount Pleasant after being played three years at Pine Ridge, an easier Baltimore municipal course.

Mount Pleasant had been ripe for tearing apart before the rains. It had been hard as concrete from an arid spell to lessen the task of socking a golf ball its 6,802 up-and-down yards. The big greens likewise were speedy and balls ran true.

Snead Posted Record

The low 72-hole score at Mount Pleasant is 275, 13 under par, by Sam Snead when he won the 1952 Eastern Open. Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., shot the same score at Pine Ridge in winning last year.

But he will tee off cold at Mount Pleasant after the weather cancelled his preliminary round in the pro-amateur. Sanders and Dave Ragan of Sun City, Fla., are the only former Eastern winners in the field again.

Ragan scored his first professional victory in 1959 at the transplanted Eastern with a score of 273.

Zarley Scores In NCAA Golf Tourney Opener

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Medalist Kermit Zarley of Houston won his first round NCAA golf match Wednesday and held a 1-up lead after nine holes of the second round when a thunderstorm halted play.

The second round was suspended with five of the 16 matches underway. They will be resumed Thursday morning at the point where play was interrupted.

The initial round was completed after most players in the last 10 matches waited some 30 minutes for the heavy rain to let up before continuing.

The revised schedule calls for the second round Thursday morning and the third round in the afternoon. The quarter-finals and semifinals will be played Friday, the latter cut to 18 holes from the originally listed 36. The finals Saturday will be 36 holes.

Game Reset

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Wednesday night's game between the Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees was postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

It was re-scheduled for Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. EDT.

Record 129 Golfers Entered In Maryland Amateur Tournament

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — A record field of 129 golfers have entered the Maryland State Golf Association Amateur championship which gets under way Thursday with an 18-hole qualifying round.

The first day's play will determine who will fill 31 of 32 match play positions. Dick Latimer of Columbia, the defending champion, qualifies automatically for match play, which begins Friday.

There will be four rounds of match play — two rounds Friday and two Saturday. The 36-hole finals are Sunday.

Among those entered in the tournament, besides Latimer, are Ralph Bogart of Chevy Chase, a six-time Maryland amateur champion, and two-time champ Claude Wild of Burning Tree.

Mantle To Return To Yanks Lineup At Detroit Friday

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mickey Mantle, sidelined more than a month with leg injuries, will return to the New York Yankees' Starting line-up Friday night against the Tigers at Detroit, Manager Ralph Houk announced Wednesday night.

Houk said Mantle will play in right field, rather than his usual center field spot "because in Detroit, it's the smallest area an outfielder has to cover.

"If Mick can make it in Detroit, he'll be able to play right field in Yankee Stadium when we get home after that series," Houk said. "If he can't, well then it's anybody's guess what happens."

Mantle Denies Injury To Foot

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees denied Wednesday any injury was sustained Tuesday night as a foul ball struck his right foot.

The accident happened in the ninth inning of the game won by the Baltimore Orioles, 3 to 1.

Joe Soares, a Yankee trainer, admitted that the outfielder received a bruise on his right foot instep when hit with the ball pitched by Jack Fisher, but said it caused little damage.

Mantle had been out of action since May 18, when he suffered a pulled muscle in his right thigh and bruised his left knee in game against the Minnesota twins.

$50,000 Golf World Series Is Planned

4 Champions Meet On September 8-9

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A "world series of golf," a super exclusive tournament matching the winners of the Masters, U.S. and British Opens and the PGA championships, will be played here Sept. 8-9 with a $50,000 first prize at stake.

Only the four players—and may be less if there are double or triple champions—will be eligible for the 36-hole stroke play tournament at the Firestone Country Club, it was announced Wednesday. One round will be played on Saturday and the other on Sunday.

To Be Televised

The world series will be televised (NBC) both days with the TV show beginning each day at the 13th hole and carrying on to the finish.

Second place will be worth $15,000 and third and fourth place a minimum of $5,000 each. There's a possibility the third place award may be hiked to $10,000.

Arnie Palmer, winner of the Masters, and Jack Nicklaus, who won the U.S. Open by beating Palmer in a playoff, already have qualified for the jackpot tourney. Nicklaus earned $17,500 for the Open title.

The British Open, which will include both Palmer and Nicklaus in the field, will be played July 9-13 at the famous Troon course in Scotland. The PGA will be held July 19-22 at the Aronimink Country Club in Newtown Square, Pa.

The champions will gather at Akron two days in advance of the tourney for practice rounds Thursday and Friday, Sept. 6-7.

Play Is Twosomes

Play will be in twosomes—if four qualify—but the pairings will not be made until after the PGA.

The world series of golf is being produced by Walter Schwimmer Productions, Inc., of Chicago.

Schwimmer said the PGA will supervise the tournament and also will select an alternate or alternates should any of the qualifiers win another of the titles.

Rains Soak Greens On Eve Of Eastern Open

Mount Pleasant Site Of Tourney

BALTIMORE (AP)—Extra emphasis was laid on putting Wednesday for Thursday's start of the $35,000 Eastern Open golf tournament by heavy rains that waterlogged the Mount Pleasant course.

Heavy downfalls Tuesday night and Wednesday suddenly changed the condition from fast to slow. The downpour which swamped the greens caused cancellation of the scheduled tuneup pro-amateur competition.

The resultant mushy greens were expected to cause the most revision in calculations for the 115 pros slated to tee off in the first of four 18-hole rounds Thursday morning.

Size Poses Problem

The size of many of the Mount Pleasant greens alone had posed problems. The largest is 20,000 square feet, nearly one quarter of an acre.

"I had forgotten just how big these greens were," said Freddie Hawkins of El Paso, Tex. "Man, you can hit a good approach and be faced with a 100-foot putt."

"That's right," agreed Bob Rosburg of Portland, Ore., "you could make 18 greens in regulation and wind up in the 80s."

The 13th Eastern is returning to Mount Pleasant after being played three years at Pine Ridge, an easier Baltimore municipal course.

Mount Pleasant had been ripe for tearing apart before the rains. It had been hard as concrete from an arid spell to lessen the task of socking a golf ball its 6,802 up-and-down yards. The big greens likewise were speedy and balls ran true.

Snead Posted Record

The low 72-hole score at Mount Pleasant is 275, 13 under par, by Sam Snead when he won the 1952 Eastern Open. Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., shot the same score at Pine Ridge in winning last year.

But he will tee off cold at Mount Pleasant after the weather cancelled his preliminary round in the pro-amateur. Sanders and Dave Ragan of Sun City, Fla., are the only former Eastern winners in the field again.

Ragan scored his first professional victory in 1959 at the transplanted Eastern with a score of 273.

Senators Top Detroit, 5-4

Hinton, Cottier Homers Beat Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—The Washington Senators rallied for three runs in the seventh inning, with Chuck Hinton's two-run homer climaxing the outburst, and edged the Detroit Tigers 5-4 Wednesday.

But it took a nifty bit of relief pitching by Pete Burnside to stop a Tiger counter-attack in the bottom of the inning after Detroit retaliated with two runs.

Burnside, fourth Washington pitcher, came on with the potential tying and winning runs on base and got the final two outs of the inning.

The Tigers jumped to a 2-0 lead on Norm Cash's homer in the second. Chuck Cottier's two-run wallop tied it in the fifth.

With two out in the seventh, Bob Johnson's single scored Jimmy Piersall from second with the run that put the Senators ahead 3-2. Hinton followed with a sliced shot into the right field seats.

Purnal Goldy's two-run double accounted for two Detroit runs in the seventh off Steve Hamilton. Burnside came in after Hamilton walked Rocky Colavito and held off the Tigers over the final 2 1-3 innings.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Walton, the blocking end who was one of the New York Giants' best trade acquisitions last year, signed his 1962 contract Wednesday for the coming National Football League season.

Johnson, Scholz Complete Training

BERLIN (AP) — Title holder Harold Johnson of Philadelphia and Germany's Gustav Scholz wound up training Wednesday for their Saturday world light heavyweight championship fight in Berlin's giant Olympic Stadium.

Both men appeared fit. Both are confident and expect to win.

There is no official or unofficial betting but privately the odds are 3-1 in favor of the 33-year-old title defender.

Seven Rivals Face Cicada In American Oaks

Broadway, Batter Up To Miss Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven rivals shaped up Wednesday for Meadow Stable's Cicada in the $100,000-added Coaching Club American Oaks at Belmont Park, but Batter Up and Broadway will remain in their barn Saturday.

Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons said his two stakes winners, Wheatley Stable's Batter up and Ogden Phipps' Broadway, would not oppose Cicada in the 1¼ mile race, final event in the New York Triple Crown for 3-year-old fillies.

Cicada can become the first to sweep the triple, having won the Acorn Stakes at Aqueduct May 19 and the Mother Goose at Belmont June 2. Last year, Phipps' Funloving, trained by Fitzsimmons, upset Bowl of Flowers in the Mother Goose and prevented that Brookmeade, Farm filly from making the sweep.

Those expected to meet Cicada include E. P. Taylor's Flaming Page, winner of the Queen's Plate and the Canadian Oaks; E. Barryryan's Firm Policy, second in the Mother Goose; King Ranch's Tamarona, second in the Acorn; James Cox Brady's Upswept, third in the Acorn; Harbor View Farm's Royal Patrice, third in the Mother Goose; Hart Stotter's Elmo's Ethel and C. V. Whitney's Jazz Queen.

If eight start, the 46th Oaks will gross $119,125, with the winner collecting $77,431.25. Cicada's owner, Christopher T. Chenery, can pick up an extra $25,000 if his filly wins. The New York Racing Association has offered such a bonus for any filly winning the Triple Crown.

Senators Top Detroit, 5-4

Hinton, Cottier Homers Beat Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—The Washington Senators rallied for three runs in the seventh inning, with Chuck Hinton's two-run homer climaxing the outburst, and edged the Detroit Tigers 5-4 Wednesday.

But it took a nifty bit of relief pitching by Pete Burnside to stop a Tiger counter-attack in the bottom of the inning after Detroit retaliated with two runs.

Burnside, fourth Washington pitcher, came on with the potential tying and winning runs on base and got the final two outs of the inning.

The Tigers jumped to a 2-0 lead on Norm Cash's homer in the second. Chuck Cottier's two-run wallop tied it in the fifth.

With two out in the seventh, Bob Johnson's single scored Jimmy Piersall from second with the run that put the Senators ahead 3-2. Hinton followed with a sliced shot into the right field seats.

Purnal Goldy's two-run double accounted for two Detroit runs in the seventh off Steve Hamilton. Burnside came in after Hamilton walked Rocky Colavito and held off the Tigers over the final 2 1-3 innings.

Walton In Fold

Johnson, Scholz Complete Training

BERLIN (AP) — Title holder Harold Johnson of Philadelphia and Germany's Gustav Scholz wound up training Wednesday for their Saturday world light heavyweight championship fight in Berlin's giant Olympic Stadium.

Both men appeared fit. Both are confident and expect to win.

There is no official or unofficial betting but privately the odds are 3-1 in favor of the 33-year-old title defender.

Seven Rivals Face Cicada In American Oaks

Broadway, Batter Up To Miss Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven rivals shaped up Wednesday for Meadow Stable's Cicada in the $100,000-added Coaching Club American Oaks at Belmont Park, but Batter Up and Broadway will remain in their barn Saturday.

Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons said his two stakes winners, Wheatley Stable's Batter up and Ogden Phipps' Broadway, would not oppose Cicada in the 1¼ mile race, final event in the New York Triple Crown for 3-year-old fillies.

Cicada can become the first to sweep the triple, having won the Acorn Stakes at Aqueduct May 19 and the Mother Goose at Belmont June 2. Last year, Phipps' Funloving, trained by Fitzsimmons, upset Bowl of Flowers in the Mother Goose and prevented that Brookmeade, Farm filly from making the sweep.

Those expected to meet Cicada include E. P. Taylor's Flaming Page, winner of the Queen's Plate and the Canadian Oaks; E. Barryryan's Firm Policy, second in the Mother Goose; King Ranch's Tamarona, second in the Acorn; James Cox Brady's Upswept, third in the Acorn; Harbor View Farm's Royal Patrice, third in the Mother Goose; Hart Stotter's Elmo's Ethel and C. V. Whitney's Jazz Queen.

If eight start, the 46th Oaks will gross $119,125, with the winner collecting $77,431.25. Cicada's owner, Christopher T. Chenery, can pick up an extra $25,000 if his filly wins. The New York Racing Association has offered such a bonus for any filly winning the Triple Crown.

Plaza Traffic Light Won't Be Relocated

Bushby Asks SRC To Find Solution

The State Roads Commission isn't going to move the traffic light on U. S. 40 at LaVale Plaza Shopping Center, District Engineer John D. Bushby, said yesterday.

Mr. Bushby said his office had received a petition with 337 signatures asking that the light be taken down and relocated at the Six Mile House intersection of Route 40 with State Routes 49 and 53.

He pointed out that the signal was bought and installed by the owners of the shopping center under a State Roads Commission permit so that traffic into and out of the big center could be controlled.

Mr. Bushby said he does recognize the traffic condition at the intersection, and a similar but lesser problem at the intersection of U. S. 40 and Camp Ground Road.

He has asked the chief of the SRC's Bureau of Traffic to make a study to determine the best way to regulate traffic at both points.

"It is obvious that congestion occurs only at times of peak traffic when persons are traveling to and from work, and occasionally on Friday or Saturday when the commercial establishments in this area attract large volumes of people," he said.

Mr. Bushby said the situation "is by no means an isolated condition, but is only new to this specific location because of the very recent commercial development."

In other areas including Cumberland, where heavy traffic must be accommodated in a short time, "the flow of traffic is limited by the ability of the system to absorb it" even with electric signals, Mr. Bushby said.

Local Woman Faces Trial In Larceny

A local 36-year-old woman has indicated she wants an immediate trial in connection with the grand larceny of $182 from the Rexall Drug Store in LaVale recently, the state's attorney's office reported yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Katherine Nesbit, 111 South Allegany Street, was given a hearing before Harold E. Naughton, substitute trial magistrate who set bond at $500 pending action of the grand jury of the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The woman was released when property bond was posted.

Yesterday, State's Attorney James S. Getty indicated the woman will waive indictment and a trial by jury and ask for an immediate trial on a criminal information which would be filed by his office.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, said the woman admitted taking the sum of money from the safe of the store.

Later she said she tossed the money in a jar under a delivery truck of the business establishment, he added.

Mrs. Nesbit was an employe of the store at the time the money was taken, said Sgt. Baker.

Hamilton was charged with failing to grant the right of way and Llewellyn was charged wtih driving in a reckless manner.

Reapportion Petition Filed By Attorneys

Contend Measure Is Unconstitutional

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md. (AP) — Attorneys for two Calvert County residents filed a petition Wednesdey contesting the constitutionality of the "stop-gap" reapportionment bill passed by the special session of the General Assembly last month.

The legislature added 19 seats to the House during the special session to meet a court order, which said the then apportionment of 123-member House violated the constitutional right of metropolitan residents to equal protection of the laws under the 14th Amendment.

The stop-gap measure would be effective until the General Assembly meets in 1963 and enacts a constitutional amendment for reapportioning the House.

The attorneys for William A. Reick, Lower Marlboro, and Robert E. Allen Jr., Huntingtown, contended the reapportionment measure was unconstitutional because the people were deprived the right to petition the bill to referendum.

The measure was enacted and signed by Gov. Tawes 10 minutes before the June 1 deadline for simple bills to become law.

No Time For Petition

The attorneys said it was impossible to comply with the constitutional provision regarding referenda. The provision calls for the filing of the petition for referendum before June 1 with at least 5,000 signatures affixed to papers containing the full text of the questioned legislative act.

The suit was filed by Perry G. Bowen, a Prince Frederick attorney. He was joined in the action by Harry T. Phoebus Jr. of Somerset County, Del. Elroy G. Boyer, D-Kent, and Del. Richard M. Matthews, D-Dorchester.

The suit names the Board of Election Supervisors of Calvert County and the Board of State Canvassers, and asks that the boards be enjoined from performing any acts pertaining to the House of Delegates pursuant to the new measure.

As an alternative, the attorneys asked that the Calvert County Circuit Court grant a reasonable time for them to secure and file the necessary signatures with the secretary of state to place the constitutionality question on the November ballot.

In a related action Wednesday, the Maryland Committee for Fair Representation filed in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court additional arguments to support its claim that the State Senate seats also should be reshuffled.

The committee has asked Circuit Judge O. Bowie Duckett to invalidate the section of the Maryland Constitution pertaining to Senate apportionment.

The citizens committee told Judge Duckett that the recent action of the Supreme Court on the Georgia unit rule is "another persuasive indication of what the ultimate result will be when the closely related question of legislative malapportionment is presented" to the high court.

Georgia Law Reviewed

On Monday, the Supreme Court agreed to review the decision of a three-judge federal court which invalidated the unit rule in Georgia. The lower court enjoined the state from using the system in its 1962 primary election.

Judge Duckett heard 2½ hours of arguments on the constitutionality of the makeup of the Maryland Senate last Thursday and currently has the issue under advisement. His office said Wednesday his opinion probably would be filed next Tuesday or Wednesday.

It was Judge Duckett's ruling that the House was malapportioned which caused Gov. Tawes to call the general assembly into special session. The Committee for Fair Representation initiated that suit also.

Alfred Scanlan, an attorney for the representation committee, said his group would not intervene in the Calvert County suit.

The attorneys said the purpose of the Calvert County challenge "is to protect the taxpayers and voters from the sledge-hammer tactics of the legislative act.

"The suit is not motivated by any political maneuvering nor is it done with any desire to obstruct justice or act to the detriment of any person or party whatever. Its purpose is to preserve the democratic way of life and defend the constitution of Maryland," they said.

Girls State Hears Talk By Md. Woman Senator

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A woman state senator told the delegates of Girls State Wednesday the strength of the government in the United States depends on the citizens' ability to chose wisely in an election.

Sen. Margaret Schweinhaut, D-Montgomery, said: "The voice of the people made a judgment that by 21 years old, you would mature enough to select your representative wisely.

"When you are 21, if you're too busy to know what a candidate stands for or how he feels on matters you think important — or if you're indifferent—then the legislature will be the same.

"Your laws will be careless ones or, worse still, selfish ones that please a few people but do not take care of everyone's best interest," Sen. Schweinhaut said.

Some 200 girls are attending the 17th annual, week-long Girls State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. The purpose of the program is to give the girls a better insight in the workings of the government.

Illegal Guns Are Cited By Local Agents

Fine, Prison Term Can Be Imposed

Local investigators of the Alcohol and Tobacco Division of the Treasury Department are reminding residents of the area that certain types of shotguns and rifles which may be in their possession are in violation of the National Firearms Act.

Ernest A. Breakfield Jr. and John L. Burkholder explained that a shotgun with a barrel less than 18 inches in length, a rifle with a barrel less than 16 inches, or any altered shotgun or rifle with an overall length of less than 26 inches, is in violation of the law.

Some time ago while the agents were on a routine investigation at a home in Garrett County, they saw a "sawed off" shotgun hanging on the wall of the dwelling.

The gun was taken into custody and was abandoned by the owner, who will not be prosecuted, they said.

Yesterday one of the investigators was in Eckhart and thought he detected two such guns.

Some owners shorten the barrel of a gun for killing snakes, a practice not recommended by the investigators. They said illegal possession of such guns carries a fine of not more than $2,000 and a prison term of not more than five years or both.

The investigators believe there are quite a few of these guns in the area and that the owners may be unaware of the seriousness of the violation. Those with this type firearm are asked to turn it in at the office at the Post Office here and avoid prosecution.

Additional information may be obtained by calling their office, PA 4-9323, between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Firemen Get Call But Are Not Needed

Volunteer firemen of LaVale received a call of a fire at the State Police Barracks but did not have to respond when they got a second call moments later that the blaze had been extinguished.

About 6:55 p.m. police called the volunteers, saying there was a small gasoline fire in the barracks garage. The siren sounded and 19 men responded. About a minute later police notified the firemen the fire was out.

Officials Get Shires' Thanks For Support

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners has received a letter from T. Donald Shires, a member of the County Board of Education, expressing thanks for the commissioners' helpfulness in the educational program of the county.

Last Friday the county commissioners agreed to make up the $7,787.58 deficit incurred by the Allegany Community College here in its first year of operation.

Mr. Shires, who wrote as an individual rather than as a spokesman for the board, wrote as follows:

"Please accept my personal thanks for your helpfulness in connection with the educational program for Allegany County. As you well know, any progress made is largely dependent upon financing. Without hesitation you recently agreed to make up the deficit incurred in the first year's operation of Allegany Community College and I fully appreciate your action.

"Your board was also forward looking in your approval of the proposed college budget for 1962-63. Your action in improving the pay of teachers and providing other funds for education is to be commended.

"I suppose no group ever receives all the money it desires and can use but in your action you have demonstrated a willingness to support progress as well as to protect the interest of all taxpayers."

CUF Invites Non-Member Units To Join

Could Be Included In Next Drive Goal

The admissions committee of County United Fund, Inc., again has invited non-participating agencies to join up in time to have their budgets included in CUF's 1962 campaign goal.

Thirty-one agencies already participating in CUF are now preparing preliminary estimated budgets for operating funds for 1963 for use by CUF's allocations committee.

W. Fred Mowen, chairman of the admissions committee, has written to non-member agencies asking for meetings with their boards of directors to discuss CUF affiliation and to set up allocations.

He said participation would relieve agency staffs and volunteer workers of fund-raising responsibilities, thus allowing them to spend more time on service, and would make available more funds for service by eliminating the costs of fund-raising.

Letters went to the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, Mineral County section of the West Virginia Division of American Cancer Society, Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, Allegany County League for Crippled Children (Allegany County Chapter of National Foundation), Mineral County section of West Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Muscular Dystrophy Association of Maryland, Allegany-Garrett County Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Maryland Association for Mental Health, and Allegany County section of the Maryland Chapter of National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Mr. Mowen reminded the agencies that 90 chapters of the American Cancer Society already are affiliated with united funds, as are 306 chapters of the American Heart Association, 602 chapters of the National Association of Mental Health Funds, 114 chapters of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, 130 chapters of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, and 48 chapters of the National Foundation (March of Dimes)

Joyner Reviews Planning Study

Members of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission discussed plans to appoint an urban renewal commission of five members within the next week or ten days at a meeting last night in the mayor's office at City Hall.

Also discussed was a recommendation of the commission to exercise its option to build an alley on city owned property from Bedford Street to City Furniture Company alley.

Representatives of the Western Maryland Railway Company, Karl Bachman of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Lucile Roeder, city finance commissioner, attended the meeting.

John R. Joyner, resident planner, submitted draft copies of a population and economic study of Cumberland to members of the commission for review and recommendations. He also discussed the basic ideas contained in the draft copy.

Juvenile Court At Circuit Level Backed

State Bar Group Recommends Step

A committee report recommending that jurisdiction over juvenile causes be transferred from the magistrate courts to the circuit courts in Montgomery and Allegany counties will come before the State Bar Association at its 67th annual meeting starting today at the Hotel Traymore in Atlantic City, N. J.

The report of the committee on juvenile courts and delinquency notes that with the exception of Montgomery and Allegany counties, all jurisdictions in the state now handle juvenile cases at the Circuit Court level.

The committee's recommendation reads as follows:

"It is recommended that the association endorse legislation to transfer jurisdiction over juvenile causes from the magistrates courts to the circuit courts in Montgomery County and Allegany County; in the former county, such transfer being in conjunction with the creation of an additional judgeship in the Circuit Court.

"It is recommended that the president of the association appoint a special committee to study the advantages and feasibility of, and the procedures required to effect, creation of a family court as a part of the circuit court in some jurisdictions, for the purpose of handling on a specialized basis all matters, criminal, equity and juvenile, concerned with family relationships."

The committee then offers four lengthy paragraphs of observations. The committee believes that the importance and nature of the juvenile court work required Circuit Court jurisdictions for the assurance of continuity needed in the administration of these cases. It is then pointed out that except for Montgomery and Allegany, all jurisdictions in Maryland now handle juvenile cases at the Circuit Court level.

In Montgomery County, the large urban population makes the Juvenile Court a full time job for the judge. As a result the committee believes that it is appropriate that a new Circuit Court judgeship be created in Montgomery County.

"The highly successful juvenile court operation heretofore carried on in Montgomery County at the magistrate's court level could presumably be shifted intact to the Circuit Court thus receiving the assurances of continuity of administration possible in that court," the committee states.

The committee goes on to state that the organization of a family court to handle all cases involving the family relationship could be a great service to the administration of justice. This would be a specialized court, but would cover both civil and criminal matters in this specialty.

Of criminal cases, desertion, and non-support, assault of family members, illegitimate paternity and the like would be included. Of the equity cases, divorce, custody, adoption, guardianship would come under this particular court. Juvenile causes would also be handled. A single probation service would serve the court.

The committee also takes note of the action of the Maryland Judicial Conference in setting aside a portion of the conference to consider juvenile court matters. Such conferences of the judges administering the juvenile courts throughout the state are bound to be helpful in establishing uniform procedures and sharing new ideas, according to the committee.

Finally, the committee noted with particular approval the extremely successful youth activities program being carried on in Wicomico County.

Frank T. Gray of Baltimore is chairman of the committee which submitted this report. Some Allegany County attorneys, critical of the recommendation, note that no Western Maryland lawyers were on the committee. The only one from the Sixth Congressional District was Alfred D. Noyes, who is magistrate for juvenile causes in Montgomery County.

Some Allegany County attorneys contend that the juvenile court here functions properly when an attorney is the magistrate for juvenile causes. The last three, Morris Barron, Fred H. Anderson and Louis A. Fatkin, all have been attorneys.

Plaza Traffic Light Won't Be Relocated

Bushby Asks SRC To Find Solution

The State Roads Commission isn't going to move the traffic light on U. S. 40 at LaVale Plaza Shopping Center, District Engineer John D. Bushby, said yesterday.

Mr. Bushby said his office had received a petition with 337 signatures asking that the light be taken down and relocated at the Six Mile House intersection of Route 40 with State Routes 49 and 53.

He pointed out that the signal was bought and installed by the owners of the shopping center under a State Roads Commission permit so that traffic into and out of the big center could be controlled.

Mr. Bushby said he does recognize the traffic condition at the intersection, and a similar but lesser problem at the intersection of U. S. 40 and Camp Ground Road.

He has asked the chief of the SRC's Bureau of Traffic to make a study to determine the best way to regulate traffic at both points.

"It is obvious that congestion occurs only at times of peak traffic when persons are traveling to and from work, and occasionally on Friday or Saturday when the commercial establishments in this area attract large volumes of people," he said.

Mr. Bushby said the situation "is by no means an isolated condition, but is only new to this specific location because of the very recent commercial development."

In other areas including Cumberland, where heavy traffic must be accommodated in a short time, "the flow of traffic is limited by the ability of the system to absorb it" even with electric signals, Mr. Bushby said.

Local Woman Faces Trial In Larceny

A local 36-year-old woman has indicated she wants an immediate trial in connection with the grand larceny of $182 from the Rexall Drug Store in LaVale recently, the state's attorney's office reported yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Katherine Nesbit, 111 South Allegany Street, was given a hearing before Harold E. Naughton, substitute trial magistrate who set bond at $500 pending action of the grand jury of the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The woman was released when property bond was posted.

Yesterday, State's Attorney James S. Getty indicated the woman will waive indictment and a trial by jury and ask for an immediate trial on a criminal information which would be filed by his office.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, said the woman admitted taking the sum of money from the safe of the store.

Later she said she tossed the money in a jar under a delivery truck of the business establishment, he added.

Mrs. Nesbit was an employe of the store at the time the money was taken, said Sgt. Baker.

Illegal Guns Are Cited By Local Agents

Fine, Prison Term Can Be Imposed

Local investigators of the Alcohol and Tobacco Division of the Treasury Department are reminding residents of the area that certain types of shotguns and rifles which may be in their possession are in violation of the National Firearms Act.

Ernest A. Breakfield Jr. and John L. Burkholder explained that a shotgun with a barrel less than 18 inches in length, a rifle with a barrel less than 16 inches, or any altered shotgun or rifle with an overall length of less than 26 inches, is in violation of the law.

Some time ago while the agents were on a routine investigation at a home in Garrett County, they saw a "sawed off" shotgun hanging on the wall of the dwelling.

The gun was taken into custody and was abandoned by the owner, who will not be prosecuted, they said.

Yesterday one of the investigators was in Eckhart and thought he detected two such guns.

Some owners shorten the barrel of a gun for killing snakes, a practice not recommended by the investigators. They said illegal possession of such guns carries a fine of not more than $2,000 and a prison term of not more than five years or both.

The investigators believe there are quite a few of these guns in the area and that the owners may be unaware of the seriousness of the violation. Those with this type firearm are asked to turn it in at the office at the Post Office here and avoid prosecution.

Additional information may be obtained by calling their office, PA 4-9323, between 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Officials Get Shires' Thanks For Support

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners has received a letter from T. Donald Shires, a member of the County Board of Education, expressing thanks for the commissioners' helpfulness in the educational program of the county.

Last Friday the county commissioners agreed to make up the $7,787.58 deficit incurred by the Allegany Community College here in its first year of operation.

Mr. Shires, who wrote as an individual rather than as a spokesman for the board, wrote as follows:

"Please accept my personal thanks for your helpfulness in connection with the educational program for Allegany County. As you well know, any progress made is largely dependent upon financing. Without hesitation you recently agreed to make up the deficit incurred in the first year's operation of Allegany Community College and I fully appreciate your action.

"Your board was also forward looking in your approval of the proposed college budget for 1962-63. Your action in improving the pay of teachers and providing other funds for education is to be commended.

"I suppose no group ever receives all the money it desires and can use but in your action you have demonstrated a willingness to support progress as well as to protect the interest of all taxpayers."

CUF Invites Non-Member Units To Join

Could Be Included In Next Drive Goal

The admissions committee of County United Fund, Inc., again has invited non-participating agencies to join up in time to have their budgets included in CUF's 1962 campaign goal.

Thirty-one agencies already participating in CUF are now preparing preliminary estimated budgets for operating funds for 1963 for use by CUF's allocations committee.

W. Fred Mowen, chairman of the admissions committee, has written to non-member agencies asking for meetings with their boards of directors to discuss CUF affiliation and to set up allocations.

He said participation would relieve agency staffs and volunteer workers of fund-raising responsibilities, thus allowing them to spend more time on service, and would make available more funds for service by eliminating the costs of fund-raising.

Letters went to the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, Mineral County section of the West Virginia Division of American Cancer Society, Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, Allegany County League for Crippled Children (Allegany County Chapter of National Foundation), Mineral County section of West Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Muscular Dystrophy Association of Maryland, Allegany-Garrett County Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Maryland Association for Mental Health, and Allegany County section of the Maryland Chapter of National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Mr. Mowen reminded the agencies that 90 chapters of the American Cancer Society already are affiliated with united funds, as are 306 chapters of the American Heart Association, 602 chapters of the National Association of Mental Health Funds, 114 chapters of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, 130 chapters of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, and 48 chapters of the National Foundation (March of Dimes)

Joyner Reviews Planning Study

Members of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission discussed plans to appoint an urban renewal commission of five members within the next week or ten days at a meeting last night in the mayor's office at City Hall.

Also discussed was a recommendation of the commission to exercise its option to build an alley on city owned property from Bedford Street to City Furniture Company alley.

Representatives of the Western Maryland Railway Company, Karl Bachman of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Lucile Roeder, city finance commissioner, attended the meeting.

John R. Joyner, resident planner, submitted draft copies of a population and economic study of Cumberland to members of the commission for review and recommendations. He also discussed the basic ideas contained in the draft copy.

Juvenile Court At Circuit Level Backed

State Bar Group Recommends Step

A committee report recommending that jurisdiction over juvenile causes be transferred from the magistrate courts to the circuit courts in Montgomery and Allegany counties will come before the State Bar Association at its 67th annual meeting starting today at the Hotel Traymore in Atlantic City, N. J.

The report of the committee on juvenile courts and delinquency notes that with the exception of Montgomery and Allegany counties, all jurisdictions in the state now handle juvenile cases at the Circuit Court level.

The committee's recommendation reads as follows:

"It is recommended that the association endorse legislation to transfer jurisdiction over juvenile causes from the magistrates courts to the circuit courts in Montgomery County and Allegany County; in the former county, such transfer being in conjunction with the creation of an additional judgeship in the Circuit Court.

"It is recommended that the president of the association appoint a special committee to study the advantages and feasibility of, and the procedures required to effect, creation of a family court as a part of the circuit court in some jurisdictions, for the purpose of handling on a specialized basis all matters, criminal, equity and juvenile, concerned with family relationships."

The committee then offers four lengthy paragraphs of observations. The committee believes that the importance and nature of the juvenile court work required Circuit Court jurisdictions for the assurance of continuity needed in the administration of these cases. It is then pointed out that except for Montgomery and Allegany, all jurisdictions in Maryland now handle juvenile cases at the Circuit Court level.

In Montgomery County, the large urban population makes the Juvenile Court a full time job for the judge. As a result the committee believes that it is appropriate that a new Circuit Court judgeship be created in Montgomery County.

"The highly successful juvenile court operation heretofore carried on in Montgomery County at the magistrate's court level could presumably be shifted intact to the Circuit Court thus receiving the assurances of continuity of administration possible in that court," the committee states.

The committee goes on to state that the organization of a family court to handle all cases involving the family relationship could be a great service to the administration of justice. This would be a specialized court, but would cover both civil and criminal matters in this specialty.

Of criminal cases, desertion, and non-support, assault of family members, illegitimate paternity and the like would be included. Of the equity cases, divorce, custody, adoption, guardianship would come under this particular court. Juvenile causes would also be handled. A single probation service would serve the court.

The committee also takes note of the action of the Maryland Judicial Conference in setting aside a portion of the conference to consider juvenile court matters. Such conferences of the judges administering the juvenile courts throughout the state are bound to be helpful in establishing uniform procedures and sharing new ideas, according to the committee.

Finally, the committee noted with particular approval the extremely successful youth activities program being carried on in Wicomico County.

Frank T. Gray of Baltimore is chairman of the committee which submitted this report. Some Allegany County attorneys, critical of the recommendation, note that no Western Maryland lawyers were on the committee. The only one from the Sixth Congressional District was Alfred D. Noyes, who is magistrate for juvenile causes in Montgomery County.

Some Allegany County attorneys contend that the juvenile court here functions properly when an attorney is the magistrate for juvenile causes. The last three, Morris Barron, Fred H. Anderson and Louis A. Fatkin, all have been attorneys.
